Davison Brought Over Copy of the Treaty and Showed It to Root

JOHN T. MILLIKEN PERSONALTY INVENTORIED AT $7,000,000

NO LIBERTY BONDS LISTED IN HOLDINGS OF CHEMICAL MAN

Trust Officer Filing Papers Says Wealth May Reach an Amount Vastly in Excess of Sum Named.

FIRST ESTIMATE OF VALUE WAS $20,000,000

About $11,000,000 in Stocks Scheduled as Being of "Worthless, Doubtful or Contingent Value."

John T. Milliken, who died Jan. 31 at his home, 35 Portland place, left a personal estate of $7,155,319.25, according to an inventory filed in the Probate Court today by Irving V. Barth, attorney for the executors, the National Bank of Commerce, John G. Lonsdale and Dr. H. W. Loeb.

Virgil M. Harris, trust officer of the Bank of Commerce, stated, however, that the executors will undoubtedly avail themselves of the privilege of filing supplemental inventories.

Harris adds that the par value of all stocks was given in the inventory, whereas the actual market value may be in some instances less than par and in some instances more than par, and certain bonds, stocks, notes and accounts were listed as being worthless or of doubtful, contingent or little value, and it cannot be known to what extent these may swell the total.

"In the final analysis," he stated, "the value of the estate may reach an amount vastly in excess of the sum mentioned."

Harris, shortly after Milliken's death, had estimated the value of the estate at $20,000,000.

No Liberty Bonds Listed.

The inventory does not disclose that Milliken held any Liberty Bonds or bonds of any other character.

Items in the recapitulation are: Notes, $11,620.39; accounts, $4,942.81; stocks of corporations, at par, $7,100,200; cash, $15,998.69; chattels, $15,993; memberships, $450; claims, $6,114.36.

Milliken's holdings of railroad stocks were of a par value of $5,945,000, of which $4,105,000 was in the Missouri Pacific.

The stocks include: $50,000 American Telegraph and Telephone Co., $120,000 Santa Fe Railroad, $60,000 Brooklyn Union Gas Co., $50,000 Canadian Pacific Railroad, $10,000 Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, $890,000 Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad; $190,000 Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad; $165,000 Lehigh Valley Railroad, $25,000 Mechanics-American National Bank of St. Louis, $1,480,000 voting trust certificates of preferred stock of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, $2,625,000 voting trust certificates of the common stock of the Missouri Pacific, $50,000 Norfolk & Western Railroad, $105,000 Pennsylvania Railroad, $15,000 St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co., $803,000 National Bank of Commerce, $250,000 Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad, $20,000 Leed Mining Co.

About $6,414,000 stocks are listed as worthless or of doubtful value.

The notes in the estate include $120,000 given by employes for stock in the Milliken Chemical Co., to be paid out of profits. These were: A. D. Smith, P. L. Painter and G. S. Forcier, $30,000 each; F. P. Maid, $15,000; J. S. Chartrand, E. L. Tolson and R. Geiger, $5000 each.

Real Estate Listed.

The real estate listed includes residence property in St. Louis at 1150 Belt avenue and 35 Portland place, the site of the Milliken Chemical Co. at Third and Cedar streets, the estate at Crescent, St. Louis County; property at Elkton, Ky.; 2614 acres in Hidalgo County, Tex., and 33 patented mining claims in Lawrence County, S. D.

Milliken's estate was bequeathed to his family during their lives and finally is to go to Washington University. The chief beneficiaries are his widow, Mrs. Mary Patrick Milliken; his son, John T. Milliken, Jr., and his daughters, Misses Harriet and Emily Milliken. The will specifies that the amount paid monthly to the son shall not exceed $300, unless the trustees are convinced that he has habits and business ability to justify larger allotment.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER MAN DISAPPEARS FROM PARIS HOTEL

E. M. House is Asked to Investigate Mysterious Absence of a Former Post-Dispatch Correspondent.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 10.—E. M. House, one of the United States peace delegates, has been asked to investigate the disappearance of Robert Minor, a newspaper correspondent and cartoonist, who was taken from his hotel, presumably by French officials. The American embassy was asked by Lincoln Steffens to inquire about Minor, but no information was forthcoming. Consequently Mr. House was requested to investigate.

Minor recently came to France from Germany and was in Russia for many months preceding last December. He was formerly employed by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the New York World and the Philadelphia Public Ledger. His trunk is still in his hotel, but his papers have been removed. Minor's disappearance followed his attendance of a syndicalist railway employes' meeting, where he talked with the committee in charge.

BERGER'S RIGHT TO SIT IN HOUSE TAKEN UP BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Democrat's Brief Charges Socialist, Under 20-Year Sentence, Sought to Poison Public Mind.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Victor Berger's right to sit in the House of Representatives while under a 20-year sentence for violation of the espionage act was brought to an issue today before the House Elections Committee.

Running on the Socialist ticket Berger defeated Joseph P. Carney, Democrat, and William H. Stafford, Republican, in November, 1918. He then was under indictment and subsequently was convicted but is at liberty on bail pending an appeal to the Supreme Court.

The committee had before it today a brief filed by Harry R. McLogan, counsel for Carney, setting forth that the latter is entitled to represent the Fifth Wisconsin District and that Berger is disqualified and ineligible. The brief charged that from the date of America's entrance into the war until the date of the November, 1918, elections, Berger as editor of the Milwaukee Leader, had been "injecting subtle poison into the public mind with intent to interfere with the operation or success of the military or naval forces of the United States."

SALOON MEN WOULD KEEP OPEN ON SUNDAY UNTIL JULY 1

Five saloonkeepers were fined sums ranging from $25 to $100 for violating the Sunday closing law by Excise Commissioner Lewis today. In each case they were ordered to pay the money to the Armenian relif fund.

The saloon men, in their defense, said that inasmuch as their places will probably be closed permanently on July 1, under wartime prohibition, they felt that some privileges should be allowed them, such as permission to sell some of their stock on Sunday and thus aid in disposing of their goods. Commissioner Lewis told them that the law would be strictly enforced until the last.

The defenders and the fines imposed were: Henry Kulage, 3953 West Kossuth avenue, $100; Joseph Fogarty, 3100 Rutger street, $100; David E. Noonan, 2248 Madison street, $50; Louis Klepper, 2107 South Broadway, $25, and Ben Brominsky, 5901 Laura avenue, $25.

REDDISH'S FATHER ALIVE APRIL 26, GARAGE MAN SAYS

Testimony Conflicts With Theory Murder Was Committed During Night, for Which Son Had Alibi.

BROTHER OF DOCTOR TELLS OF DISCOVERY

Describes Visiting Father's Home Twice Between Time of Killing and First Finding Slain Man's Body.

Stephen M. Reddish was alive and on the streets of Jerseyville, Ill., Saturday morning, April 26, according to testimony given today by Ira W. Day, a garage proprietor, at the preliminary hearing of Reddish's son, Dr. Horace A. Reddish, who is accused of murdering his father. The theory heretofore has been that Stephen Reddish was murdered the night of April 25 or early the morning of April 26.

Dr. Reddish offered as an alibi that he spent the night of April 25 at the home of John W. Mackelden in St. Louis and that he was in bed at the Mackelden home until 5:45 a. m., April 26.

First Time Statement Made.

In an effort to break down this alibi the prosecution had suggested that it would have been possible for Dr. Reddish to go from St. Louis to Jerseyville and return to St. Louis to go back to bed at the Mackelden home before 5:45 a. m.

Day had told before of having driven Stephen Reddish home in his automobile, arriving there before midnight, April 25, but his statement as to seeing him next morning was first made at today's hearing.

"Did you ever see Stephen Reddish, after taking him home the night of April 25?" he was asked.

"Yes," he said, "I saw him the next morning in front of the bank building, talking with Calvin Carroll."

A revolver and holster covered by a pawn ticket found in Dr. Reddish's room in an Alton hotel were shown to Day. He said they resembled a revolver and holster which Dr. Reddish showed him in the presence of five witnesses about a month before Stephen Reddish was murdered.

C. W. Simmons, whose home is four doors west of the Stephen Reddish home, testified that between midnight and 1 a. m. April 26 he heard two shots apparently a short distance to the east and a few minutes later he heard three or four shots. He said he also heard a noise as if someone were choking or struggling for breath. He did not investigate these sounds.

One of the principal witnesses at yesterday's hearing was Clarence G. Reddish, cashier of the Jersey State Bank, a brother of Dr. Reddish. Testimony of all the witnesses thus far has tallied closely with news ac-

LODGE SAW TEXT WHILE ROOT HAD IT, SENATORS ARE TOLD IN LEAK INQUIRY

Morgan House Banker and War Red Cross Chief Testifies He Let No One but Republican Leader See Copy.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Elihu Root, former Secretary of State, appearing today at his own suggestion before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee investigating how copies of the peace treaty got into the hands of persons in New York, testified that for several weeks he had had a copy, given to him by Henry P. Davison of the Morgan Banking House, and the former president of the War Council of the Red Cross.

Senator Lodge said the copy he had seen was shown to him by Root. When Root was excused, Davison was called.

Davison said he brought a copy of the treaty to America but that it never had been read by any man except himself and Senator Root.

After Davidson had been questioned for a half hour, he was excused and J. P. Morgan took the stand. Morgan said he had not seen a copy of the treaty.

Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank, followed Morgan on the stand, testifying that he never had seen the treaty.

Root Makes Statement.

Root remarked that the German Government had made the treaty public in detail, adding:

"It thereupon became public property. There are two parties to the negotiations. Either party has the right to make it public. No longer can any diplomatic secrecy attach. The German Government, having the full right to make public this paper, made it public and it is public. I should be inclined to resent any suggestion from anybody," Root added sharply, "that I am not entitled to it, and to use it as I see fit, which I propose to do."

Referring to the Red Cross work of Davison and his own interest in the Red Cross, Root said:

"Mr. Davison's possession was no matter of idle curiosity, but of official duty on the part of the man who is abandoning his great business and giving his great powers to organize and execute the great benefit upon the country with credit to himself."

Schiff Knows "Nothing."

Chairman Lodge, at the opening of the hearing, read a telegram from Jacob Schiff, saying he knew "absolutely nothing directly or indirectly" regarding the treaty, and then called Root to the witness chair, explaining that he appeared voluntarily and had requested to be heard.

"Publication of the desire of the committee to learn how copies of the treaty reached this country," said Root, in beginning his statement, "led me to feel it was proper, if not a duty, for me to come here and give the committee certain knowledge on the subject, which I have.

"I have a copy of that so-called treaty, have had it for several weeks. It was sent to me by H. P. Davison, chairman of the International Red Cross League. I stand upon my right to have it. I assert the entire propriety of his giving it to me. He had it because of his legitimate interests in the Red Cross involved in the treaty."

Root said he understood Davison had obtained the copy in Paris in connection with Red Cross affairs and brought it away with him, "there being at that time no injunction against bringing copies to the United States." It was not a secret document," continued Root; "parts of it, notably the covenant of the league of nations, had been published."

"Not Stolen Goods."

"Then I gather," Senator Knox interjected, "that you do not consider yourself in possesion of stolen goods, obtained by bribery, as has been charged on the Senate floor?"

"I repel any suggestion," Root replied, with some show of feeling. "I feel a sense of strong resentment to repel such a suggestion from any source. Nothing could be more baseless than such a suggestion."

"I say Mr. Davison, with an unselfish devotion beyond all praise, had for two years been putting at the service of the country an ability and a labor we can not be too grateful for, and; while still in Europe after two years of that service, it became his duty to become familiar with relation to the position the Red Cross was to assume to the world, superseding, in all likelihood, the Geneva convention. I was deeply obliged to him, because I was deeply interested in the topic, which it was more convenient to study from a printed copy."

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking Democrat of the committee, pointed out that the inquiry was ordered to look into charges by Senators Lodge and Borah. He read the remarks by the two Senators in the Senate, quoting Borah's statement that interests "peculiarly interested" had copies. A discussion among committee members and several sharp exchanges followed. Senator Lodge said Senator Hitchcock had charged in the Senate that the copy he (Mr. Lodge) had seen was obtained by "bribery and corruption."

"As a matter of fact," said Senator Lodge, "the copy I saw was the one shown me my Mr. Root."

Root said he believed secrecy was not imposed until Davison left Paris.

"At the time this paper was sent to me I did not know and I judge he did not know of this injunction," he said.

Root thought the United States had 1400 men on the payroll at Paris and of these probably 200 or 300 had copies of the treaty. Numerous financial experts, he added, had to be consulted.

Nobody but a lunatic would try to draw the treaty without the aid of these experts," said Root, recalling that Thomas W. Lamont, Bernard Baruch and others had assisted. Root thought it unfortunate that men of position should be "blackened by suspicion" because of their service to the Government.

Senator New, Republican, Indiana, asked whether Root regarded it "legitimate" for the Senate to request a copy.

"Undoubtedly," Root replied.

"We have contended that the Senate is entitled to a copy," said Senator Borah. "Do you regard that as a correct position?"

"I do. I think every American citizen was entitled to see a copy of the paper made public by the German Government."

"Reasonable and Wise."

Senator Pitman, Democrat, Nevada, asked Root whether he thought it right to request that distribution of the treaty be withheld. Root thought that "quite reasonable and wise."

"I do think," he added, "it would have been a wise and appropriate course to keep the Senate advised from time to time about the progress of the negotiations, but I think when it appeared there might be changes it was quite wise to say, 'Don't distribute this now.'" Senator Harding, Republican, Ohioan, remarked that some newspapers were saying the treaty text did not correspond in some respects with the summary.

"I didn't notice anything which I thought important not in the summary," replied Root. Root said he had not studied some of the European provisions very carefully, however, as he "didn't sympathize with our mixing up with all the little quarrels of Europe."

"The copy he saw was dated April 30, and bore the imprint of 'home labor organization.'"

"Do you think," asked Senator Brandige, "any damage was done to the negotiation of the treaty by its publication in the Congressional Record?"

"I think no damage could have been done," replied Root, "unless it was through withdrawing the attention of the Senate from the various other important matters awaiting action."

Not Incumbent Upon Wilson.

Senator Smith, Democrat, Arizona, asked whether it would have been proper for the President to send the treaty to the Senate if he had agreed to keep it secret.

"I don't think it was legally incumbent upon him to send the treaty to the Senate," replied Root, "but I shouldn't be deeply impressed by any agreement made with other countries about when he would read it to the Senate. He is the sole judge.

"Of course, there was a misunderstanding," he said, adding that after the German Government had made the treaty public, it was no longer secret and "could not be made so by all the powers on earth."

When Root was asked if he thought President Wilson had acted properly in not consulting the Senate more closely, he said:

"The President exercised his constitutional power and I do not want to criticise him. It would have facilitated public business and made

THREE SEAPLANES ARRIVE HERE AFTER TRIP FROM CAIRO

Naval Aviators Flew Between 85 and 90 Miles an Hour Up Mississippi.

The three United States Navy seaplanes of the anticubmarine flotillla alighted in the Mississippi above Eads Bridge at 11:50 this morning, following a flight of one hour and 54 minutes from Cairo, Ill., a distance of nearly 200 miles by water. This distance was shortened somewhat by cutting off some of the bends in the river, and the flyers said they made 85 to 90 miles an hour.

Lieut. (junior grade) Henry T. Stanley of Lynn, Mass., in charge of the flight, executed a high spiral over Eads Bridge, and alighted near the Union Electric plant at Ashley street. The others, flaying farther inland, over the wharf, alighted nearer the bridge, and all tied up near the bridge pier. The planes hav an alighting speed of 50 miles an hour.

The tow other planes were piloted by Ensign R. W. Arthur of Havre de Grace, Md., and Ensign William S. Grooch of El Paso, Tex. Lieut. Stanley was accompanied by Chief Mechanic's Mate Bohn, Ensign Grooch by Chief Mechanic's Mate L. H. Peacock, and Ensign Arthur by Chief M. M. O'Brien.

The planes weigh three tons each when loaded for flight. Each ahs a mounting for a machine gun at the pilot's seat and two bomb rafts, under the lower wings, each carrying a 165-pound bomb, capable of breaking open a submarine within a distance of 75 feet. All the planes have radio outfits with trailing antennae wires.

The planes will fly to Chicago, probably next Monday, and will return probably Wednesday.

The flotilla, consisting of the U. S. S. Isabel, a destroyer type, the United States Navy submarine K-5 and two submarine chasers, started from Cairo at 5:45 o'clock this morning, to run to St. Louis by daylight only. Its run probably will take two days and a half, the officers said, bringing it to St. Louis Friday afternoon or evening. It is to stay throught next week. A third submarine chaser, which came in advance of the flotilla, is now here.

ORDINANCE CLOSING GROCERIES DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Police Judge Mix today sustained a demurrer to the ordinance recently passed by the Board of Aldermen requiring meat shops, groceries and delicatessens to remain closed on Sunday, and declared the measure was unconstitutional in that it was class legislation.

The court's action was taken in the cases of the following proprietors of delicatessen stores, who were charged with violating the provisions of the ordinance: Sam Brownstein, 2041 Biddle street; Harry Sokolik, 1668 Wash street; Abraham Sidell, 711 Biddle steet; Sam Fleischman, 4424 Easton avenue, and Annie Rubin, 1405 Morgan street.

The defendants were represented by Hugh K. Wagner and Fred Weisman, who offered the demurrers. Judge Mix, in sustaining them, said that the ordinance was unconstitutional because section 3 defines meat shops, groceries and delicatessens as belonging to the same class, yet section 5 attempts to make an exception in favor of delicatessens by authorizing them to remain open between 3 and 6 p. m. on Sunday. Other sections of the bill, the court held, imposed burdens on meat shops which were not imposed on delicatessens.

The City Counselor appealed the decision to the Court of Criminal Correction.

POSTAL SAYS YOUNGER WORKERS HAVE QUIT IN SEVERAL CITIES

Western Union at Most Points Says It Has Full Force—Nearly All Mackay and Postal Operators Go Out at Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 11.—The nation-wide strike of union commercial telegraphers became effective at 7 a. m. today. Four hours afterward dispatches showed that a number of operators employed by the Postal Telegraph Co. had gone out in several cities. Western Union officials in most cities maintained that they had a full force at work. Nearly all the operators of the Mackay and Postal companies at Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston, Tex., went out.

The strike call, issued by S. J. Konenkamp, international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, affected the telegraph operators of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies and the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. and a number of smaller companies.

Union officials estimated that 60,000 telegraphers would leave their keys during the day, and that on June 16 more than 100,000 electrical workers would join the strike, while officials of the telegraph companies asserted that no such numbers of employes were involved.

Serious Effect Denied.

Western Union officials said that only a few of their employes were members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, and that business over their lines would not be materially affected by the strike.

Konenkamp said that it probably would be two or three days before the full strength of the strike was known. Reports indicated, he said, that men were going out steadily.

An hour after the strike began the Western Union officials here said they had not been affected. They showed a newspaper man through their operating room, where many men were at work. The Postal officials here said that they expected their older men to stick, but that some of the younger men might go out.

Pickets at the Postal here asked other employes to quit, in sympathy with operators. There was a small disturbance, in which police interfered. Policemen told one picket that they would give him two hours to get out of town.

Some Western Union messengers announced that they were on strike.

The issues involved in the strike include the right to organize and bargain collectively, wages and working conditions.

President Konenkamp established headquarters here and announced that he would direct the strike from this city.

At a meeting of telegraphers early today "peaceful picketing" was decided on and at 7 o'clock pickets were placed around the general offices of the companies in this city.

A dispatch from Omaha, Neb., early today which stated the telegraphers in the Western Union and Postal offices walked out at midnight later was denied, and it was stated by officials of the companies that none of their employes had quit work.

E. W. Collins, general superintendent of the Postal, said two hours after the strike began that about 30 per cent of his men here were out, mostly the younger men. He said there had been some intimidation.

At the Chicago Board of Trade it was announced that Postal wire service was greatly curtailed.

"We are operating 100 per cent," declared an official of the Western Union Telegraph Co., after receiving reports from points in this district, which includes Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. "Our proof is the fact that we are ready to accept all business offered."

"Two thousand seven hundred workers will be on the streets by night in this district," said S. J. Konenkamp. "In Chicago alone 500 are already on strike. The number will be nearly doubled by night."

First reports to the Associated Press from a score of central west cities and towns failed to show that the strike had brought serious results. Both sides admitted that the Central West, and especially Chicago, is the storm center of the strike.

"We can operate on a normal basis when the police have cleared away the agitators about our building and thus permitted men to come to work," Superintendent Collins of the Postal said.

Messengers joined the Postal strikers. A number of slight disturbances occurred about the Western Union and Postal offices, when pickets and workers clashed. The Western Union requested police protection after a number of these outbreaks.

Postal operators were entirely absent from the Board of Trade here today and the Western Union force there was reduced to about one half normal.

At Los Angeles, it was announced by L. I. Marshall, first international vice president of the union, that operators of the Federal Telegraph Co., a Pacific Coast corporation, would not be ordered out, as a verbal agreement satisfactory to both sides had been reached.

Would Call Out Press Men.

President Konenkamp declared the strike would be won if it were necessary to call out brokers' and leased wire operators, including press association operators. Some press associations have contracts with their operators expiring July 1.

F. A. Davis, district head of the brokers' division of the union, sent a notice to the brokers advising them to have the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. sign up with the union unless they wanted their wires paralyzed.

Konenkamp said more lockouts by the Western Union Telegraph Co. had taken place yesterday, bringing the total for the last three days up to 2915 union workers already idle. He said that as a result of the strike and lockouts in the 3outheastern quarter of the country the Western Union has resorted to the "suitcase route" for delivery of messages subject to indefinite delay, according to his reports from Washington.

There were no additions of companies signing the agreement with the union except the Montgomery Telephone and Telegraph Co. of Hillsboro, Ill., Konenkamp said.

Business Appears as Usual at Offices Here as Strike Begins

Business appeared as usual at the central offices of both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies in St. Louis today shortly after 7 o'clock, the hour set by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union for their St. Louis members to cease work in conjunction with a nation-wide strike.

G. R. Alger, Chief Operator of the Western Union, said that less than five per cent of his company's employes had not reported for duty.

RENNER IN NOTE COMPLAINS OF THE HARD CONDITIONS

Austrian Envoy Says Country Is in "Despair"—Council of Four Considers the Communication.

WILSON'S REPARATIONS PLAN IS REJECTED

President Fights Hard for a Fixed Sum, but France Objects and No Change Will Be Made in Section.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 11.—Karl Renner, Austrian Chancellor and head of the Austrian peace mission, has sent a letter to the peace conference complaining of the "hard conditions" imposed upon his country, which he says is "overwhelmed with despair," and pointing out the complexity of the Austrian frontier question. The letter will be laid before the council of four today.

The Austrian note complains strongly against the dismemberment of Austria, particularly the separation of Bohemia and the Tyrol. The note says that Austria cannot survive the loss of her industries. It is added that the Austrian delegation is prepared to send immediately observations on the territorial clauses of the peace terms.

Little progress is being made in the drafting of the missing articles of the treaty with Austria, owing to the greater urgency of completing negotiations with the Germans. One American official who is working on the Austrian treaty, asked when the rest of the summary would be available, replied: "There may not be any more. The Austrians have more now apparently than they are able to sign."

The same waiting attitude is observed regarding the Hungarian treaty, parts of which are identical with the German and Austrian treaties and are already in print. A tentative draft of the frontiers of Hungary has been prepared for submission to the council of four, but there is no expectation that the council will begin serious consideration of the Hungarian settlement until the expected changes in the Austrian and German pacts are out of the way.

Hope of Early Agreement.

Official announcement was made after the meeting of the Council of Four yesterday afternoon that there was hope of comparatively early decision on the reply to Germany. It was said an agreement in principle, was reached on the reparations clauses, to the effect that no definite sum to be paid by Germany will be fixed in the treaty and that the question would be left as virtually in the original draft. In the French circles it was said that the treaty as again submitted to the Germans will be much less altered than has been generally supposed.

The reparations portion of the reply, which has been completed and has reached the printer, does not fix the total sum which the Germans must pay. The text of the treaty itself is not changed, but the reply contains assurances to Germany regarding the method of the reparations process, explaining that it is a workable arrangement.

President Wilson fought strenuously to include a fixed total sum in the reparations clause and the close of the discussion leaves him unchanged, it is said, in the belief that that is the best plan. It is understood, however, that the President said that inasmuch as Premier Clemenceau had insisted to the contrary and also that he had signed the original draft, he would sign the reply as formulated.

Americans Suggest Changes.

The American members of the Commission on Harbors and Waterways have discovered, upon restudy of the treaty, many points in which they believe the waterways section can be improved and there are indications that a split report may be made to the peace conference.

The reply will refuse the German request for a mandate for the former German colonies, it was learned today.

In spite of the attempt to speed up the work of the conference, reports are still unavailable from commissions dealing with Schleswig-Holstein, the eastern boundaries of Germany, the Belgian frontier and waterways and harbors. The fluid state of the proceedings makes it difficult to accept the optimistic statements of various members of delegations.

Premier Clemenceau is especially firm in his refusal to agree to the admission of Germany to the league of nations immediately. The French hold that they understand German psychology better than the allies and realize what the increasing arrogance of the Germans during the last few weeks means. They say they appreciate how much this arrogance would be increased if the peace conference should yield to the German demands for immediate admission to the league. The French, it is understood, are willing that the Germans should be admitted later, but insist that this admission must not be in compliance with what they term "Germany's present haughty demand."

Text of Knox Resolution in Opposition to the League

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 10.

THE text of the resolution for a Senate declaration against the league of nations covenant as now drawn, introduced today by Senator Knox, is as follows:

"Whereas, the Congress of the United States, in declaring, pursuant to its exclusive authority under the Constitution, the existence of a state of war between the United States and the Imperial German Government, solemnly affirmed that the Imperial Government has so 'committed repeated acts of war against the Government and the people of the United States' that a state of war had been thrust upon them by that Government, and thereupon formally pledged the whole military and national resources of the country 'to bring the conflict to a successful termination,' and

"Whereas, the Senate of the United States, being a coequal part of the treaty-making power of this Government, and therefore coequally responsible for any treaty which is concluded and ratified, is deeply concerned over the draft treaty of peace negotiated at Versailles, by which it is proposed to end our victorious war, and is gravely impressed by the fact that its provisions appear calculated to force upon us undesirable and far-reaching covenants inimical to our free institutions, under the penalty that, failing to accept these, we shall continue in a state of war while our co-belligerents shall be at peace and enjoying its blessings; that it is proposed to make us parties to a league of nations, under a plan as to which the people of the United States have had neither time to examine and consider nor opportunity to express regarding it a matured and deliberate judgment;

"Whereas, The treaty may be easily so drawn as to permit the making of immediate peace, leaving the question of the establishment of a league for later determination; and that the treaty, as drawn, contains principles, guarantees and undertakings obliterative of legitimate race and national aspiration, oppressive of weak nations and peoples, and destructive of human progress and liberty; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the Senate of the United States, 1. That it will regard as fully adequate for our national needs and as completely responsive to the duties and obligations we owe to our co-belligerents and to humanity, a peace treaty which shall assure to the United States and its people the attainment of those ends for which we entered the war, and that it will look with disfavor upon all treaty provisions going beyond these ends.

"2. That, since the people of the United States have themselves determined and provided in their Constitution the only ways in which the Constitution may be amended, and since amendment by treaty stipulation is not one of the methods which the people has so prescribed, the treaty-making power of the United States has no authority to make a treaty which in effect amends the Constitution of the United States and the Senate of the United States cannot advise and consent to any treaty provisions which would have such effect, if enforced.

"3. That the Senate advises in accordance with its constitutional right and duty, that the great, paramount, if not sole, duty of the peace conference is quickly to bring all the belligerents a full and complete peace; that, to this end, the treaty shall be so drawn as to permit any nation to reserve without prejudice to itself for future separate and full consideration by its people the question of any league of nations, that neither such an article nor the exercise of the rights reserved thereunder, whether at the time of signature, the time of ratification, or at any other time, shall affect the substance of the obligations of Germany and its co-belligerents under the treaty, nor the validity of signature and ratification on their behalf; and that any indispensable participation by the United States in matters covered by the league covenant shall, pending the entry of the United States into the league, be accomplished through diplomatic commissions which shall be created with full power in the premises.

"4. That this resolution indicates and gives notice of the limits of the present obligations against the United States in which the Senate of the United States is now prepared to acquiesce by consenting to the ratification of a treaty embodying peace conditions that may be found otherwise acceptable to its judgment, and that the adoption by the peace conference of the foregoing reasonable limitations and positions will facilitate the early acceptance of the treaty of peace by the Senate of the United States, will in no wise interfere with the league of nations as between these countries prepared to ratify the treaty without further consideration and will afford such a manifestation of real respect for the wishes of a great people as cannot fail more firmly to cement the friendship already existing between ourselves and our cobelligerents.

"5. That, finally, it shall be the declared policy of our Government, in order to meet fully and fairly our obligations to ourselves and to the world, that the freedom and peace of Europe being again threatened by any Power or combination of Powers, the United States will regard such a situation with grave concern as a menace to its own peace and freedom, will consult with other Powers affected with a view to devising means for the removal of such menace, and will, the necessity arising in the future, carry out the same complete accord and co-operation with our chief co-belligerents for the defense of civilization."

REDDISH'S FATHER ALIVE APRIL 26, GARAGE MAN SAYS

Brother's Testimony.

Clarence Reddish testified that about three weeks before April 30, when Stephen Reddish and his elderly negro housekeeper were found shot to death in different rooms of the Reddish home, Dr. Reddish departed from Jerseyville for St. Louis with his mother and his aunt, Mrs. John W. Mackelden of St. Louis. The following Sunday, he said, Dr. Reddish returned to Jerseyville and got his automobile and took it to St. Louis.

The witness said he last saw his father Friday, April 25. The murder is supposed to have occurred the night of this day or the morning of the next. He recalled that on April 26 a war tank was exhibited in Jerseyville and practically everyone turned out to see it, but he did not see his father in the crowd.

Visited Father's Home.

He told of going to his father's home Monday, April 28, to borrow a lawn mower. When there was no answer to the bell, he said, he went into the house through a rear window which he found open. He did not go upstairs, but he observed there was a fresh bouquet on the dining room table, indicating someone had been there recently. 'He supposed the housekeeper had gone to her home and his father, as was his custom, was visiting one of his farms.

He testified he went back to his father's home the next day, but was not asked for what purpose. On this visit, he said, he again went through the rear window and opened the front door from the inside and found an accumulation of newspapers and mail, the earliest date on which was April 26. The mail and newspapers had not been opened.

Tells of Finding Father.

The next day, April 30, he said, he received a telephone message from his brother, Dr. Reddish, telling him his mother had been injured at the Mineral Springs Hotel in Alton, and asking him to notify his father. He went to his father's home, accompanied by David Beatty, an insurance agent, he said, and going to the second floor he found his father dead in bed, covered, and with his left hand under his head, as though he had been asleep when shot. In another room he found Rachel Cisco's body.

He told of finding his father's strongbox rifled, and papers scattered over the floor. He also found several rubber bands on the floor. It has been his father's custom, he said, to put rubber bands around paper money when he carried it.

After finding the bodies, he said, he called in Dr. H. R. Bohannan, who said Stephen Reddish and the housekeeper apparently had been dead five days. Clarence Reddish was asked where he was on the night of April 25. He said he was in East St. Louis that night and on his return he passed his father's house about 2 a. m. and noticed nothing wrong. His father's estate, he said, was valued at about $150,000. Dr. Reddish, he said, had no income except the proceeds from 40 acres of wheat land owned by his father.

Beatty testified that on the floor of Stephen Reddish's room he found a green and red ribbon, such as a woman might have used, and a china-headed pin about two inches long.

Other witnesses at yesterday's hearing told of the finding of two pawn tickets in Dr. Reddish's room at the Mineral Springs Hotel in Alton. One was for a revolver, and the prosecuting authorities will attempt to prove that the revolver covered by this ticket was the one with which the double murder was committed.

ROOT TESTIFIES HE RECEIVED COPY OF TREATY FROM DAVISON

progress toward a solution of a treaty satisfactory to the American people.

"But it was not his duty?" asked Senator Williams.

"No."

Senator Harding, Republican, Ohio, asked if Senator Root remembered a "public pledge" by which the President was to keep Congress informed of his acitivities abroad?

Davison's Testimony.

"I think I will take refuge in the natural forgetfulness of a witness," said Root, smiling. Root then was excused, and Henry P. Davison took the stand. Chairman Lodge said that Senator Borah, who had suggested calling Davison, would conduct the examination, but Davison asked first to be permitted to "tell the story" in his own way before cross-examination.

"I brought to this country one copy of the proposed treaty," Davison began, "but that copy has never been read by any man except myself and Mr. Root, so far as I know."

Other witnesses in addition to six originally subpenaed, it is said, undoubtedly will be called. Morgan, Vanderlip and Davison are the only ones able to appear today. Thomas W. Lamont, one of those summoned, is said to be in France, while Jacob Schiff asked to be excused on account of ill health. Paul M. Warburg, another of those subpenaed, the committee learned, is in Detroit, and is expected to be heard later.

Knox's Resolution.

Developments today, closely following the introduction by Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, and former Secretary of State, of a resolution to have the Senate declare it could not concur in the league of nations covenant in its present form, are expected to mark an important stage in the bitter contest over the peace treaty and its interwoven league constitution.

Senator Knox, before proposing in his resolution that the Senate give formal notice to the peace conference of opposition to be expected should the peace treaty be submitted for ratification in its present form, drafted his resolution after conference with other league opponents and presented it with the apparent support of those who have led in criticism of the league covenant. He expects to crystallize opposition sentiment as did Senator Lodge with the circulation of the round robin in the closing hours of the last Senate.

While declaring for immediate conclusion of a treaty dealing with the direct issue of the war only, the resolution contains a far-reaching proposal which would lay it down as a policy of the American Government that, whenever the freedom and peace of Europe is threatened, the United States will consider it obligatory to again co-operate in the removal of that menace.

Decision as to acceptance of membership in the league of nations should be left without prejudice to each nation, the resolution declares, for future separate consideration. It also asserts the lack of authority by the treaty-making power of the Government to make a treaty which in effect amends the American Constitution.

Plans to Get Action.

Knox, at whose request the resolution was referred without debate to the Foreign Relations Committee, will attempt to get committee action today or tomorrow, and hopes to bring it up in the Senate for consideration by the end of the week.

Senator Pittman, Democrat, of Nevada, yesterday asked unanimous consent to print in the record without reading a speech by former President Taft advocating the league. Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, interposed an objection, and Senator Pittman then put in the speech by reading it.

In comment on the treaty text put into the record there are three topics about which interest centers. They are the provisions affecting Shantung and the Saar Valley, and the section providing for an international labor control. Several Senators opposing the treaty say the text reveals that the right of self-determination in Shantung and the Saar has been more closely curtailed than has been apparent heretofore, and that the international labor section goes much further than they had expected.

MAN IN JAIL SAVES WILSON'S RANCH BY PAYING BACK TAXES

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 11.—George A. Fox, convicted of obtaining money by false pretenses, prevented the sale of President Wilson's ranch in Riverside County for delinquent taxes by paying them himself, it became known last night when Fox, in the county jail, received a telegram of thanks from J. P. Tumulty, the President's secretary.

"I considered it my patriotic duty," was the only comment Fox made. The tax bill was $37.21. The property is 61 acres in extent and was purchased before Mr. Wilson became President.

TELEGRAPH STRIKE ON; COMPANIES SAY FEW MEN HAVE QUIT

He led a Post-Dispatch reporter through the operating room of the offices at Sixth and Olive streets, saying that 50 operators was normal force at that hour. It appeared that that many men were at work. Alger said that the company "had more men than we need," due, it was presumed, to extra men appearing in anticipation of employment because of a strike.

W. W. Morrison, General Manager of the Postal, whose offices are at Fourth and Olive streets, said that six of 20 operators due to report at 8:30 a. m., for the day's busies' shift, had not reported at that hour. He said that he did not expect that more than 25 to 35 per cent of the company's 125 operators employed in St. Louis, would obey the strike order.

"Our employes have no grievance against our company," Morrison said. "I have been assured that any who did not report were adopting that course merely because they were in sympathy with the effort of their fellow workers to compel the Western Union Co. to meet their terms. The Postal company always has recognized and never has discriminated against the Commercial Telegraphers' Union."

This statement apparently was corroborated by R. F. Wise, president of the St. Louis district of the union, who declared that telegraphers here had made an effort to prevent the strike call affecting the Postal and that he had telegraphed Clarence H. Mackey, president of the Postal, yesterday, urging him to meet the wage demands in time to prevent the strike affecting his company.

550 Employes in St. Louis.

The Western Union has 550 employes in St. Louis, 400 of whom are employed at the central offices, the remaining 150 being stationed about the city at branch and private offices. Alger said that the majority of the company's employes are members of a union, the Association of Western Union Employes, and that the strike was an effort of President Konnenkamp of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union to substitute his organization for the employes' own.

Alger said that he had received a telegram from the Omaha district, embracing the states of Kansas, part of Missouri, Nebraska, Minnesota and North and South Dakota, declaring that business is proceeding normally. He said that he also had a telegram from Kansas City stating that the effect of the strike is not apparent there.

The Western Union normally handles 700,000 messages a day in and out of St. Louis. A few police who did not seem to have very onerous duties were stationed outside the Western Union main office. There were a few pickets of the strikers there also. They said: "It looks good for the union."

Some Operators Exempted.

The strike order in St. Louis was directed against employes of the Western Union, Postal and the American Telegraph and Telephone companies and included operators employed on telephone lines which are used for telegraph purposes. There are about 25 employes of the Bell Telephone Co. employed in that sort of work at the company's Bomont station. Their refusal to work would not affect local or long distance telephone service.

Operators employed by press associations, railroad telegraphers employed in sending railroad messages, leased wire operators and a majority of operators employed by the Stock and Merchants' Exchanges and employes of the Western Union and Postal employed in newspaper offices were not affected by the order, according to Wise, who said that those men were receiving the pay desired.

G. H. Quermann, General Superintendent of the American Telegraph and Telephone Co., announced that the telegraph operators employed by that company had displayed 100 per cent loyalty to the company. He had messages from Kansas City, Little Rock, Oklahoma City, Joplin, and Garden City, Kansas, to the effect that all operators employed at those, the principal "repeat" stations in the Southwestern District, had reported for work as usual.

A message from the Chicago branch of the Western Union to the office here received at 9:30 a. m., said: "Full force working, and business to all points normal."

STRIKE FAILURE, SAYS PRESIDENT OF WESTERN UNION

Only 121 Operators Out of 40,000 Out in Whole Country, He Declares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Only 166 persons, including 121 operators out of a total of 40,000 employed by the Western Union throughout the country, were absent from duty at noon today, Newcomb Carlton, the company's president, announced in a statement terming "a complete failure" the strike called by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union.

The divisional reports which covered all the large centers in the Western Union service, declared that the wires were clear, and traffic normal, Carlton said. He was without advices, he added, from the smaller offices.

"We are handling business throughout the country without serious interruption anywhere," Carlton stated.

The reports at hand were from New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Atlanta, Dallas and Denver districts, and from headquarters for the maritime provinces.

At the office of the Postal Telegraph Co., Edward Reynolds, general manager, said conditions were satisfactory from the company's standpoint. He added the strike was "not giving us much trouble."

At the Western Union offices it was said that Mr. Carlton had forwarded to Postmaster-General Burleson the reports from the company's divisional headquarters.

R. H. Tucker announced for the Western Union traffic department that reports from Buffalo, Albany, Rochester, Syracuse and Pittsburg were to the effect that there was no trouble at those points.

Percy Thomas, vice president of the union, in charge of headquarters here, said at 11 a. m.:

"Early but incomplete reports received from all over the country indicate that the strike will be a success. I believe that when the strike order becomes effective 90 per cent of the employes will be out.

"Reports from Buffalo say most of the Postal and a good percentage of the Western Union employes did not report for work this morning.

"Not less than 1000 are out in New York."

The first meeting of strikers here today was attended by 200 persons, half of whom were girls. Thomas addressed the meeting.

Postal Officials Admit Serious Effect in Detroit.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, June 11.—It was admitted by officials of the Postal Telegraph Co. that their office here has been seriously affected by the telegraphers' strike. Of a normal staff of 45 or 50 men, it was said only 15 reported for duty this morning. At the Western Union offices, it was said a full force was on duty.

All Mackay and Postal Operators Out at Dallas and Fort Worth.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., June 11.—Every operator employed by the Mackay Telegraph Co. in Dallas and all but one at the Texas Postal Co. left his work this morning responding to the call for a nation-wide strike, according to union leaders. Offices of both of these companies were closed. At the Western Union, 40 operators out of a normal force of approximately 100, did not report for work, union officials said. Messengers at the Western Union and Mackay Telegraph offices also struck but later those at the Western Union returned to work.

Approximately 400 Morse and multiplex operators are employed by the three companies in Dallas.

All operators in the Postal and Mackay Telegraph offices at Fort Worth joined the nation-wide strike this morning. Two at the Western Union struck.

Reports from officers of the three telegraph companies in Galveston were that none of the operators had walked out.

MURPHY OBJECTS TO TEACHERS HE SAYS FOUGHT HIM

Board Member Opposes Reappointment of Two Assistant Superintendents and Two Principals.

SAYS MILLER WILL GET HIS OLD PLACE

Harmony Supposed to Exist in Educational Body Not in Evidence at Last Night's Session.

The "harmony" which has been said to exist in the Board of Education, since the April election, took such a loud and angry tone at last night's meeting, that it could hardly be recognized as harmony at all. It sounded, in fact, just like one of the factional fights that the board used to have last winter.

Richard Murphy, who was reelected to the board by Republican votes after the friends of Superintendent Withers had succeeded in getting his name kept off the Democratic bi-partisan ticket, started the harmony chorus. He objected to the reappointment of two assistant superintendents and two school principals who, he said, had circulated petitions against him in the spring campaign. These were Assistant Superintendents W. J. S. Bryan and C. G. Rathmann and Principals L. M. Dougan, Shaw School, and B. G. Shackelford, Fremont School. He moved that their names be excepted from the list of approved reappointments.

F. X. Hiemenz desired to add the name of Principal J. R. Powell of Soldan High School to the list of those not approved at the time. Powell has been criticised by some members of the board because of his refusal, last year, to recommend Miss Cornelia Brossard, a teacher, for promotion. She is said to be on this year's list of promotions. Powell's name was added.

Withers Wants Action.

Supt. Withers then said that it would be better to decide at once whether the five were to be approved or rejected. If they were to be dropped, he said, they should know it at once, otherwise they might have difficulty in getting places for another school year. B. P. Stromberg, a member of the board, talked with Assistant Superintendents Bryan and Rathmann, who were present, and said they would prefer to have the matter taken up at once.

Murphy, Wagner, Joering, Hiemenz and Dr. Gettys, who were five of the anti-Withers members of the board as it existed before the April election, voted to defer consideration of the five names to the July meeting. McDonald and Tobin, the newly elected members, voted with them in this instance, so that the matter was deferred. The five who voted for immediate action on the names were President Wolfner, Stromberg, Johnson, Dr. Grant and Rosskopf.

Refers to Miller Case.

Murphy then announced "to the press and public" that the list of reappointments, which is not to be made public until the July meeting, contained the name of Armand R. Miller, principal of the McKinley High School. He called attention to the discussion of last winter, when Miller and Supt. Withers differed over a matter of discipline, and the superintendent proposed to accept Miller's resignation, but was overruled by Murphy and the board majority.

"At that time," Murphy remarked, "Dr. Withers said he had made a study of the subject of morals, from Aristotle down to the present time, and he based his conclusions, in the matter of discipline on which he differed with Mr. Miller, on that long study."

Supt. Withers said afterward that Murphy had not quoted his statement correctly. He said he had reappointed Miller because he believed Miller's intentions were good, and he was willing to give him another chance. In doing this, he said, he felt that he was taking on himself the responsibility for Miller's acts in the coming year to a greater degree than in the case of other reappointments.

At the May meeting, Murphy asked Supt. Withers if Miller's name was on the list of reappointments, and the superintendent refused to answer. It was said, at that time, that Miller's name was on the list but with the notation "open for further consideration." This notation is said to have been removed.

"A Little More Harmony."

Not having had quite enough harmony, the board proceeded to have a little more, over a resolution, submitted by Rosskopf, in which Stromberg's record as a member of the board was indorsed. An effort is being made, by ouster proceedings in the State Supreme Court, to remove Stromberg, on the ground that his name did not appear on the tax books for 1917, the year he took office.

Murphy and his four former associates in the anti-Withers combine voted against this resolution, but it was passed by the votes of the others, except Stromberg, who did not vote. McDonald and Tobin, the new members, voted for the resolution, thus distributing their favors equally on the two factions for the evening.

Stromberg made a statement to the Board, declaring on his honor that he had not been aware of his alleged disqualification. "I did not know my name was not on the tax books in 1917," he said, "and I still cannot understand why it was not there. In other years, you will find I made my returns promptly, and the Assessor never had to penalize me for failure to make a return."

BARGE LINE MANAGER PLEADS FOR CITY TO COMPLETE WHARF

Mackie Says Failure to Provide Warehouses Will Seriously Handicap Service.

If the completion of the municipal wharf and warehouses along the river front is held up by the failure of city officials to appropriate sufficient funds as a result of a decrease in revenue, the Mississippi River barge line will be seriously handicapped, according to A. W. Mackie, manager of the Mississippi River section of the Mississippi-Warrior Waterways, who addressed a luncheon meeting of the Advertising Club at Hotel Statler today.

Mackie urged his hearers to induce city officials to appropriate at least part of the $300,000 required to complete the wharf and warehouses and to install the necessary freight handling machinery.

Mackie said the equipment in use now is only temporary and will be supplanted by six towboats of 1800 horsepower each and 40 steel barges of 2000 tons capacity each. The new equipment will be ready for next spring, he declared. He urged that merchants and shippers support the barge line as it offered the city an opportunity to ship its products and raw materials to both domestic and foreign points at a cost far below that of any other shipping center in the country.

KOREANS ORDERED TO RESIST

Provisional Government Advocates Defiance to Japanese, Is Report.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Orders to "resist to the death" all efforts of the Japanese to collect taxes and to ignore Japanese courts and police orders have been promulgated throughout Korea by the Korean Provisional Government, according to information received here by the Korean National Association.

"Taxes are a duty which the people owe to the Government," the orders said. "With military force the Japanese have overrun our country, treating us worse than slaves. They have forfeited all rights of government. Therefore the people should pay no taxes."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The Rev. Karl Reiland, Rector of St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church, in East Sixteenth street, which has just put into effect the policy of holding the Sunday morning service at 10 o'clock instead of 11, to allow church members more time for Sunday recreation, told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday that he is delighted with the success of the new arrangement.

"It has worked out first rate so far," he said. "The second Sunday the service was held at 10 o'clock instead of 11 the attendance at the morning service was much better than at any service at the same season in previous years.

"Everybody in the congregation, with whom I have discussed the matter has been completely in favor of the idea. Among those who have expressed their approval to me are William Fellowes Morgan and R. Fulton Cutting.

"The purpose of the plan was to give the people of the church more time to find healthful, wholesome recreation on Sundays during the summer months."

Not only has the hour of the morning service been changed, but the service has been shortened, and will be shortened more and more on successive Sundays, so that it will not take longer than an hour when the "summer service" is finally arranged to the satisfaction of St. George's. The service is shortened by the shortening of the anthems, lesson and sermon.

When it was decided to change the hour of morning service for the sake of the recreation of the congregation, Dr. Reiland told of sailing a boat one Sunday in Connecticut, about ten years ago, to the horror of onlookers and went on:

"Public opinion has changed since then. People are beginning to realize that there is nothing wrong in wholesome outdoor recreation, whether it is taken on Sunday or any other day. So far as our church is concerned, we feel that it is no more sinful for the poor man to play baseball on Sunday than it is for the rich man to play golf; it is no more wrong for the poor man to play tennis than it is for the rich man to drive an automobile."

ST. LOUIS LEADS IN JOBS FOR SOLDIERS

Executive Board Says Bureau Will Work Until Last Man Is Placed.

St. Louis is ahead of every other city in the United States in the percentage of returned soldiers placed in jobs, according to the report made at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday of the Executive Board of the Demobilization Bureau for Sailors, Soldiers and Marines, and heads of the various agencies co-operating with the bureau.

"St. Louis has a reputation all over the world for the amount of money it has raised for various war relief and other activities," declared Melville Wilkinson, who presided, "and we are going to show the country that we can raise jobs just as easily as we can raise money. Every St. Louis returned man is going to get a job when he gets back to town, and the bureau is going to stay open and on the job until the last man is placed."

The announcement was made that the Red Cross would match the contribution of $5080 of the War Camp Community Service. The Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, Vocational Board and the Missouri Soldiers and Sailors' Employment Commission are paying the salaries of their representatives who are working at the bureau in various capacities.

Martin J. Walsh of the United States Employment Service, examiner in charge of the bureau, gave a statement at the meeting of the activities of the bureau as follows: Since Dec. 16, 1918, when the bureau was opened, 11,338 men have registered, 11,639 firms and individuals have applied to the bureau for men to fill their jobs, 10,686 men have been referred to jobs, and 8280 men placed in jobs.

LACLEDE PARK TO HAVE FLAG

First Time Since City Got Property 106 Years Ago.

The first flag to fly in Laclede Park, Iowa avenue and Gasconade street, since the park become the property of the city 106 years ago, will be raised Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Patrons' Association of the Meramec School and the Junior Order of the United American Mechanics, N. C. Lyon Council, No. 21.

The Rev. W. F. Simon will deliver the invocation and J. W. Lannly, Civil War veteran, will deliver a patriotic address. The flag will be presented by Judge George E. Mix to two Civil War veterans and two school children. Other addresses will be made by Recorder of Deeds Joy, Alderman John Fett of the Eleventh Ward; Mayor Kiel, Director of Public Welfare Schmoll, Miss Mary Wanless, Ladies of the G. A. R., and Col. H. M. Morgan, superintendent of the workhouse.

RAWIE IDENTIFIED AS MAN WHO TOOK KIMPEL FOR RIDE

Employer Says Idnicted Man Called at Soft Drink Stand Sunday Night While Automobile Waited Outside.

John (Honus) Rawie of 1313 South Eighth street, one of six men taken into police custody yesterday pending investigation of the murder of Thomas Kimpel, 59 years old, of 308 Gratiot street, was identified at noon today by Philip Schmuck as the man with whom Kimpel departed from Schmuck's soft drink establishment in East St. Louis Sunday evening, shortly before the murder.

Kimpel, as has been told, was the principal witness for the State in a burglary and larceny case against Rawie and Crato Gentry, a bartender of 734 South Broadway, which is pending in Circuit Judge Calhoun's Court. An attachment had been issued for Kimpel's arrest following his failure to appear at several settings of the case.

Picks Out Rawie.

Schmuck went to Police Headquarters with Deputy Sheriff Ames and other residents of East St. Louis. Rawie, Gentry and four other prisoners were lined up before him. He picked out Rawie as the man who, he said, entered his establishment at Thirty-fifth street and Missouri avenue, Sunday evening, while companions waited outside in an automobile.

Schmuck said that Rawie talked with Kimpel and induced him to leave the establishment, and go away in the automobile with the party. He was unable to identify any of the other prisoners as having been in the automobile, explaining that he had not paid close attention to the men in the machine.

Following this identification Deputy Sheriff Ames announced that arrangements would be started to obtain requisitions for the six prisoners to take them to East St. Louis for further investigation.

Intended to Visit St. Louis.

Schmuck said that Kimpel had announced his intention, during the day Sunday, of going to St. Louis to attend a homecoming for his son, who had returned from army service.

City detectives stated that the investigation was being conducted on the theory that Rawie and Gentry had heard of the elder Kimpel's plan to come to St. Louis and that they visited him in East St. Louis in an effort to persuade him not to do so, knowing of the existence of an attachment for his arrest as a witness.

St. Louis dectives, upon investigation, have obtained information bearing out the police theory that Kimpel was shot in an automobile Sunday evening. As is known, his body with three bullet wounds in the neck, was found Monday morning in a potato patch at Centerville Station, two miles southeast of East St. Louis.

Girl Tells of Seeing Auto.

A daughter of Frank Reinhardt, on whose farm Kimpel's body was found, told detectives that she saw an automobile leave the road in front of her home at 9 p. m. Sunday and back into a driveway leading to one side of the house. She was in her room on the second floor preparing to retire. It was raining and she was closing a window when she observed the red tail light of the machine.

There seemed to be several men in the car, Miss Reinhardt said, and she distinctly heard one of the occupants say: "All right, you old ——, get out of this machine." She said that she saw one of the men walk behind the car and heard three revolver shots and saw the flashes. A minute later the automobile was driven away in the direction of East St. Louis.

Thought Little of Incident.

Miss Reinhardt said that she paid no particular attention to the incident at the time, as autoists had been in the habit of shooting at dogs belonging to her father, and she saw or heard nothing unusual following the report of the revolver.

Kimpel's body was found by a neighbor of the Reinhardts early the next morning.

Following the arrest of Gentry, the detectives learned that he and Rawie, accompanied by four other men crossed the Free bridge last Saturday night in an automobile, on the way to East St. Louis. The four companions of Gentry and Rawie were Frank Worth, 305 Clark avenue; Richard Horracks, 413 South Broadway; Edward Dowes, 1225 South Thirteenth street, and Florian Hendricks, 19, of 201 South Third street.

Admit Trip Saturday.

When questioned about the trip the men admitted driving to East St. Louis last Saturday night, explaining that they were on a crawfishing trip. They said that they returned early Sunday morning and that they did not see Kimpel when they were across the river.

Persons had told of Kimpel being taken away Sunday evening from Schmuck's establishment, where he was employed, by five men in an automobile.

Paid $20 for Drink He Didn't Get.

A stranger, described as walking with a limp, approached Joseph Taylor, Ammarillo, Tex., a discharged soldier, near Union Station last night, and asked Taylor if he would like a "little nip." Taylor gave the man a $20 bill.

"I'll hop right over and get it," the man told Taylor. He did not return.

ALDERMEN TO GET $24,434,000 BOND PROPOSAL FRIDAY

Ordinance Prepared by Estimate Board Provides for 16 Forms of Permanent Public Improvement.

The ordinance for a municipal bond issue of $24,434,000, for 16 items of permanent public improvement, will be submitted to the Board of Aldermen Friday, having been completed yesterday by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

The most important decision reached at yesterday's meeting was on the item for a municipal auditorium and convention hall. A previous plan for the joint ownership and control of a $2,000,000 building by the city and civic organizations was dropped after the City Counseler declared that the city could not legally participate in the joint ownership plan. The new idea, approved by the Mayor and Convention Bureau officials, is to have the city put up a $1,000,000 structure on the old city hall lot on Eleventh street, from Market to Chestnut, thus saving the cost of a site.

Bonded Indebtedness Increased.

The limit of bonded indebtedness which the city can contract has been increased by the recent new assessment, and is now figured at $24,436,231. The new bond issue proposal comes within $2231 of this total.

The items, as agreed on by the Board of Estimate, are:

| | |
|---|---|
| River des Peres | $10,495,000 |
| Sewer construction | 3,420,000 |
| Parks | 2,850,000 |
| Convention hall | 1,000,000 |
| Municipal farm | 700,000 |
| Railroad approach to Free Bridge | 1,100,000 |
| Municipal terminals, river front | 1,900,000 |
| Grade crossing elimination | 1,034,000 |
| Opening streets | 750,000 |
| Fire Dept. buildings | 200,000 |
| Bellefontaine farm | 175,000 |
| Cells, city jail | 85,000 |
| Morgue | 75,000 |
| Property for loop, west end of Free Bridge | 200,000 |
| Street construction | 350,000 |
| Municipal garage | 100,000 |
| Total | $24,434,000 |

Mayor Wants Election in October.

The changes made yesterday, besides the matter of the Convention Hall, were the increase of the municipal farm, $400,000 to $700,000; the increase of Bellefontaine Farm from $150,000 to $175,000; and the addition of the morgue and loop property items. The property to be purchased for the loop is at Seventh and Gratiot streets.

Mayor Kiel said he wished the Board of Aldermen might pass the ordinance before adjourning, so that it could go before the voters in October. This may not be possible, as the Aldermen have set June 27 as their date of adjournment, and as it is customary to hold hearings on bond issue ordinances.

A two-thirds vote, at a special election, will be required to pass the bond issue.

The three disappeared. O'Neill sounded the recall for the dog, but it did not come back. Police think the raiders carried off the terrier.

Simmons Saw Bolshevism, Not as Painted Here, but Tyranny of Bloodshed

No Rule of Workers That Theorists Picture Not Political Movement, but Control by Murder, Rapine, Force and Intolerance.

Bolshevism as practiced in Russia, is a distinctly different Bolshevism from that theoretical kind decried to the outside world by American Socialists, as "the rule of the workers," according to the personal observation of Maj. George W. Simmons, who returned last week from a 6000-mile trip across Siberia into that section of Russia which experienced Bolshevist rule though within the last few months it has been relieved by the forces of Admiral Kolchak.

Maj. Simmons entered Ossa on March 17, 10 days after the Bolshevist rule was terminated, and there, through the testimony of the inhabitants, established the character of the practical Bolshevism as it was administered then. He pursued his inquiry in other cities also, recording names, circumstances and the exact dates and hours of the incidents recited to him. His conclusion is the following definition of practical Bolshevism.

"Bolshevism is not a political movement, and should not be discussed as such. Whatever its theory is, its practice is revolutionary, a determination to impress doctrines, little understood and never clearly defined, upon the rest of the world by murder, rapine, force and intolerance. It is the tyranny of ignorance, worse than the tyranny of the Czar. The tyranny of the Czar was a tyranny of restraint—of imprisonment. The tyranny of the Bolshevist is the tyranny of bloodshed, of death.

Bolshevism recognized three enemies—its arch-enemy, the aristocracy; its rational enemy, the educated, and its instinctive enemy, religion—and proceeded to exterminate all three. Wealth suffered no more heavily than education. Priests were submitted to especial torture."

Analyzes Bolshevist Rule.

Maj. Simmons gave to the Post-Dispatch the following summary of his analysis of Bolshevist rule as established by the testimony of those who experienced it, which he will submit to the American Red Cross as a basis for certain recommendations of policy:

1. No constructive enterprises were undertaken even in towns occupied as long as eight months by the Soviets. The Bolshevists never worked and existed through their division of funds they seized, allowing the land they apportioned among themselves to lie idle.

2. Murders without provocation were frequent, often imposed for failure of men to raise a prescribed amount of money, and sometimes imposed after the victims had raised the prescribed amount. Those singled out for first killing were lawyers, police officials, priests and physicians. Two thousand males of the 10,000 total population of Ossa were killed in the seven months that city was under Bolshevist rule. Maj. Simmons watched the opening of graves by relatives to give their kin the proper burial, which had been denied by the Bolshevists. Virtually all the bodies were mutilated. One grave disclosed two bodies, with earth in clenched hands, indicating burial alive.

3. Confiscation of property to the extent, in some instances, that starvation was inevitable. In this connection, Maj. Simmons recited the story of a man, his wife and four children who operated a farm on the outskirts of Ossa. The widow of the farmer told Maj. Simmons that when the Bolshevists came, they found that the little family had augmented their small income from the farm by making fur caps for soldiers. "'You are a manufacturer,' they said to my husband and murdered him before my eyes," the widow said. "They took our one horse and one of our two cows. They left me one cow. 'See,' they said, 'we are tender-hearted men and leave you a cow.' The cow was dry and they took all the fodder with the other cow." Maj. Simmons said he talked to about 40 widows in Ossa and each told a story of summary killing for no wrong. One man was killed because he lived in a brick house.

4. Discipline ceased in the schools, which were run by a "council of pupils," who were ignorant and who rearranged the curriculum so that virtually the one thing taught was politics.

5. Legal processes were prohibited. The Bolshevists made sure first to kill all lawyers. Some priests escaped death, but never a lawyer.

6. Churches were looted and turned into theaters. Services were forbidden. No children could hold conversation with a priest.

7. The deposits of banks were confiscated and distributed on a pro rata basis.

8. Land was reapportioned, not on the theoretical plant of equal division as Bolshevists would have the world believe, but upon a plan of as little as possible to a few and the bulk to the leaders of the Bolshevists.

9. The nationalization of women was actual, though not pursued for long periods.

Brings Proclamation on Women.

There has been much controversy as to whether nationalization of women was a Bolshevist practice or, as American Bolshevists have declared, propaganda to discredit the movement. Maj. Simmons brought with him as one of his exhibits a proclamation nationalizing the women of Saratov. The recital of what took place was obtained from Lieut. Gordieff, who was attached to the Red Cross Mission as representative of the Siberian army and who experienced the first day of Bolshevist rule in Saratov.

The proclamation has for its preamble a declaration that the rich had won and held the young and beautiful of Russian women long enough and that now the poor should possess the beautiful. Women of proscribed ages were compelled to register, "for allotment as shall be decreed." Nationalization of women lasted only 12 days. Railroad operators, the only Bolshevists who worked, revolted when their wives and daughters were caught in the meshes and after 30 days the decree was formally rescinded, its enforcement having ceased after the first two weeks.

Maj. Simmons said that he believed that the problem of Bolshevism can be solved best by the Government of Admiral Kolchak, whose army of 450,000 men has rid Siberia of Bolshevism and has penetrated 500 miles into European Russia, driving back the Trotzky forces steadily since Jan. 1.

"Kolchak is a loyal Russian," Maj. Simmons said. "He is honest. His avowed policy is one for Russia's good. He has promised a constitutional assembly as soon as Bolshevism is overthrown. He has put through a forced draft, evidence of strength of government. For political reasons the allies have not yet recognized his Government. But England has given him vast supplies and has outfitted his army. France has made financial advances. Japan has given aid according to her lights. America has only deposited 8000 soldiers to lie idle at Vladivostok, dabbling their feet in the Pacific, consumed with homesickness and doing irreparable damage to the Omsk Government as well as American prestige by blatantly criticising a Government located 3500 miles inland which they have never so much as seen. It is a dreary picture of provincialism and international misunderstanding.

"Russia's first need, of course, is a stable Government. Admitting that the Omsk Government is not ideal, it is the only power arrayed definitely against Bolshevism. It is no time to quibble over niceties of a political complexion. That can wait. But immediately comes the question of whether Bolshevism or civilization shall guide the world. The army of Kolchak must be supported by every right-thinking nation and the support must be immediate and extensive to be effective.

"I am not advocating the participation of armed American forces. That would be a mistake. Russia will be more satisfied with herself and stronger if allowed to kill Bolshevism with her own fist.

"But I am saying that America must give economic aid. Trade relations must be established. Russia is destitute of everything that will enable her to proceed to manufacturing or farming. Her credit is low but it is established. Russia has an anti-Bolshevist army, but she has nothing to supply it to fight with or on. We must supply those needs.

"We must act at once for America now is much discredited in Russia. The criticism is growing. Russia suffered more deeply than any of the allies through America's delay in entering the war. The long political friendship between the two nations has suffered further shock by our palpable hesitancy to give aid even now that her life is threatened. The disappointment is keener because America always has stood to the Russian as the land of promise and freedom.

"Propaganda is fanning that feeling. The Japanese have been responsible for some of it. Perhaps because of jealousy and a desire to guard Russian markets for herself, the Russian patriot is thoroughly out of patience with out vacillating policy. He sees American troops in Russia. They give no aid and now America is suspected of double dealing and the suspicion is becoming open accusation. "If the Americans are here for our good, why not help," they say and they add that some selfish motive not apparent keeps our troops there.

"Our troops themselves are accentuating the anti-American feeling. The men of the American army are thoroughly bored by their useless rôle. This has resulted in an attitude of criticism of everything Russian. They are impregnated themselves with Bolshevism. Their viewpoint is that of the scum of Siberia with whom they come in contact in Vladivostok. They are densely ignorant of the Kolchak Government and criticize it without mercy. Some have announced openly that they are Bolsheviki themselves. They are unpopular in Vladivostok. The situation is very dangerous both to our own prestige and Russian stability. I believe they should be replaced at once with fresh troops.

"American Jewish sympathy is misunderstood in Russia. About 75 per cent of the Bolshevist leaders are Jews and the majority of the Bolshevist local rulers are Jews. The Russian peasant having felt Bolshevism has deepest hatred for it and hatred for the men who were its executives. I fear that when Bolshevism is overthrown and the peasant comes into power the greatest Jewish massacre in all history will follow. Certainly America must cease to send Jews over to Russia, as she has done in the past, giving them official missions. She must cease to send them, both for their own safety and for the good effect of removing, however slight, cause of irritation she can."

Summer School to Open.

THOMASVILLE, Ga.—The summer school which has been conducted here for the past two years, under the auspices of the Thomasville Public School Board, will again be held this year, for a six-months' course. This school was opened two years ago as an experiment, and so successful has it been found that it will probably be a permanent institution. The school will be in charge of Supt. Broughton, with an able corps of teachers assisting him.

LAMM URGED IN ANONYMOUS NOTE TO RUSH U. R. CASE

Letter, Apparently Written by Woman, Says Special Master Could Perform Invaluable Servicee.

At this morning's hearing of John W. Seaman's receivership suit against the United Railways Co., former Judge Henry Lamm, presiding as special master, introduced an anonymous letter which he had received, and announced that if he received other anonymous letters, he would offer them in evidence. "I'm not going to receive any private briefs in this case," he said.

The letter was written apparently by a woman, and called on Judge Lamm not to "let this case hang on a year," but to settle it at once. The writer referred to the United Railways Co. as "an acknowledged thief and burglar," and applied uncomplimentary terms to its officials. Judge Lamm, the letter said, could immortalize himself by settling the case promptly.

The letter, which was read by Attorney Theodore Rassieur, seemed to amuse Henry S. Priest, general counsel of the company, but Ephrim Caplan, counsel for Seaman, objected to it, saying it would be harmful to the plaintiff's case. Caplan said any such letter had no place in the evidence, as Judge Lamm had suggested. "You don't suppose I'm going to receive these things and not make them known, do you?" said Judge Lamm.

Director Witness for U. R.

H. C. Cole of Chester, Ill., a director of the company, who was elected as the representative of stockholders who were dissatisfied with the management of the company, was introduced as a witness for the defense. He is not named as a defendant in Seaman's suit.

Cole was asked whether he protested against any payments to attorneys, and said that he objected to the fee paid to Judge Priest's son in a suit of the United Railways Co. against Stewart & Co., in which the company won a verdict for $20,000. He not not say what the amount of this fee was.

Cole said he had conferred with minority stockholders, and named among these McHenry of Louisville, Dieckman of St. Louis and Attorney Caplan as the representative of Eastern stockholders. It was supposed that George E. Dieckman, a broker, was the Dieckman referred to.

Cole said he was instructed by McHenry, Dieckman, "a man from Ohio" and Caplan, that the retention of Judge Priest as counsel was inimical to the company's interests, as Priest was "out of favor with the city administration," and as the compromise franchise ordinance was then being negotiated.

For that reason, he said, he voted against the re-election of Priest as counsel in 1917. In 1918, however, he voted for Priest because it did not seem to be worth while to oppose him and because he thought it not good policy to go against the other directors. Also, he said, he did not think a change would be for the company's interest.

He said he voted for the 1918 power contract, on the statement of the president of the United Railways Co. that the company needed more power, and that the Union Electric Co. was the cheapest place to get it. He said his attention had been called to the power contracts, which the Seaman suit assails as wasteful, but that he was satisfied the company was getting its power cheap. He was asked whether the company considered enlarging its own power plants, and said, "No, the company was wholly unable to do so." The sentence as to the company's inability was stricken out by Judge Lamm.

Judge Lamm asked Cole if he was present at the directors' meeting in April when the company confessed its insolvency. Cole replied that he was, and voted for it. Then, as if seeking information as to the timeliness of the application for intervention in behalf of the defendants of Cole's brother, C. B. Cole, and William B. Thompson, as stockholders, Judge Lamm asked Cole if he had informed his brother of the board's action. Cole replied that he had. When the application for the intervention was argued, Judge Lamm stated that he felt that it was tardy as the case then had progressed to the close of the plaintiff's testimony.

Vote for Insolvency Plea.

Cole, in response to questions by Rassieur, told what statements had been made to him that led him to vote for the resolution confessing insolvency.

"Our company had been facing bankruptcy for a long time," he said. "The board had been trying to keep it out of bankruptcy, but we had a loan with the Government which was due, and were unable to pay. We feared that the Government would, as it threatened, put up our collateral for sale, that it might be bought and through the purchasers might be thrown into bankruptcy and broken up into its component parts. We thought it better to confess bankruptcy in the Adler suit than to take our chances with the others."

Judge Lamm again questioned the witness.

"Did counsel for the company attend the meeting, and advise confession of bankruptcy," he saked.

"Yes."

Counsel for the company now are denying that the company is insolvent.

"Full meeting of the board?"

"Nearly so."

Priest, by questions, drew from Cole that the executive committee had approved the confession of bankruptcy before it was submitted to the directors. The committee is composed of President McCulloch, John I. Beggs, Murray Carleton, Vice-President Wagner and F. O. Watts.

David R. Francis Jr., who was a director from 1909 to 1918, but who is not a defendant in the case, related that he made personal examination of the power contract of 1918, seeking information about the price of power in other cities and consulting two personal friends who were electrical experts on it. From his conclusions, he said, he signed a recommendation of a special committee that the board adopt the contract.

Reference to Power Contract.

Judge Lamm asked who his personal friends were. Francis refused to answer without first getting his friends' permission. Lamm asked if either was a United Railways official or employe. Francis replied that neither was.

During his discussion Francis mentioned that he knew about the increased price of coal when the 1918 contract was drawn.

"What has that to do with it? Was this power produced by steam?" Lamm asked.

Francis appeared confused. He said he did not remember whether the power was steam power or water power.

"I do remember that the original contract of the company for water power provided that its cost should be based on the price of coal," he said.

One of the iniquities of the contract complained of is that though the cost of water power never would increase materially, its price in St. Louis should be readjusted at stated periods on the basis of the current cost of coal.

Approved Mill Tax Fight.

Francis testified that as a director he approved of the continued fight by the legal department against the milltax cause he believed it to be unjust and one of the causes of the company's financial plight.

Regarding Priest's $35,000 extra fee for work in that case, he said that he remembered but vaguely concerning the allowance of the fee. He said he remembered that the matter was before the board and that upon motion of James Campbell, the board ordered the matter to be adjusted." He did not recall the amount of the fee.

He said that the fees paid to Morton Jourdan never were brought before the board.

Before the morning session opened, Charles W. Bates, counsel for Receiver Wells, filed an application for authorization to pay the interest on the company's bonds due in July and August, the interest amounting to $600,000. These bonds include the general mortgage 4-per-cent bonds.

GLASS PLANT WILL REOPEN

Valley Park Factory Will Share Profits With 350 Employes.

The formal transfer of the plate glass works at Valley Park to the Universal Plate and Window Glass Co. for a consideration of $225,000 was filed at the Recorder's office at Clayton yesterday.

William J. Vance, receiver for the Missouri Plate Glass Co., which formerly operated the plant, said repair work would be begun at once, and it was expected that the factory would be reopened in about 90 days with about 350 employes. Under the new management, he said, the factory will be run on the co-operative, profit-sharing plan.

The New Assortments of Summer Frocks

$8.75 $12.75 $19.75 $24.75 $29.75

DO you want a new Frock to wear in the evening—there is one of cool yellow Voile with a lace and net vest that will be sure to please you. Or is it for street wear that you need a frock—if you do, you will find a blue-and-white striped gingham made with an Eton jacket, a tucked white organdie vest and collar and a pleated overskirt—that is unusually smart.

Every kind of a Summer frock that you could imagine may be found in these assortments of voiles and organdies, ginghams and linens.

THE printed fabrics are as popular as the plain ones, and the white collars and ribbon sashes form effective notes of contrast. So many cool, pretty colors are shown—yellow, orchid, green, delicate pink and all shades of blue are among the most popular.

New styles have arrived for the showing tomorrow—the variety is excellent. You will need plenty of cool Summer frocks and it is more satisfactory to select them from complete assortments where you are sure of always finding the newest and latest styles. Sizes from 14 to 20 years.

WOMAN SPY SUSPECT A SUICIDE

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Tuesday, June 10.—Edith Charlton, aged 24, an alleged spy who traveled on a false American passport, committed suicide in Turin on Monday, when she was arrested. She made frequent trips between Italy and Germany by the way of Switzerland during the war and is alleged to have obtained important military information from allied officer friends, by whom she was nicknamed "The Lady of the Camellias," because she always wore the flowers.

She was a beautiful woman and posed as an American. She was a guest of the best hotels, had plenty of money, and wore the latest Parisian gowns, which, it is stated, were supplied by the German political department.

Three Great Lakes join hands to give the Southern Peninsula of Michigan its summer attractions. Primeval forests, alluring streams, wooded lakes, clear, cool invigorating air, and outdoor interests, have made Michigan the "Sporting Peninsula."

Along the shores and inlets of the surrounding waters—Lake Michigan, Lake Huron, Straits of Mackinac and the "Soo"—are summer resorts of great charm, each with its special appeal—motorboating, sailing, fishing, broad beaches for bathing. In the inland sections—streams, rivers and lakes with superior facilities for fishing and hunting.

Accommodations—fine hotels, inns or summer camps, experienced in giving vacationists just what they want, and with prices to suit every purse.

WILSON DAY ENGLAND'S GREATEST CELEBRATION

Lady Wilfred Peek, Former St. Louisan, Back on Visit, Tells of President's Visit.

In far happier circumstances than those surrounding her when she was last here, in 1916, Lady Wilfred Peek, formerly Edwine Thornburgh, is visiting her mother, Mrs. William C. Stribling, 23 Portland Place.

Upon that other occasion, her husband, a captain in the British Army, serving in Mesopotamia, was on his way with the expedition sent to the relief of the forces of Gen. Townshend, besieged at Kut-El-Amara. For three years Lady Peek did not see her husband, which was the common experience of wives of Englishmen serving in the East, where leaves were most infrequent and even communication was rare.

Accompanied by Her Son.

Saturday Lady Peek arrived in St. Louis accompanied by her son, who is called Francis Henry Grenville, and who is now three and a half years old. She had, just a few days since, left her husband about to go upon one of his famous hunting trips, this time to Labrador.

"St. Louis looks mighty good to me," she exclaimed, with emphasis upon the last word.

"We came over on the Rotterdam with part of the 89th Division which paraded here yesterday," she said. "And I never in all England at any time have witnessed enthusiasm to equal that put into the reception at the pier in New York. It surely warmed one's heart. The British are so reserved, you know. They do not do anything like what is being done here to welcome their returning soldiers.

"The greatest celebration I have witnessed in England," she continued, "was the day President Wilson was there. He was the greatest man in the world, not personally, but for what he represented, on that day. And I have seen public opinion swing from holding him to be the most despised to the most admired figure. It was very trying for Americans living in England before our country went in. But now, without exception, everybody extolls the wisdom of the man who waited until his whole country was solidly behind him."

"It was good to hear over there that the St. Louis district was always first over the top in the Liberty Loan drives, especially so when, at first, it was thought the Middle States might be apathetic toward the war," she remarked.

Turned Home Into Hospital.

Asked about her own war activities, she told of the convalescent hospital into which her home was converted for the first two and a half years of the war.

Toward the last, when the hospital system had become better organized, greater concentration was sought and the hospitals in private houses were dispensed with. So, after the hospital experience, I just did the usual war work women did."

As a girl here Lady Peek was one of the first of the younger fashionable set in St. Louis to favor suffrage for women. One season she helped organize the Junior Suffrage League. When she married in 1913, she took her then somewhat radical views into a stronghold of conservatism. She has seen all England come to her view upon the subject, and she accepts quite as incidental the prospect of an early attainment of the franchise in America.

"I am so accustomed to suffrage now," she said, "that I cannot think of any other state existing in a democracy. And it came about so easily, almost without a jar, in England. The woman's war work was the final and conclusive answer, of course, to conservative and liberal alike."

MOTOR TRUCKS FROM ST. LOUIS START ON LAST HALF OF TOUR

Organizations at Quincy United in Reception That Blocks Streets.

The St. Louis Motor Truck Expedition, after a reception in Quincy left early this morning on the last half of its 375-mile tour.

Mayor Phillip O'Brien of Quincy headed a Reception Committee that met the St. Louis motorists several miles outside of Quincy. The Chamber of Commerce of Quincy entertained the tourists, the Quincy Motor Club and the Auto Trades Association co-operating in the entertainment.

S. A. Hubbard, a member of all the co-operating organizations, presided at the meeting.

Harry G. Moock of St. Louis, business manager of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, delivered a short address at Quincy and will continue on the remainder of the tour. Motion pictures of motor truck reliability tours and four-minute talks on motor truck possibilities were delivered from a G. M. C. truck illuminated by a Delco electric light plant. Electric lights glowed from three sides of the truck.

The first half of the tour is now approximately completed, the expedition having covered more than 175 miles.

The demonstration was held in the business center of Quincy and was witnessed by several thousands of persons who congested the streets where the trucks were packed so that it was almost impossible for traffic to get through.

The tour will remain tonight in Beardstown. The schedule provides that dinner will be had in Clayton, Ill. The expedition is expected home Friday morning.

BELIEVES 'USUAL LAWS OF WAR' PREVAILED IN CAVELL CASE

U. S. Army Officer, at Courtmartial Hearing, Says a Woman Spy Deserves Same Fate as Man Spy.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 11.—Testifying in the American Bar Association's courtmartial hearing yesterday, Col. Eugene R. West, chief of the legislative section of the Judge Advocate General's Department, was asked by Chairman Gregory whether there should not be a provision in new legislation excepting women from the death penalty.

"We have heard much of the case of 'Poor Edith Cavell,'" said Col. West, "yet I have become rather firmly convinced that she was subject to her fate by the usual laws of war. Certainly the French have executed women spies."

West agreed with the chairman that it would be only consistent with the Anglo-Saxon attitude on the Cavell case to except women from the death penalty, but he added: "I believe that a woman spy deserves the same fate as a man spy. Otherwise we would open the gates wide to the most resourceful class of spies that is known."

SORORITY CIRCLE TO AID PURE MILK FUND

Two Anonymous Contributions Boost Total to $469.67, Slightly Below Last Year's Mark.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

|---|---|
| Previously acknowledged | $462.67 |
| L. S. | 2.00 |
| N. N. M. | 5.00 |
| Total | $469.67 |

The Sorority Circle will give a card party, with tables for "500" and bridge, at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Frederic H. Britton, 703 Harvard avenue. The proceeds of the afternoon will be donated to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. It is expected that a large number of the club's members will attend.

Two anonymous cash contributions were received—$2 from "L. S." and $5 from "N. N. M.," bringing the Victory Year fund to a total of $469.67, which is still slightly behind the total for last year at this time. A slight lull between the closing of school and the commencing of benefits by the children is reasonably to be expected, but the fund must not be allowed to lag. The children have always responded nobly to the call to aid the babies of the tenement districts, but this year the burden is so large that considerable assistance from their elders undoubtedly will be required. An afternoon card party or benefit can easily be arranged and co-operation of this kind will urge the youngsters on to greater efforts.

Every one who has given or assisted in giving any sort of an entertainment or benefit for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund is entitled to a worker's button and membership card, certifying that he has helped the babies. Groups of workers who desire their pictures printed are requested to call before 3 p. m. at the Post-Dispatch office, third floor.

DYER ASKS PRESIDENT TO MAKE WARTIME DRY ACT VOID

Appeals to Wilson, in Cablegram, to Issue Proclamation Declaring Demobilization Complete.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Appeal was made by Representative Dyer, Republican, of Missouri, in a cablegram to President Wilson yesterday to issue proclamation declaring wartime prohibition void in view of the apparent determination of Congress to let the law stand.

"I cabled President Wilson," said Dyer, "that we had given consideration in the Judiciary Committee to some bills for repeal of war-time prohibition, to the extent of permitting the sale of beer and light wines. We have gone far enough, I told him, in consideration of these matters, for me to know there was no chance of the committee recommending any bill of that kind. I told the President I felt the only hope was that he should take action under authority I felt he had, and that he should do so at once to relieve the situation."

Dyer and other members of the Judiciary Committee who have felt that a repeal measure would not be reported out, have contended that the President would have full power after July 1 to declare by proclamation that demobilization was complete, which automatically would permit saloons closing on that date, to resume operations.

Representative Sabath, Democrat, of Illinois, author of the war-time repeal measure, said he believed there was no chance of the committee making a favorable report.

LIEUT. JOHN T. MAGUIRE AWARDED CROIX DE GUERRE

French Army Order Says St. Louisan Twice Wounded Displayed Exceptional Courage.

Lieut. John T. Maguire, former St. Louis University football captain, has been awarded the French Croix de Guerre. A copy of the citation was received yesterday by his father James H. Maguire, 4429 Olive street, through the War Department, which stated that the French Government had requested that it be forwarded. Lieut. Maguire now is in Germany with the Eighteenth Infantry. The citation follows:

Citation in the order of the army.

Lieut. John T. Maguire, Eighteenth Regiment, United States Infantry.

A valorous officer, seriously wounded May 14, 1918, while leading a patrol; wounded again Oct. 10, 1918, while leading his platoon in attack. Under most violent bombardment displayed exceptional courage and admirable coolness.

Order No. 14-141D.

General Headquarters, March 9, 1919.

Marshal Commander in Chief of the Armies of the East.

PETAIN.

Recent letters from Lieut. Maguire have said that he expects that the First Division, of which his regiment is a part, will sail for home in July.

U. R. SEEKS TO SHOW BENEFITS IN POWER CONTRACTS

Keokuk Current Asserted to Have Cost Less Than Price at Which It Could Have Been Had Otherwise.

Effort of the United Railways to justify its power contracts on the basis that the price paid is less than that for which power could be created by the company itself, less than it could buy from any other source, less than is paid by the street railways of seven other cities of the United States and less than at any other time in the history of the company, occupied the entire hearing yesterday before Judge Henry Lamm, special matser in the Seaman receivership suit. The witness through which minute calculations on power costs were introduced was W. E. Bryan, superintendent of power plants for the company.

Ephrim Caplan, attorney for Seaman, interpolated between exhibits a statement that all comparisons introduced by Theodore Rassieur, who conducted the examination for the railways, were of minor importance to a comparison of the cost with the price which the middle company pays for the Keokuk power which it passes on to the railways.

Allegation Regarding Contracts.

The chief allegation of the bill as regards power contracts is that a distributing company, owned outright by the North American Co., exacted a profit on power which it furnished to the United Railways, which the North American company controls, thus establishing an interlocking directorate which imposed the power contracts on the railways, not for its benefit but for the benefit of the North American. The contracts still are in force with the Union Electric Light and Power Co., another North American agency, acting as middleman.

Just before adjournment, Rassieur placed Frank J. Boehm, an employe of the Union Electric Light and Power Co., on the stand and declared his intention of gaining from him a history of all power contracts of the United Railways interpreted as to the cost of power.

Boehm qualified as a statistician and electrical engineer.

"What is a statistician?" Judge Lamm inquired.

"A statistician is one who deals with the correlation of information in a mathematical way," Boehm responded.

"'Correlation,' hum," Judge Lamm mused. "In other words, he is one who deals with statistics and, I suppose, tries to draw psychological and metalogical deductions from naked figures."

Testifies as to Power Capacity.

Bryan testified concerning the physical condition and ability of the company's plants to produce power in 1908, the date of the contracts for hydro-electric power. This was to refute a charge of the bill that the company has for years permitted two power plants which it values at more than $3,000,000 to lie idle except as they are used as auxiliaries during rush hours, which are one at night and one in the morning.

He declared that the company spent $293,000 for the operation of its two power plants in 1918 for about two hours a day, and that if it had operated them at capacity, the cost would have been $827,000 greater, or $1,120,000, an operation that would have produced power costing $400,000 more than the power the company purchased from other sources.

He further testified that if the company had continued to maintain and operate its own plants, instead of purchasing power, that the cost of power would have been 4.47 cents per kilowatt hour in 1918, instead of 1.07 cents, as was the cost of all power purchased and generated in that year.

Question of Extensions.

Bryan then took up the question of the feasibility of the company's maintaining its power plants, from 1908, instead of contracting for water power in that year. He said that it would have been "ridiculous" to have attempted to extend the capacity of its Central plant, Thirty-ninth street and Park avenue, and its Northern plant, Second and Salisbury streets, because they were not located on the river. He said that in 1908 turbine engines were the most economical method of producing electricity, and that turbines consumed great quantities of water for condensing purposes. "Twice as much water in one day as the city of St. Louis consumes," he declared.

A plant built in 1912, the year prior to that in which the company began to receive water power, he said, would have lost $712,000 in 1918, compared to the cost of hydro-electric energy. If the old plants had been extended to meet the increased load, he declared, the 1918 loss from their operation would have been $1,050,000, compared to the cost of hydro-electric energy.

Another of Bryan's statements was that the lowest price at which the company had been able to obtain power between 1906 and 1913, when it began to receive water power, was 9.4 mills per kilowat hour, and that the highest price paid for water power to the present time had been 7.9 mills per kilowatt hour.

Table of Prices Submitted.

A table submitted showed the price paid by the United Railways for all its power in 1918 was lower than the price paid by the street railways of Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Kansas City, Louisville, Milwaukee and New Orleans.

Caplan's argument against the materiality of the figures on power costs were that they did not represent the lowest price in the power of its directors to obtain for it, because a middle company had taken from the actual cost of Keokuk power delivered in St. Louis a profit for itself at an added cost to the railways.

In response to an inquiry from Judge Lamm as to why the company was not able to estimate its power needs to prevent its paying in 1913 and 1914 for power which it did not use, Bryan declared that the contract was made in 1908, five years prior to the receipt of the first water power.

"The load had increased 51,000,000 kilowatts during the six years prior to making the contract," he said, "so it was estimated that the load probably would increase at the same rate for the following six years and the contract made on that basis. If it had increased at that rate, which was 9½ per cent a year, we would have needed 220,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1914, but it increased only 5 per cent and we needed and consumed only 199,000,000 kilowatt hours."

Definite Contract Required.

"Couldn't you have provided a sliding scale contract which would give you only what you needed?" Judge Lamm inquired.

Bryan replied that the company was compelled to purchase a stated amount of power because the company which built the Keokuk dam was establishing definitely how much power it could market to see if the return would carry the fixed charges of the dam's construction.

He further said that after 1914, the company used all the power which it had contracted for.

"Well, if you could hit it for 1915, why couldn't you hit it for 1914?" Lamm asked.

"Our load was increasing each year and we were reducing the amount of our steam power purchased under the terms of another contract, so our need of power increased to equal our contract quantity," Bryan replied.

Caplan, in his cross-examination, endeavored to establish a charge he made Monday that Bryan's exhibits on power cost, which was $17.70 per horse power hour, was misleading. Caplan declared the cost to be between $30 and $40. In his endeavor to convert the contract price to his figure, he propounded an electrical deduction which Bryan said was impossible, and the cross-examination was continued until today.

Look around at the men and women you meet in a single day. One glance is enough to tell the ones with plenty of rich, red blood, strength and physical energy to back up their mental power and make them a success in whatever they undertake.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, says that to help make strong, keen, red-blooded Americans there is nothing so valuable as organic iron—Nuxated Iron. It often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time. It is conservatively estimated that Nuxated Iron is now being used by over three million people annually, and it has been used and endorsed by such men as U. S. Commissioner of Immigration Hon. Anthony Caminetti, also United States Judge G. W. Atkinson, of the Court of Claims of Washington, and others. Nuxated Iron is dispensed by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff Wilson Co., Enderle Drug Co., Pauley's Drug Store Co., in this city, and other druggists everywhere.

After the "Flu" —Fever or Cold

Clean the Acidity and Toxic Poisons Out of the Digestive Tract

Millions are now suffering from the after effects of the deadly "flu," a fever or a cold. Their appetites are poor; they are weak, and they are waiting for their strength to come back.

If these people could only realize that the return to health and strength would be greatly helped by giving attention to the stomach—that is, removing the acidity and toxic poisons from the entire digestive tract, making it act naturally, so that the body will receive the full strength of the food eaten—a great deal of suffering would be saved to humanity.

Everyone knows that the disease itself, and the strong medicines that have been taken, upset the stomach, leave it hot and feverish, the mouth dry, the tongue coated, a nasty taste, and no desire to eat. This is a poor foundation to build new strength on.

Now, tens of thousands of people all over this country are using EATONIC for the purpose of cleaning these poisonous after-effects right out of the system and they are obtaining wonderful results—so wonderful that the amazingly quick benefits are hardly believable, just as shown in the remarkable letter which is published upon the request of this sturdy old Civil War veteran. He is 77 years old. Read what he says EATONIC did for him:

"I am an old soldier, past seventy-seven years. I had the Spanish influenza and it left my stomach in an awful shape. I tried three different doctors but got no relief. As a last resort I sent and got a box of EATONIC and to my greatest surprise the very first tablet I took helped me. I can now eat anything I want, and feel fine."

Yours thankfully,
Fowler, Indiana
Dec. 4, 1918 C. S. Martin

P. S.: If you can make any use of this letter for suffering humanity, you are at liberty to do so. C.S.M.

This is only one case out of thousands. You should make the EATONIC test in your own case at once. You have everything to gain—not a penny can you lose, for we take all the risk. Your own common sense, your own feelings, tell you that a good appetite, good digestion, a good stomach, with the fever poisons and effects of strong medicines out of your system, will put you on the road to strong, robust health again.

You want to enjoy life again after you have battled with the "flu", fever or colds, or any other illness that has taken your strength. You want to get back your old-time vigor, be full of pep and enthusiasm—be able to work with ease, instead of listlessly, half-heartedly dragging out a mere existence.

So be sure to take a box of EATONIC home with you today. We cannot urge this too strongly. If EATONIC fails to give you positive beneficial results, it will not cost you a penny. There is no risk—the benefit is surely all for you.

CONCRETE PARAPET AT CITY THEATER

Walls on East and West Sides Will Be Completed in Two Weeks.

The Municipal Theater in Forest Park is being enclosed in a parapet sounding wall of concrete from six to nine feet high, which is expected to improve the acoustics and enhance the beauty.

The walls are being built on the east and west sides of the theater. The north side, on Summit drive, was built two years ago. The wall is the Greek architecture style, with three entrances on each side, with ornamental doors of classic design, with pillars. The pylons will be used as a base for flood lights illuminating the theater and stage. Along the top of the wall are ornamental lamps for lighting the walks outside the theater. An imposing entrance opening on Summit drive has been constructed. Over this are arranged flood lights and projectors and base for the operators to control the lighting of the auditorium and stage.

The wall will not be completed at the opening of the municipal opera season Monday, but will be within two weeks. The wall will add greatly to the dignity of the structure, which covers five acres on the hillside and in the glen. The auditorium covers two and three-fourths acres of ground and the stage one-fourth acre, while fully two acres are devoted to the dressing rooms.

The dressing rooms, which will be completed and ready for occupancy Thursday, consist of two rooms, having a capacity for 250 persons, thoroughly equipped with conveniences.

The construction of the theater was made possible through the Advertising Club of St. Louis and the St. Louis Style Show. The St. Louis Style Show installed the best switchboard of any theater in the United States. In addition to this, the 9000 chairs which make an evening at the theater enjoyable through comfortable seating have been paid for by various commercial, civic and fraternal organizations using the theater. At the close of the Style Show the chairs will become the city's property without incumbrance.

At the meeting of the Executive Board of the Women's Council at the headquarters, 922 Title Guaranty Building, a resolution was passed indorsing the Municipal Opera Company and its endeavor to make possible a summer opera at popular prices.

WASHINGTON GIRL STUDENTS PRESENT "THREADS OF FATES"

More Than 100 Young Women Take Part in Interpretive Dances and Pantomime.

"The Threads of the Fates," the McMillan day play, which was to have been presented by girl students of Washington University May 20, but was postponed because of inclement weather, was presented yesterday afternoon and evening in the court of McMillan Hall, women's dormitory. The play, consisting of interpretive dances and pantomime, was written by Miss Frances Broerman, a student at the university.

The play opens with the Fates spinning their threads on the steps of a Grecian temple. The Spirit of Earth evolved from Waves, and youths, maidens and two lovers, are summoned by her. Diana, Goddess of the Hunt, enters and entices the girl with her bow and quiver, while the Threads of the Fates become entangled by the Bads. Pan, satyrs, Bacchus, nymphs, dryads and the barbarians increase the tangle in their wild dances, until Fancy is brought forth by the Spirit of Earth, and the tangle is cut. Fancy, then picks a thread from the tangle and the Lovers are reunited.

Leading parts were taken by Misses Grace Woods, Margaret Braun, Ida Parker, Frances Broerman, Irene Mueller, Helen Kammerer, Martha L. Castles, Sophie Dubuque, Mary Hope, Doris Talbot, Jeanette Brinkman, Lois Forsythe, Gladys Mueller and Lillian Stupp. Elaborate costumes were designed by Miss Margaret Ewing. More than 100 girls formed the dancing groups. The play will be repeated again tonight.

"HOBO COLLEGE" ON BOWERY

James Eads How Says Institution Will Provide Post-Graduate Courses.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 11.—"Hobo College" opened its doors on the Bowery yesterday, under the direction of James Eads How of St. Louis, the so-called "millionaire hobo." All graduate hoboes who desire post-graduate courses, in such subjects as "sociology," "industrial law" and "public speaking," are invited to enroll.

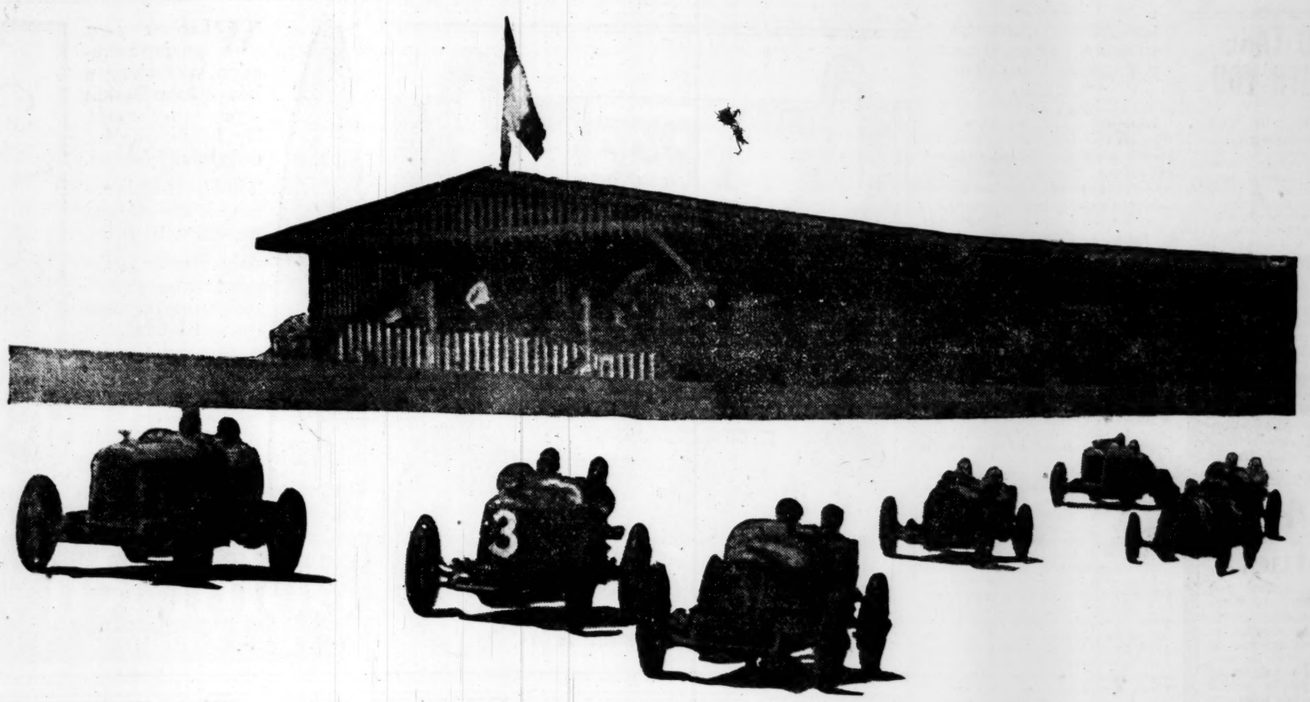

Students will start the day with a two-hour job hunt. If they fail in their quest, they can return with first-hand information for a course in sociology. At 2:30 p. m. the studies will close with a "jungle lunch," menus not provided. How says the "college" is modeled on similar successful institutions in Chicago and Cincinnati. He invites discharged soldiers to join the classes.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 11.—A bill appropriating $27,000, with which to reimburse persons who contributed to a prosecution fund growing out of the East St. Louis race riot, was passed by the House yesterday and goes to the Senate.

A Performance That Has No Parallel

Time after time, with inveterate regularity, Goodyear Cord Tires have in the past four years captured the honors on speedway, road course and straightaway.

Today, by virtue of their unmatched and indefatigable performance, they hold all important world's records in motor racing from one to six hundred miles.

Yet it is doubtful if ever they have served with higher honor than in the International 500-mile Victory Sweepstakes at Indianapolis, May 31st.

Nine of the ten drivers in the Sweepstakes who finished in prize-money positions piloted their cars through the savage contest on Goodyear Cord Tires.

Howard Wilcox, driving his able Peugeot over the difficult course to victory at an average speed of 87.12 miles an hour, rode on Goodyear Cord Tires.

So did Hearne in his Durant Special, Goux in his Peugeot, Guyot in his Ballot, finishing second, third and fourth in the order named.

So did DePalma in his Packard, Louis Chevrolet in his Frontenac, Vail in his Hudson, Hickey in his Hudson, and Gaston Chevrolet in his Frontenac, finishing sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth, respectively.

Ira Vail and Denny Hickey in their Hudsons, the only two drivers to cover the entire 500 miles without a tire change, both rode on Goodyear Cord Tires.

Twenty-seven of the 33 cars that started were equipped with Goodyear Cord Tires; 13 of the 14 cars that finished were so equipped.

Despite a pace exceptionally punishing, there were 38.5% fewer tire changes in relation to the number of cars starting, than in any previous 500-mile race on this course.

The speed, endurance and stamina demonstrated by Goodyear Cord Tires in this contest constitute a performance that has no parallel in racing annals.

It is the capacity for such performance in everyday as well as exhibition service that has made Goodyear Tires the most popular tires in the world.

FRANCIS WARNS OF PERIL FROM RUSSIA

Unless Stable Government Is Established, He Says, Germans Will Control Vast Country.

By the Associated Press.

RYE BEACH, N. H., June 11.—Warning that, if a stable government is not established in Russia, Germany will utilize Russian resources and man-power and again become a great menace to the people of Europe, is given today by David R. Francis of St. Louis, American Ambassador to Russia. Francis is recuperating here from illness which compelled him to undergo a surgical operation in London on his way home from Archangel. He is awaiting orders from the State Department.

Francis was prompted to make the statement by the recent speeches of Frank A. Vanderlip, formerly president of the National City Bank of New York, in which Vanderlip gave his views of the industrial situation in Europe and told America that she must be prepared to extend her credit to put European business on its feet.

"I have read with great interest," said the Ambassador, "Mr. Vanderlip's note of warning delivered before the Economic Club in New York several days ago. Mr. Vanderlip had unequalified facilities for studying conditions in Europe during his four or five months' visit, and his address, coming as it does from the president (since resigned) of the largest financial institution in America, imparts most valuable information. He is not in the diplomatic service; if he were, he would have thought a second time concerning his utterance about labor conditions in England. Those conditions are more or less serious in every European country, and merit attention even in the United States.

Spirit Frowned Upon.

"The Bolshevik spirit which is now manifesting itself in the Canadian strikes, I am glad to see, is frowned upon by the labor unions in that country as well as in our own. If that spirit should dominate in the new world, or even if it should permeate labor circles to the extent it did in Russia in the beginning of the Bolshevik revolution, it would, as it did there, attempt to appropriate the lands, and that would be very deplorable for the labor unions of America. Here the public domain, immense as it was, has practically all been taken up by settlers who own the soil they till and would not listen with any patience to the Bolshevik doctrine of nationalizing the land.

"Lenine has realized this, as, before I left Russia he said Boshevism had no cause to fear the large land owners, or feudal barons, as he called them, but the small holders among the peasantry were the most powerful enemies of Bolshevism.

"I did not intend to digress, however, even to this extent, from what I wished to say concerning Mr. Vanderlip's address. While he visited almost every accessible country in Europe, belligerent and neutral, he did not go to Russia nor mention the resources of that afflicted country in his comprehensive statement. He did not even take into account the productive capacity in Russia when he stated that the population of Europe had grown from 110,000,000 to 440,000,000, and without increasing its productivity nearly in the same ratio.

Production in Russia.

"Russia, during the five years ending with 1915, produced an average of 784,329,200 bushels of wheat, as compared with our 802,055,800 bushels during the same period. The year before the war began, 1913, Russia produced 960,000,000 bushels of wheat, as compared with our 763,300,000 bushels. During those five years the average production of oats in Russia was 1,045,095,800 bushels, as against our average of 1,224,188,200 bushels. Likewise, Russia's average production of barley for this five-year period was 492,555,000 bushels, while our average was only 198,777,600 bushels. The disparity of rye production is still more startling; Russia's average for the five-year period was 935,124,000 bushels, and ours was only 39,424,400 bushels. The Russians eat more rye bread than bread made of wheat.

"The grand total for the five years, 1911-15, both inclusive, for the crops of wheat, oats, barley and rye was as follows: Russia, 16,285,500,000 bushels; United States, 11,322,230,000 bushels; average of Russia for five years, 3,247,100,000 bushels; average of United States, 2,264,446,000 bushels.

"It will be seen from these figures that Russia, notwithstanding her population of 180,000,000 people, can furnish enough surplus to feed all of the remainder of Europe. These figures show only the capacity of Russia for growing those grains which sustain European life—Europe has not yet learned to eat corn bread.

"Russia has boundless forests of timber, enormous deposits of coal, copper and lead, to say nothing of her deposits of the precious ores, gold, silver and platinum.

German Influence in Russia.

"Germany has not only been studying the immense resources of Russia for a half century but, during the past several decades, has given careful attention to the Russian character, going so far as to place German teachers in Russian schools. As I said in my testimony before the Overman Committee of the Senate, and on various other occasions, if Germany had deferred the war a decade or five years even, she would have had such a strong foothold in Russia that it would have been impossible to dislodge her. I have also expressed the view many times that it would be difficult, if possible, to establish peace in Europe with chaos prevailing in Russia or even with Bolshevik rule dominating Russia.

"It is also my conviction, if a stable Government is not established in Russia that Germany will utilize the resources of that country, organize its man power, as Germany knows so well how to do, and become as powerful and as great a menace to the people of Europe at the end of one or two decades as she was at the beginning of the world war. Lloyd-George said to one of his colleagues at the Paris conference, 'Any peace which we negotiate here with Russia left out would be a travesty, for Russia comprises half of the dry land of Europe and half of Asia also,' and he might have added over one-seventh of the dry land of the earth."

PARIS, June 11.—News was received here that the airplane of Lieut. Jean Pierre Fontan, who was compelled to land at Moncayo, 40 miles northwest of Zaragossa, Spain, was destroyed in landing, and Fontan and his mechanic, Calmet, were slightly injured.

Lieut. Fontan left Villa Coublay early Sunday in an attempt to fly to Dakar, Africa, on the first leg of a flight across the Atlantic to Brazil.

A. F. L. HEARS PLAN FOR U. S. RAIL OWNERSHIP

Counsel for Brotherhoods Explains Proposition and Salient Principles Are Indorsed.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 11.—A proposal that organized labor insist upon public ownership of the railroads of the country was submitted yesterday to the delegates attending the reconstruction convention of the American Federation of Labor by Glenn E. Plumb, counsel for the Railroad Brotherhoods. Representatives of the railroad workers received unanimous consent from the convention for Plumb to explain the plan, the salient principles of which have received their indorsement.

The speaker's statement that the ownership of the systems should be acquired immediately was greeted with prolonged applause. The cheering was renewed when Plumb said that with the Government substituting Government bonds for outstanding securities the railroads would be "removed from the dictatorship of Wall street."

Government ownership of the rail transportation system, said the speaker, would mean an annual saving in interest costs of from $400,000,000 to $600,000,000 annually, and probably would permit a reduction of 10 per cent in current transportation rates. The plan as detailed by Plumb, proposes the operation of the roads by a single corporation regulated by and accountable to the Government for all its acts and expenditures. "Such a corporation," said the spokesman for the brotherhoods, "would require no capital."

Trust Ownership for Employes.

"It should be organized under Federal laws. It should be authorized to take and hold and operate these properties under the full regulatory power of the Government. It should be required to meet all costs of operation and fixed charges upon the capital employed, which had been guaranteed by the Government. A certain agreed percentage of the net results of operations should belong to it. The stock of this corporation should be held in trust for the benefit of the employes. The earnings should constitute a trust fund to be declared as a dividend upon the amounts paid to the labor which it employs, every employe receiving that proportion of this trust fund which his annual wage bore to the total annual compensation of all employes.

"The affairs of the corporation should be administered by a board of directors which, tentatively it is suggested, should be selected in the following manner:

"One-third of the directors to be elected by the classified employes below the grade of appointed officials, one-third by the appointed officers and employes, the final third being appointed by the President of the United States.

"This board of directors should have power to appoint all officers from president down to the point where employment begins by classification of all other employes."

Indorsement Recommended.

The so-called Plumb plan has already been presented to the executive council of the federation. The council in its report now before the conference recommends that the convention indorse Government ownership of the railroads.

Almost 100 resolutions were submitted today, but were not made public. As an indication of the feeling of the convention toward extremists and advocates of violence, virtually all the delegates are wearing red, white and blue buttons in their lapels with the motto: "American Citizens, Loyal to Constitutional Government."

Harry Boland, a special envoy of the "Irish republic," arrived to explain the aims of the Sinn Feiners. As he was unable to obtain passports he made his way to the United States as a stoker on a freighter. While routine business was being transacted crowds of delegates gathered about him and listened to his exposition of the objects of his party.

YOUTH IN RAILROAD YARDS SHOT BY SPECIAL OFFICER

Three Bullets Hit Boy Whom Brooklyn (Ill.) Detective Said He Thought Was Freight Robber.

Rodgers Tyler, 19 years old, of 1012 Papin street, was shot three times last midnight by Special Officer R. E. Davis, an employe of the Wabash Railroad Co., while Tyler was in the Wabash Railroad yards at Brooklyn, Ill.

Tyler said he was endeavoring to "ride a freight" to Chicago. Davis chased him from the Wabash yards into the Big Four yards, and he was found by a Big Four yard crew, which took him in a locomotive to Relay Station, from where he was conveyed to St. Mary's Hospital.

One bullet passed through his right knee cap, another injured his right ankle and a third lodged in his left arm.

Davis reported that Tyler ran when he ordered him to halt under the impression that Tyler was trying to rob a freight car. He fired three shots as Tyler ran from the yards, and when he saw him fall he went to a telephone to summon an ambulance, but when he returned Tyler had disappeared.

Accident Verdict in Contractor's Death.

Broderick Estate to Family.

The will of John J. Broderick, president of the Broderick & Bascom Rope Co., who died last Saturday, was filed yesterday. He leaves all of the income from his stock in the rope company to his widow, Mrs. Emilie Broderick, and divides the residue of the property equally among her and three children—John K. and Arthur L. Broderick and Mrs. Mary Angela Jennings. John K. Broderick is appointed trustee of the stock.

Teeth Cannot Last

If You Let That Film Remain

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Why Brushed Teeth Discolor and Decay

Millions of people find that teeth brushed daily still discolor and decay. Tartar forms on them. And most people, soon or late, suffer pyorrhea.

Old methods of tooth brushing have proved sadly inadequate. Statistics show that tooth troubles have constantly increased.

Now dentists know the reason. It lies in a film—that slimy film which you feel on your teeth with your tongue. It clings and stays in certain places, particularly in crevices.

That is what discolors—not your teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. "Bacterial plaque" is the dental name for film. Those germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to that film.

The tooth brush used in the old ways leaves much of this film intact. The ordinary dentifrice cannot dissolve it. Soapy tooth pastes even help it to cling.

So much of this film—the great tooth destroyer—has been left to do its damage. Nearly everybody has had teeth wrecked by it, despite the daily brushing.

Dental science has long sought a way to end that film. It has now evolved an efficient film combatant. Able authorities have proved this by many clinical tests. Now, for general use, the method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Leading dentists everywhere are urging its adoption.

And we offer you a 10-Day Tube to show its effects.

Now You Can End It In a Pleasant Way

Pepsodent is a dainty tooth paste, based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

This method seems simple, but pepsin must be activated. The usual method is an acid, harmful to the teeth. So pepsin long seemed impossible.

Science has made it possible now by the discovery of a harmless activating method. Five governments have already granted patents. That method, used in Pepsodent, has brought about this dental revolution.

The effects of Pepsodent have been proved beyond question. Thousands of tests have been made and watched by experts. Results in some cases have been watched for years.

They are so prompt, so apparent that anyone can prove them. And that is the object of this offer. The stores named below have been supplied with liberal 10-Day Tubes. And they will give you one, entirely free, if you present the coupon this week.

Do this for your own sake—for your children's sake. Use Pepsodent like any tooth paste. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten—how they glisten—as the fixed film disappears.

Old methods have not ended film—you know that. See if this way does. Few things are more important.

Then decide for yourself what to do in the future. Hundreds of thousands are now making this test, and they do not return to the old ways. Nor will you.

Cut out the coupon now.

How Fat Folks May Become Slim

To be overstout is humiliating. Style and fat folks are strangers. Therefore, people who are carrying around a burden of unhealthy and unsightly fat will be glad to know how they may reduce their weight without starvation diet or tiresome exercises.

If you want to get rid of superfluous fat in a simple, safe and reliable way, here is a test worth trying. Spend some time in the open air, practise deep breathing and get from any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night; also follow the other simple directions that come with the box.

Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight, and don't leave off the treatment, or even skip a single dose, until you are down to normal weight, so that you feel and look wonderfully younger and healthier.

Every person who is too fat should give this treatment a trial. You will probably find it is just what you need. Amaze your friends!—ADV.

THIN, FRAIL FOLKS NEED PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by Judge & Dolph, Enderle Drug Stores, Johnson Bros.' Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., in St. Louis, and most all druggists, under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.—ADV.

ACT LIKE ELECTRIC BUTTONS ON TOES

Tells why a corn is so painful and says cutting makes them grow.

Press an electric button and you form a contact with a live wire which rings the bell. When your shoes press against your corn it pushes its sharp roots down upon a sensitive nerve and you get a shock of pain.

Instead of trimming your corn which merely makes them grow, just step into any drug store and ask for a quarter of an ounce of freezone. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn stops the soreness instantly, and soon the corn shrivels up so it lifts right out, root and all, without pain. This drug is harmless and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin.—ADV.

Treatment is usually surprisingly short and improvement noticed every day. Poslam is harmless; use it for Pimples, Rashes and all eruptional disorders.

Sold everywhere. For free sample write to Emergency Laboratories, 243 West 47th St., New York City.

HILL OPPONENTS PLAN INQUIRY BY STATE LEGISLATURE

Say Steps Will Be Taken for Further Probe Into Administrative Methods of Missouri U. President.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 11.—Steps looking to a legislative investigation of the methods of administration of the University of Missouri by Dr. A. Ross Hill, its president, will be begun, according to opponents of Hill, who today said they were dissatisfied with the manner in which the board of curators conducted an inquiry which resulted yesterday in a complete exoneration of Hill of all charges filed against him.

As the Legislature will not be in session until January, 1921, such an inquiry is a long way off, but former Senator Ben Anderson of Columbia said that the collection of evidence would be conducted systematically to have ready a detailed showing for the Legislature.

So far as developed in the investigation Monday night and yesterday, there is no serious ground for complaint of Dr. Hill, though Anderson said the board arbitrarily advanced the date of the investigation, and the complainants were taken unawares and were not prepared with the evidence which he said it will be possible to collect.

Anderson and J. Kelly Wright, a lecturer of the State Board of Agriculture, asked the curators to postpone the inquiry, but the request was denied, the curators taking the position that the complainants had been given sufficient time to prepare their evidence, and that if they had no more than was produced there was no occasion for the curators to take the matter seriously.

While the curators made public their findings, all of the hearings were conducted in secret and newspapermen and others were denied admittance.

The general tenor of the charges against Hill was that he was autocratic, despotic and abusive in his treatment of the members of the university faculty, and that his conduct had so offended a large number of professors that they had resigned and had gone to other universities. This, the complainants contended, had rendered the school inefficient and unless corrected would, they said, eventually destroy the effectiveness of the university. They contended it could be corrected only by the removal of Hill.

Dr. Hill's Explanation.

Hill offered evidence, which the board members said was satisfactory, that none of the professors who had resigned since he became president had quit because of differences with him, but that all had gone because they could obtain larger salaries at other places, or because they considered other schools offered them better opportunities in their particular lines.

Anderson said that when the charges were filed several weeks ago the board had given until its next meeting, the latter part of the month, for the offering of proof to substantiate them. Through the influence of Hill, he said, the date of the meeting had been advanced to Monday night, and he asserted that as much of the evidence had to be collected at a distance from Columbia, there was not sufficient time to prepare.

The complainants offered the names of 12 professors, still connected with the university, and suggested that they be called before the board in executive session to tell of their experiences with Hill. Instead of calling in these professors the board asked for written statements. All except two said they had no criticism of Hill to offer. All of the deans appeared in person before the board.

Say They Will Push Inquiry.

While the president of the university emerged from his first open encounter with his enemies with complete vindication from the curators, to whom he is responsible for his conduct of the institution, his opponents insist that they have not the slightest intention of abandoning their fight. They say they realize that there is little probability they can get action from the curators against Hill, and that they will not rest until the next Legislature meets.

There always is considerable opposition to the university from a minority of the rural members, but Hill's opponents believe they can bring to bear sufficient evidence to provide for the appointment of a legislative committee which will hear them with more sympathy than curators.

Dr. Frank G. Nifong, a Columbia surgeon, who has taken the lead in the opposition, did not appear before the curators at their investigation, the entire charges against the president being submitted by Anderson H. Wright.

Hill told the curators that the opposition was influenced entirely by petty spite. He said Nifong was resentful because the university provided students with medical and surgical attention for a nominal fee paid each semester by all students, and that as a result of this policy Nifong's surgical cases were greatly reduced in number.

He said Anderson was angry because several years ago his son had failed to obtain appointment to the chair of economics in the university, and Wright because he had failed to obtain a position as an agricultural lecturer.

All these men denied they were actuated by any other desire than the success of the university. Nifong refused to talk for publication, saying that he would not have a part in the investigation, because if he did, he said, Hill would "camouflage the real facts by directing attention to him."

The vote of approval given Hill by the curators at the close of the investigation was very strong. They denounced the charges as baseless, and due to personal animosity and expressed their entire approval of the president's administration methods.

CHILD DIED OF DIPHTHERIA

Coroner's Verdict in Case of 8-Year-Old Marie C. Selzer.

A verdict of death from diphtheria was returned by a Coroner's jury today at an inquest into the case of Marie C. Selzer, 8 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Selzer of 1318 Hebert street.

The only medical attention the child had, according to testimony, was that of a Christian Science practitioner, who prayed over the dying girl. The child died Sunday evening at the home an aunt, Kate Selzer, 2138 East Fair avenue. Mrs. J. M. Selzer, grandmother of the child, testified that she had looked at the child's throat but thought the inflammation was tonsilitis. The child grew worse, and a physician was summoned, but he arrived after her death. A culture revealed the presence of diphtheria.

Lies in Home Four Days After Fall.

Barbara Darmstetter, 90 years old, after falling and fracturing her hip, at her home on a farm south of Belleville, lay helpless for almost four days before she was found by John Grandcolas, a neighbor. She was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital at Belleville, where her condition is said to be serious.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupify, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. There can be no danger in the use of Castoria if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher as it contains no opiates or narcotics of any kind.

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Let's Think It Over.

There is such a thing as saying too much on any subject, and the "grand-stand" talker sooner or later becomes a bore. The truth is always welcomed, and the truth reiterated and confirmed is more than welcome—it reaches your innermost soul.

Fletcher's Castoria is all its advertising has claimed for it. Scrutinized by the microscope of public opinion and used for over thirty years it stands without a peer in the hearts of thoughtful, cautious, discerning Mothers. And once used, mother love—there is no substitute for mother love—will scorn to try a "substitute" or a "just-as-good".

Masquerading under many names drugs that are injurious to the tender babe have found their way into some households, but the light of experience soon casts them out. Are they cast out before it is too late?

Who Was The Life Of The Party?

You see Jim and I haven't been married for very long, and we like to do a lot of entertaining. Jim especially loves to show me off, and he blows about what a good cook I am—you know how husbands are!—so I have to live up to my reputation. I'm really not a wonderful cook at all—but I know what Jim likes, and I try to flavor things with the relish he's so fond of.

One evening last week we had a whole houseful of company, and I thought I'd try something in the new chafing dish.

I had bought some cold boiled ham which I chopped very fine and moistened with mustard. I spread a layer of this between thin slices of stale bread, dipped the sandwiches into a mixture of beaten eggs and milk, and fried them in the greased chafing dish until they were golden brown on both sides. Before serving I sprinkled them well with that piquant A1 Sauce that Jim is so fond of. It gives everything a different taste that is indescribably good. And I discovered that Jim isn't the only one who likes that flavor. You would have thought that crowd had never eaten before! I know they all had a wonderful time at our house that night, and Jim fairly burst with pride. He said I was the life of the party—but I wasn't. It was the A1 Sauce!—ADV.

HARKINS-MORRISON WEDDING THIS EVENING

Reception to Follow Ceremony at Home of Parents of Bride.

THE marriage of Miss Ruth Esther Harkins to Lieut. Charles Edward Morrison, U. S. A., will take place this evening at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Richard Harkins of 5412 Cabanne avenue, with the Rev. Lewis M. Hale of the Delmar Avenue Baptist Church officiating. The ceremony will be at 7 o'clock, with only members of the family present. A bridal dinner will follow, and later a reception from 8 until 10 o'clock, to which a large number of guests have been invited.

The bride's only attendant will be her little cousin, Virginia Fain of Oklahoma City, who will be the flower girl. She will wear a pink organdie ruffled frock, and will carry an old-fashioned nosegay of pink and blue flowers.

The bride's gown is of ivory-tinted satin with a draped skirt, and made with a basque effect. The court train of the satin falls from the shoulders, and is lined with shell pink satin. Her tulle veil will be arranged to the back of her coiffure with orange blossoms, and she will carry a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

SHE WILL WED TEXAS LIEUTENANT TONIGHT

Miss Ruth Esther Harkins

The ceremony will take place before an improvised altar of a lattice work of smilax and pink and white gladioli, tall vases holding the same flowers on either side.

Lieut. Morrison was graduated from West Point last November, and is attached to the Sixteenth U. S. Cavalry, stationed at Fort Mercedes, Tex., where he will take his bride to reside.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding are Mrs. Frank E. Fain and Mrs. John A. Harkins of Oklahoma City, Ok.; Mrs. A. B. Smith of Los Angeles, Cal., and C. P. Carman of St. Cloud, Fla.

Social Items

Miss Sunie Cabanne Smith of 4334 Westminster place expects to depart next week for Point-aux-Barques, Mich., where she will open her parents' summer cottage for the season. Later Miss Smith will go to New York, where she will be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Everett Little.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. D. Meier of the Kent road, St. Louis County, will go to Biddeford Pool, Me., this summer to be the guests of Mrs. Meier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Niedringhaus of 79 Vandeventer place. Other St. Louisans who will spend the summer there are Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wear, Mrs. H. Blaksley Collins and her daughter, Miss Frances Collins, and Capt. and Mrs. Samuel McPheeters.

Mrs. Claude Smith of 5851 Nina place entertained today with a luncheon at the Ridgedale Country Club in honor of Miss Nana Phelan, whose marriage to Paul Gildehaus will take place next Wednesday. About 20 guests were present. This evening Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gildehaus, the prospective bridegroom's parents, will entertain with a dinner for their son and his fiancee at Sunset Hill Country Club, and on Saturday Miss Alice Giraldin of the Oxford Apartments will entertain with a dinner at Sunset Hill for Miss Phelan.

Mrs. Frank Davidson of 5931 Maple avenue has as her guests her brother and his wife, Capt. and Mrs. William H. Lane of Fort Wayne, Ind. Capt. Lane has been in France for the past two years with the U. S. Medical Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Andrews of 6000 Waterman avenue entertained on Monday evening with a dinner in honor of Capt. and Mrs. Ray Larkin. Mrs. Larkin was Miss Katherine Thomas, a bride of last week. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Irwin, Misses Mona Matthews, Mary Blessing Andrews, Messrs. R. E. Maloney and J. B. Andrews.

Lieut. Frank E. Chase, stationed at U. S. A. General Hospital at Colonial, N. J., is at his home, 4328 Chouteau avenue, on a 10-days' leave. He expects to return East on Sunday.

The marriage of Miss Alice Carey McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McCarthy of 5436 Geraldine avenue, to Richard Eugene Francisco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Francisco of 4845 Greer avenue, was solemnized at the Church of the Nativity this morning at 7 o'clock mass with the Rev. Father J. A. Cruse officiating. Miss Margaret McCarthy, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and Capt. Roy R. Downing served as best man. A wedding breakfast followed at the home of the bride's parents and after a honeymoon trip Mr. Francisco and his bride will be at home after July 15 at 4116 Lafayette avenue.

The marriage of Miss Lottie E. Reinhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Reinhardt of 3888 Utah place to Henry A. Kieselhorst of 4365 Forest Park boulevard took place at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. H. Magill, pastor of the Oak Hill Presbyterian Church, at the church parsonage, 3927 Connecticut street. Charles O. Thompson was best man and Miss Gertrude Dever was maid of honor.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the members of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Kieselhorst departed last night for California and the West and upon their return they will be at home at 3888 Utah place.

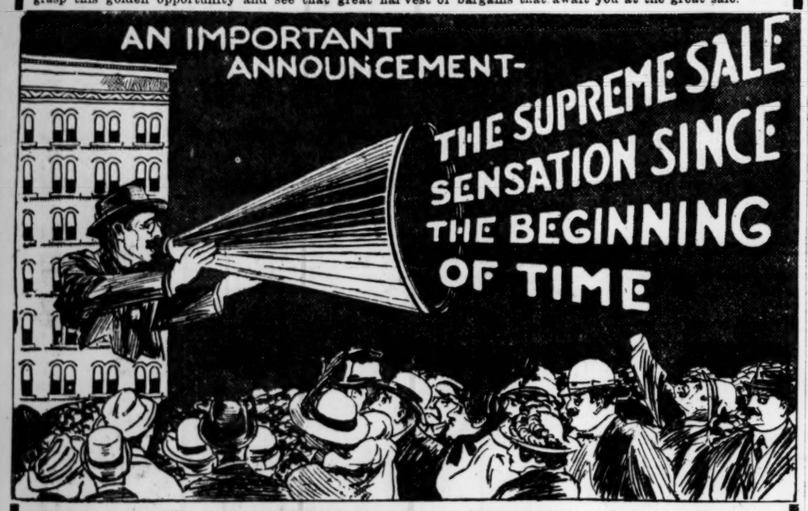

J. A. Kieselhorst of Alton, a brother of the bridegroom, and his wife, came to attend the marriage.

What shrinks and stiffens blankets

The right way to wash them—

IT'S rubbing soap on blankets that shrinks and stiffens them. And using ordinary soap to wash them. That was the old way, and it was ruinous for woolens. When you rub or twist woolens, they become stiff, matted and shrunken.

With Lux there's no rubbing. Only sousing in the rich, pure lather, and gently pressing the suds through the soiled parts. Lux comes in delicate flakes, which dissolve instantly in hot water and whisk up into a wonderful lather. Lux is so pure, that it won't hurt anything that pure water alone won't injure.

Wash your blankets this year the Lux way! Have them like new again. Your grocer, druggist or department store has Lux. —Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Directions

Use two tablespoonfuls of Lux to a gallon of water. Dissolve in boiling or very hot water, whisk into a thick lather, then add cold water to make the suds lukewarm. Put the blankets in. Then squeeze the suds again and again through the soiled spots, but do not rub.

Rinse three times in water of the same temperature as that in which you washed the blankets, dissolving a little Lux in the last rinsing water. Do not twist. Put through a loose wringer, or squeeze the water out. Dry in the shade in a moderate temperature.

There is nothing like Lux for washing woolens!

Does your face "burn" after shaving?

HOW frequently does your face feel drawn and irritated after you shave?

Almost invariably the trouble is caused by a razor blade that has begun to dull. With a dull blade you unconsciously bear down too much, and inevitably irritate the tiny hair cells.

The remedy lies in using a razor that provides a keen edge for every shave—the AutoStrop Razor.

AutoStrop Razor Blades are made of the hardest, toughest steel produced for razor blade use, each with the sharpest, finest kind of a cutting edge. To keep these blades keen-edged as when new, the AutoStrop Razor is made self-stropping.

A pressure of the thumb adjusts the blade for close, medium or light shaving.

The AutoStrop Razor is the only safety razor that sharpens, shaves and cleans without removing the blade.

PLAN FOR BUILDING HOMES FOR WORKERS

C. of C. Approves Proposal for $1,000,000 Corporation to Sell Houses on Time Payments.

A plan for the formation of a $1,000,000 corporation to build homes for sale on time payments to "honest and trustworthy men working for wages or salaries" was approved at a joint meeting of committees of the Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

Speakers at the meeting said the housing problem in St. Louis had become acute because of the cessation of building during the war period and the influx of new industries, bringing with them thousands of employes who have difficulty in finding suitable homes.

The resolution calling for the formation of a corporation to build homes for working men was introduced by Tom W. Bennett, president of the Mortgage Trust Co., who suggested "The St. Louis Home Owners' Association" as a tentative name for the organization. Joseph W. Folk, counsel for the Chamber of Commerce, was authorized to draw up articles of incorporation and to have a bill introduced in Congress to put the company's securities on the same tax exemption basis as Government farm loan securities.

Monthly Payment Plan.

Plans for the organization provide that houses are to be sold at actual cost, with a minimum cash payment of 10 per cent. No house is to cost more than $5000 and monthly payments will be made on a basis which will liquidate the debt in 10, 12 or 15 years.

Each monthly payment will include principal, interest, taxes and insurance and the rate of interest will be not more than 6 per cent. The corporation's profits will be limited to 5 per cent on its investment. No commission or brokerage charges will be assessed against the purchasers. There will be a provision for cancelling or deferring the monthly payments in case of death or disability of the purchaser.

Jackson Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who presided at the meeting, said the need for more homes for working men was imperative because: "Labor no longer seeks industry. Today industry seeks labor."

For Building East of Grand.

Robert S. Brookings, president of the Washington University Corporation, spoke of the need for the building up of desirable residence districts for workers in the central part of the city east of Grand avenue. Many residences in that section, he said, are vacant because they are not suited to the working man's needs.

W. A. Layman of the Wagner Electric Co. told of the great number of workingmen who are coming into St. Louis and the expansion of large manufacturing concerns would largely depend on the ability to house a sufficient number of employes.

ELECTRICAL BOARD OF TRADE TO BACK CONVENTIONS BUREAU

Subscriptions to Fund Expected to Follow Declaration: $85,276 of $100,000 Pledged.

With a total of $85,276 pledged yesterday to the $100,000 fund of the St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau, Carl F. G. Meyer, president of the bureau, today expressed his confidence that the entire amount needed will be raised.

While no definite pledges were received after the bureau luncheon, the St. Louis Electrical Board of Trade yesterday passed a resolution to back the bureau "morally and financially." Bureau officials expect this resolution will bring in a number of large subscriptions from electrical men here.

Yesterday's largest subscription was from the Optimsits' Club, $12,150. Of this amount $12,000 was from the packing industries. Iron and steel men pledged $10,000 and 22 retail automobile dealers gave $759. Wholesale grocers turned in $350, the Show You Club $150, the Junior Ad Club $100, Team No. 1, Junior Chamber of Commerce, $1695, Team No. 2 $1761, and Team No. 3 $1575.

ALARM ATTRACTS POSSE, SCARES LEBANON (ILL.) BANK ROBBERS

Robbers last night entered the Lebanon, (Ill.) Bank and made an unsuccessful attempt to break into the vault. They were frightened away by the gathering of a posse of citizens, warned by the ringing of a burglar alarm. The posse gave chase but lost the trail six miles out of town without having sighted the robbers.

Nothing was taken from the bank. In fact, the burglars in their haste left a hammer, keyhole saw, crowbar and other common appliances, in front of the vault.

The tampering with the vault lock sounded an electric bell in a livery stable. The proprietor aroused about 100 citizens and rushed the bank, finding the robbers gone.

Automobiles were sent in all directions. Fresh automobile tracks were followed to Troy Bridge, six miles from Lebanon, but lost there.

Officials of surrounding cities were notified by telephone and asked to keep a watch for suspicious automobile travelers.

Bank officials said today they had no clue as to the number of the burglars. Entrance to the building was gained by sawing a hole in a cellar door.

CHARGED WITH RAISING $1 BILLS

Former Waiter at Hotel Statler Arrested.

Federal authorities yesterday issued a warrant for John B. Kraemer, formerly a waiter at the Hotel Statler, charging him with raising a $1 bill to $10 and passing it, and he was arrested by secret service agents. On June 7 Kraemer passed a counterfeit $10 note on Mrs. Murray E Williams in her store at 106 North Sixth street, and later he tried to pass a counterfeit bill in the Stanley Cigar store, 702 Olive street.

Kraemer's method of raising $1 Federal Reserve Bank bills was to cut the ciphers from good $10 bills and paste them after the figure 1 on $1 bills. The mutilated $10 bills could be redeemed for their full value at the United States Subtreasury. Mrs. Williams and two clerks in the cigar store identified him and others will be asked to try to do so, as it is thought he succeeded in passing a number of other "queer" notes.

SUMMER R. O. T. C. AT FUNSTON

800 School and College Men Are Expected to Take Military Course.

By the Associated Press.

CAMP FUNSTON, Kan., June 11.—Eight hundred school and college men from the Central States are expected to attend the summer encampment of the Reserve Officers' Training Camp, which will open here June 21, it was announced here today. The camp will continue six weeks, closing Aug. 2. No commissions will be granted, but the work done at the camp will be credited for commissions, it was said. A course in practical warfare will be taught at the camp. Much attention will be devoted to athletics.

The Government will furnish uniforms and meet all expenses of the students while they are in the camp.

CITY AGREES TO LET U. S. KEEP HOSPITAL

Public Health Service Must Build Within Year and Pay More for Building.

The Government's proposal that the Public Health Service take over the U. S. Army Hospital being operated in the city infirmary building at 5850 Arsenal street, and about to be abandoned, was accepted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment yesterday upon condition that within a year the Public Health Service begin the erection of a hospital of its own in St. Louis and that some further remuneration for the city for the use of the building be provided.

The city officials looked with disfavor upon the project until Maj. L. P. H. Bahrenburg, who is in charge of the U. S. Marine Hospital at 3640 Marine avenue, explained that the hospital still would be used for the care of soldiers. It had been understood that the hospital would be for the care of employes of the Government's civil service.

Maj. Bahrenburg said that, due to the eagerness of the soldier to be discharged from the army, many wounded are being discharged before their treatment has been completed, but that the Government is obligated to complete their restoration to full health. For that reason, he said, the infirmary building will be used for the care of wounded soldiers who have been discharged, most of them from St. Louis or the St. Louis district. He said that the Government's facilities for the care of these men are overtaxed and that many patients are being cared for at the city hospital and in private institutions.

Thomas H. Lovelace and Edward Gengenbach of the Chamber of Commerce told of the Public Health Service's intention to build a hospital in this vicinity and that Kansas City is endeavoring to be chosen as the site. Gengenbach said that the plan was for a 750-bed hospital.

John Schmoll, Director of Public Welfare, said that the city will be put to $50,000 added expense by maintaining its infirmary in the Christian Brothers' College building.

Out of these facts grew the stipulations that the city must have further reimbursement if the infirmary building continues to be used for the Government and that the proposed new hospital should be located here.

WHITAKER ASKED TO SUBMIT PLANS FOR SHAW TRACT VILLA

Board of Estimate Request Believed to Forecast An Effort to Break a Provision of Henry Shaw's Will.

A request of Edwards Whitaker that he submit plans of a proposed villa he has announced his intention of building at Grand and Arsenal on the 200-foot strip surrounding Tower Grove Park, reserved for that purpose by the will of Henry Shaw, was made yesterday by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This was a step further in what is believed will result in an attempt to break the will as regards the provision concerning the villa construction.

Mayor Kiel said that he was unwilling that the strip should be used for bungalows. A decision of the Missouri Supreme Court in 1914 was that if the strip was not used for villas the land would not revert to the Shaw estate, but that the city would be liable for damages in the amount of the return which the villas, if built, would yield.

The move of Whitaker, one of the trustees of the property, is one to compel the city to pay for use of the strip in connection with Tower Grove Park, the subject of rental having been a question of recurring discussion for several years.

SEEKER AFTER KNOWLEDGE WAS REALLY A POLICEWOMAN

Quarter Said to Have Been Paid for Telling Fortune Is Held as Evidence.

Mrs. Anna Bannier, 31 years old, 3361 Klein street, charged by police with telling fortunes, failed to foresee that the visitor who called on her yesterday was a policewoman.

"You have an afflicted child," Mrs. Bannier told the policewoman, the latter reports. "I can cure her for 50 cents a treatment."

"That isn't what I came here for. Tell me why I'm here," the policewoman replied.

"You came here to recover something you lost."

"You're right. I want that 25 cents I paid you for telling my fortune."

Mrs. Bannier was arrested and the "lost" quarter held as evidence.

HAWES GOES TO WASHINGTON

St. Louisan Arrived at New York Yesterday From Spain.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Capt. Harry B. Hawes, who has been absent in Europe for several months as an attache of the Intelligence Bureau, left for Washington this morning to make his report to headquarters. He came in on the steamer Sac City from Barcelona yesterday and went to the Biltmore, where he refused to discuss his activities abroad.

His report will be of a confidential nature. He would not discuss Missouri politics, beyond reiterating the statement he made before sailing for Europe that he was not and would not be a candidate for any office. He said his private affairs needed all the attention he could give them, and he proposed to devote his time to them.

During the first five months of 1919, the Post-Dispatch printed 31,258 Automobile "Wants"—5524 more than the FOUR other St. Louis newspapers combined.

STRIKERS SUED FOR $2,000,000

Action Filed for People of Pittsburg Against Street Car Men's Union.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, June 11.—The people of Pittsburg, through A. E. Anderson, an attorney, have filed a suit in equity against the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, in which the union is asked to pay damages of $2,035,000.78 alleged to have been lost by the people as a result of the recent street car strike.

Manton Davis Now a Major.

Manton Davis, formerly a St. Louis attorney and at one time a Democratic candidate for Circuit Judge, has been made a Major, according to word received here yesterday. He is attached to the American Third Army of Occupation. Davis was attached to the Eighty-ninth Division after receiving his commission at Fort Riley. He was at St. Mihiel with the Eighty-ninth. Recently he has been superior Provost Judge at Third Army Headquarters, Coblenz, Germany.

The POST-DISPATCH is the only St. Louis evening newspaper giving Associated Press news service.

How American Women May Keep Faces Young

"The American smart woman ages early, far earlier than the English woman," says Christian Miller, F. C. I., the famous English health expert. She adds that our climate "so exhilarates that you over-exert yourselves and grow old before you know it. The same exhilarating air dries the skin. The skin that lacks moisture grows pale and withered looking and soon forms wrinkles.

"The American complexion" is best treated by applying pure mercolized wax which causes the faded, lifeless cuticle to flake off in minute particles, a little each day, until the fresh, young skin beneath is wholly in evidence. Every druggist has this wax; one ounce usually is sufficient. Spread on at night like cold cream, washing it off next morning.—ADV.

INQUEST INTO WOMAN'S DEATH

The Coroner will hold an inquest into the case of Miss Myrtle Bibb 30 years old, who was found dead in bed at her home, 3414 Cherokee street, yesterday.

Policemen investigating the case reported that Miss Bibb had been under Christian Science treatment since November and had no doctor in attendance at the time of her death. They report she had been ill for two years and had sought to regain her health in Colorado, returning to St. Louis in November.

Doctor Tells How to Detect Harmful Effects of Tobacco

Try These SIMPLE TESTS

New York: Doctor Conner, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, says: Many men who smoke, chew or snuff incessantly and who are seemingly healthy are suffering from progressive organic ailments. Thousands of them would never have been afflicted had it not been for the use of tobacco, and thousands would soon get well if they would only stop the use of tobacco. The chief habit-forming principle of tobacco is nicotine, a deadly poison which, when absorbed by the system, slowly affects the nerves, membranes, tissues and vital organs of the body. The harmful effect of tobacco varies and depends on circumstances. One will be afflicted with general debility, others with catarrah of the throat, indigestion, constipation, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, lack of will power, mental confusion, etc. Others may suffer from heart disease, bronchial trouble, hardening of the arteries, tuberculosis, blindness or even cancer or the common affliction known as tobacco heart. If you use tobacco in any form you can easily detect the harmful effects by making the following simple tests: Read aloud one full page from a book. If in the course of reading your voice becomes muffled, hoarse and indistinct, and you must frequently clear your throat, the chances are that your throat is affected by catarrh and it may be the beginning of more serious trouble. Next, in the morning before taking your usual smoke, walk up three flights of stair at a regular pace, then stop. If you find that you are out of breath, your heart beat is forced, trembling or irregular, you may be a victim of functional or organic heart trouble. If you feel that you must smoke, chew or snuff to quiet your nerves, you are a slave to the tobacco habit, and are positively poisoning yourself with the deadly drug, nicotine. In either case you have but two alternatives—keep on with the self-poisoning process irrespective of the dangers and suffer the consequences, or give up the habit and escape the dangers. You can overcome the craving and stop the habit in a very short time by using the following inexpensive formula: Go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol tablets, take one tablet after each meal, and in a comparatively short time you will have no desire for tobacco, the craving will have left you. With the nicotine poison out of your system your general health will quickly improve.

Note—When asked about Nicotol tablets, one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit; away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol tablets are sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all up-to-date druggists, including the Judge & Dolph, Wolff-Wilson and the Enderle Stores.—ADV.

CITY'S 1918 TRADE AND COMMERCE REVIEWED

Volume Greater Than in Any Previous Year, Merchants' Exchange Statement Shows.

A comprehensive review of trade and commerce in St. Louis, showing that during 1918 the volume of business reported by manufacturers, jobbers and merchants was the largest on record, and exceeded by a large amount the volume of business in 1917, is contained in the annual statement on trade and commerce published by the Merchants' Exchange, issued by Eugent Smith, secretary of the Exchange.

The great increase in trade, commerce and manufacture is attributed to the war. Prices reached an unprecedented high level because of a scarcity of raw materials and labor, Government restrictions and transportation difficulties. Throughout the year, according to the statement, St. Louis enjoyed greater benefits and fewer disadvantages from the war activities than any other city in the country, because of its favorable location in the heart of the country.

Showing in Dry Goods.

The statement shows that from a monetary standpoint the greatest volume of business was done by concerns handling dry goods, silks, notions, etc. About $200,000,000 worth of these goods were sold in 1918. On a tonnage basis the dry goods business showed only a slight increase, but on account of the increased values the monetary increase amounted to about 40 per cent over previous years. Millions of dollars' worth of war orders were filled by St. Louis houses.

An increase of 15 per cent in the number of hats sold by St. Louis millinery houses was reported, but high prices raised the monetary increase over 1917 to 25 per cent. Virtually no importations of French hats were made. St. Louis milliners said they were unable to supply the phenomenal demand.

Latin-American Inquiries.

Clothing manufacturers reported sales aggregating $30,000,000. There was a marked increase in inquiries regarding men's wear from South and Central America and the manufacturers assert that through the inauguration of the new Federal barge line their trade territory has been increased fully 20 per cent.

Unusually good markets prevailed for St. Louis-made hats, caps, boots and shoes. In the cap and hat industry this city is now said to be one of the most important centers in the country and a good export trade is reported. About $10,175,000 worth of hats were sold. The shoe industry sold $130,000,000 worth of its product, 75 per cent of which was made in local factories. Recently the city has become the center for the manufacture of the latest and most original styles of popular price shoes.

Glass Industry Suffered.

One of the industries, which suffered the most during the year from Government restrictions and other conditions was the building glass and bottle trade. Owing to the regulations, which practically suppressed new building operations, labor shortage and the difficulty in getting supplies, the building glass business in 1918 was about 50 per cent below that of 1917. The prohibition wave, it was said, seriously interfered with the bottle glass trade.

The statement adds that the future of the bottle glass industry is problematical, because it is difficult to determine whether the phenomenal expansion of the chemical industry and the growth of the soft-drink business will compensate for the loss of demand from brewers and distillers. The building glass trade, the statement says, faces a brighter prospect.

Paint and Oil Trade.

Concerns manufacturing and handling paints, oils and varnishes also suffered a great decrease in business as a result of war restrictions on the building industry and the almost prohibitive price of raw materials.

The brewing industry suffered the most, the statement says, as a result of the war and the prohibition movement. There was a decrease of 50 per cent in the number of barrels of beer brewed. "Brewers' profits were knocked out," the statement added, "by the writing off of assets and the shrinkage in value of bar fixtures and real estate, which caused a heavy loss of capital." It is predicted that the city will be the center of "near-beer" manufacturing in the future.

Approximately $20,000,000 worth of furs were sold here last year. Because of the war many skins from Australia and New Zealand, which formerly went to England, came to St. Louis.

Heavy Car Sales.

St. Louis car manufacturers, although hampered by certain Government restrictions and the fuel shortage, turned out about $30,000,000 worth of freight and passenger cars for the Railroad Administration and the French Government. France bought $5,000,000 worth of St. Louis-made cars.

Automobile concerns here reduced their output considerably to take over the manufacture of shells and other war materials. These plants, however, have resumed the manufacture of motor cars and the 1919 output promises to be greater than that of any preceding year. A new automobile plant, now in course of construction here, will add materially to the motor car production, the statement adds.

Valuable statistics concerning real estate, weather conditions, grain and cotton markets are also contained in the statement.

Don't stick in a rut—reach out to bigger, better things. Make use of Post-Dispatch WANTS.

WAR DATA TO BE COLLECTED

Missouri Historical Society Calls Meeting of Associate Registrars.

The Missouri Historical Society has issued notices of a meeting of all the Associate Registrars of St. Louis and St. Louis County for Adjutant-General Clark's Record Department which will take place at the Jefferson Memorial at 3 p. m. tomorrow. The purpose of the meeting is to collect all data and completed records of soldiers, sailors and marines who have served from this district.

Arrangements also will be made for attending the Honor Roll Memorial Services to be held at the foot of Art Hill at 4 p. m. Sunday.

Adjutant-General Clark has written to the Historical Society that the biographies are being prepared for the printer and are awaiting the complete data in order to go to press.

IT'S the continuous, unbroken chain of boiling point fractions that produces these results.

Red Crown contains the correct range of low boiling point fractions to insure easy starting when the engine is cold. Too many low boiling points cause undue evaporation in storage.

Red Crown Gasoline contains the correct range of intermediate, or higher, boiling point fractions to insure smooth acceleration.

It contains the correct range of high boiling point fractions to insure maximum power. Too many high boiling point fractions cause carbon in the cylinders and on the spark plugs.

Red Crown vaporizes to the last drop and leaves a minimum of carbon deposit.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone

HEALTH HINTS.

CECELIA.—Ivy Poisoning: Get 5 cts.' worth of copperas at drug store and put in a 4-oz. bottle. Then pour on it enough sweet milk to dissolve it. Apply with a rag or fingers to parts affected. It is said to give immediate and lasting relief. Second application is hardly necessary.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

W. O. C.—"Water glass used on eggs last season may be used again," it is said. Yet we read: Do not use the same liquid preservative more than 1 yr. Infertile eggs are better than fertile eggs for preserving. Do not leave eggs in the preservative longer than 1 yr. Rinse the eggs with water after removing them from the preservative. Eggs that are in good condition when removed from water glass will usually remain good for 2 weeks. Water glass eggs are practically as good as fresh eggs for all cooking purposes. If it is desired to boil them, prick a small hole through the large end of the shell before placing them in the water. The pores of the shell have been sealed tight by the water glass solution, and without the pinhole the expanding air within the shell would burst it.

LAW POINTS.

C. A. M.—Phone License Collector, city hall phone.

VICTIM.—See Prosecuting Attorney, Municipal Courts Bldg.

WAR TALK.

D. C.—Write War Department.

K. W.—Talk with Red Cross, Frisco Bldg., about your son.

DISCHARGED SOLDIER.—"Does the U. S. Government offer to lend discharged soldiers $4000 at 3 per cent for 60 yrs.?" No bill passed.

F. C. L. AND HINKY.—Soldiers must go to the Recruiting Station at 3d and Olive and get blanks there for travel pay. Will also get directions for filling out. If directions are not clear the Red Cross assists men in filling them out and seeing they are correct.

F. F.—Germany has lost her colonies in the war. She is supposed to have acquired them to increase her commerce and dispose of her surplus population. Bismarck said: "I do not want any colonies at all. Their use is to provide sinecures. That is all England at present gets out of her colonies, and Spain, too. And as for us Germans, colonies would be exactly like the silks and sables of the Polish nobleman who had no shirt to wear under them." These were the German colonies: In Africa—Togoland, acquired in 1884, population 1,000,000; Kamerun, 1884, 3,500,000; German Southwest Africa, 1884, 200,000; German Eastern Africa, 1880-90 by purchase, 7,000,000; Asia—Kiauchau Bay, 1897 (by treaty), 30,000; in Pacific Ocean—German New Guinea, King Wilhelm's land, 1885-6, Bismarck archipelago 1885, Marriane Island 1899, Solomon Islands 1886, and Marshall Islands 1886, aggregate population 389,000; Samoa—Savaii and Upola 1889 (by agreement). At the time Brazil declared war on Germany, Oc. 26, 1897, it was estimated that the German colonists and their descendants in Brazil numbered between 400,000 and 500,000, about 1-20th of the total white population. They were settled mostly in the State of Rio Grande do Sul, in the extreme southern tip of Brazil on the coast bordering Uruguay and Paraguay, and in Santa Catharina, the next State north. That region is the most favorable part of Brazil for the settlement of white men, being farthest from the equator.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROB.—See big seed stores.

M. J. G.—Public Library has books with plenty of pigeon information.

READER.—Astronomically summer begins June 21 and ends on Sep. 22.

C. O. B.—Both Missouri Senators are opposed to the war-time prohibition act.

X. Y. Z.—Eighty-eighth Division colors, blue on khaki.

HONEYSUCKLE. — Honeysuckle meanings: Honey suckle, bonds of love, honeysuckle, coral (fidelity); honeysuckle, wild inconsistancy.

WILL.—We know of no place in this city where a man who has finished the 8th grade and who works from 3 to 11 p. m. can continue his education. Business colleges may be able to be of some service to you. Consult them.

JUNE.—Girl names: Rosalia, Glenna, Merine, La Verda, Ermine, Clarice, Doris, Frances, Imogene, Linnetta, Lefa, Lois, Loena, Marjorie, Mona, Nina, Creta, Franza, Virginia, Vera, Bijou, Genevieve, Verne, Christabel, Wilhelmina, Mina, Ruth.

A. J. M. P.—For previous occupations of the members of the Senate and House of Representatives at Washington (how many were business men, how many were lawyers and how many of other professions), see Congressional directory, Public Library.

DUBIOUS.—One of the most devoted husbands we ever knew, who lost an excellent wife, wore no mourning. Mourning should be left to women wherever it is a matter of dress. The mourning custom is growing more and more restricted. Husbands may wear mourning 3 months or a year if they wish to follow a passing custom.

E. B. L.—There are few commercial opportunities open to girls who have lost the sense of hearing and of speaking. However, if your daughter has talent for commercial art and can also do sewing and millinery work it would perhaps be well for you to see the large department stores. They have a great deal of work of this character and wherever directions are necessary, they could be given in writing.

GRAY.—World's Fair flag was red, white, blue and yellow, with a white fleur-de-lis and 14 stars. The blue, white and red constitute the tricolor of the French republic, which sold us the province of Louisiana. The white and the fleur-de-lis represent old Bourbon France which explored and colonized the province. The red and yellow tell of Spain, which acquired the province in 1763, and never surrendered St. Louis until 41 yrs. later. The red, white and blue and 13 of the stars represent the original states, together with their original territorial possessions; and the 14th star stands for the province of Louisiana, which was the first addition to the national domain from without. (For school colors see Board of Education, 9th and Locust sts.)

COYNE—Camouflage is humbugging disguise. Its main principle is the destruction of outline by paint or other artifice. See camoufle; camoufleur. Stripped of all verbal camouflage, perhaps the good old American words "faking" and "faker"—even if they did have an Oriental origin—best describe the spirit of the adjunct to the modern machine of Mars. A new army division will devote itself to devising means to deceive the enemy—particularly aviators — "wherever a machine gun is set up, or a trench taken and reversed, a new road opened, or a new bridge built." Sheet-metal workers, sign and scene painters, carpenters, property men and photographers are among the trades that can furnish useful members of the new corps. British fighters at first evinced a strong dislike for such methods, and proved quite inept, so much so, in fact, that H. G. Wells, the novelist, complained: "The principle of breaking the outline does not seem to be fully grasped upon the British front. Much of the painting of guns and tents that one sees is a feeble and useless dabbing or striping; some of the tents I saw were done in concentric bands of radiating stripes that would on the whole increase their visibility from above."

SPECULATORS.
With the demand for homes today there should be 1000 buyers in St. Louis for this property. I know of no better value anywhere; there could not be a better location; the grounds, 210x356, are covered with big trees and surrounded by a cut-stone wall, with wonderful ornamental stone gates; it is a place worth while; streets, sewers, etc., all made. It is not tucked off in an obscure corner, but is in the heart of the best residence section of the best suburb of St. Louis; 14 rooms, plenty baths, big porches, hot-water heat; immediately surrounded by the handsome homes of the families of L. R. Blackmer, Alex. Pierce, Fred Plant and Ernest C. Koken; it is going to be sold immediately. You can buy this handsome country home for a price that you would have to pay for a modest city house on a 50-foot lot; look what you get; everything desirable that the city offers and all the virtues of the suburbs thrown in; it is the one big bargain of the hour; see it and make an offer; remember, it is positively going to be sold to someone right away; speculators can make good profit. I invite everybody—speculators, builders, homeseekers, to make offer; northwest corner Swon and Jefferson avs., Webster Groves; two blocks south of Lockwood and Jefferson avs.; photos at office.

A Modern Home of Best Construction
In a First-Class Location

5267 Washington Boulevard
LOT 50x137.

Gray brick residence; 3-story, hardwood floors, hot-water heat; basement fully finished; large porch across front; also porch in rear; garage for 3 machines.

The interior arrangement of the house is of the most satisfactory character.

First floor—Large reception hall, parlor, library, dining room, butler's pantry, kitchen, lavatory, coat room; large porch opening off the dining room that can be used either as a breakfast porch or sun parlor; porch opening off the kitchen large enough to have the icebox outside and inclosed. Dining room has a built-in buffet; butler's pantry has every convenience in the way of drawers for linens, chest for silver, sinks, hot and cold water service.

Second floor—At the landing half way up is a small lounging nook, fitted with bench seats; art glass windows; four bedrooms and ladies' dressing room are models of what sleeping apartments should be, perfectly sanitary, finished in white, large bathroom; also lavatories which afford every comfort and convenience.

Third floor—3 bedrooms; bath, cedar room and a large ballroom or a billiard room.

This is a very desirable home. It is in perfect condition. We would be glad to furnish card of admission and make appointment for any one wishing to inspect it. The owner expects to leave the city at an early date and does not care to rent it. We can make the most liberal financial arrangements and, all things considered, it is a decided bargain in residence property.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The St. Louis Art School Pageant.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

When Emile Zola took the stand in defense of Dreyfus, he said, "I accuse." I say "I defy" any organization, professional or otherwise, to do a more beautiful thing than the pageant of Saturday night. In the 10 years I was in the art school I never saw an end-of-the-year entertainment that was not good. After I was tempted to leave the art school by some people whom I am sure by now are in the devil's toasting rack, I had a hand in the "Oriental Ball" at the Lorelei— that was the first thing on a large scale. "The Durbar" I missed, unfortunately, but heard it was a big success and was bigger still.

Saturday night several important things threatened to hinder me from going to the school, but I got there by much strenuous effort. I got in at the speechifying after supper. I thought the war had worked for efficiency. It hadn't! Words! words! words! I think after my experience of the closing of the two schools this year, if a speaker can't get his message over in 15 minutes he ought to be taken out and—well, sent home! When you think of the wonderful messages put over by the four-minute speakers, there is no excuse for lengthiness—but directly people begin to talk about art they seem to think that because "Ars longa—vitae brevis," that the same thing applies to words. Mr. Wuerpel made his speech, "short, sharp and concise," and after the awarding of prizes "we went forth for to see." I happened into a bunch of old friends, so that we were able to talk quietly about everything.

The art school did a very wonderfully big and dignified—an impressive thing. Every principal character and incident was splendidly emphasized. Nothing clashed. The costumes were superb and historically correct. I would like to see the "movies" with all their money and blatant advertising do anything half as good.

Of course we couldn't keep thinking of "The" Pageant, but not in a sense of disparagement—far from it. To my mind it was infinitely superior to that wonderful thing, both in costumes and mass setting. It seems a pity it couldn't be given in the park to the public at large for a week as a money maker for scholarships. It should be done.

To those who saw it I say, think of that wonderful color spectacle and then ask yourselves where did the money come from to do it with, and if you don't know I'll tell you: It came from the souls of the art students. I know, because I was part of the show for years.

After the show was over, several people said to me: "I wish the Guild or the Players would do something like that," and I answered, "It can't be done," and on being asked "why?" said, "Because there are too many 'individuals.'"

The Art School student body does these things for the pure joy of doing them and that is the only way in which good art can ever be produced.

The Art School gets very little support from the public. Its support is badly needed. The school needs scholarships, it needs people to go out there and see what it is doing. The work the students do takes all their time and most of the time of the teachers, so that they cannot go to the people.

I am no longer in the school, but nobody knows its value to the community better than I do, and I say that an institution that can do what it did on Saturday is the most worth-while institution in St. Louis. The time is ripe to further its interests—to bring every effort to bear in the proper quarter to see that the school is properly housed, given a real equipment for its many departments, given everything it has needed for 30 years.

It has brains to burn—add your influence and personal interest to that. If you don't you are going to be left behind in the progress of art, which will progress anyhow, through the everlasting spark that has never wavered yet, though it often lags for want of nourishment.

DAWSON-WATSON.

Sunday Closing Laws.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Under the caption, "Feed Stores Open Sunday," and signed by one James T. Smith, I would like to ask Mr. Smith if there can be any possible harm in selling rock salt and straw on Sunday, and just how that makes St. Louis an indecent place? How about the Sunday newspaper? What are we coming to, or rather going back to? It's time the people got their eyes open to all this so-called reform. I believe the blue laws of the East are moving West, as the papers a short time ago stated that Sunday baseball was permitted in New York City and 40,000 turned out to see the game. All these compulsory closing laws are a relic of the Dark Ages and should be wiped out or we will soon witness the closing of all places of amusement, including the parks (remember the sham battle), and then if we are caught going fishing or taking a walk in the sunshine after working inside all week, we will be placed in stocks in the street.

AN ATHEIST.

BE PATIENT WITH THE BOYS.

A word to employers concerning the returning soldiers, sailors and marines who are seeking employment:

Be patient with these young men who come back from the field of battle, the ship and the airplane, where they suffered toil and hardship and offered the supreme sacrifice for our common country. All of them were taken out of the usual course of life, the ordinary run of business in office or factory and put into the severest training and discipline. They were taken out of civil life and put into military life, with its rough demands for mental and physical exertion. They lived in camps and barracks in the practice of military arts under hard task-masters. They lived in expectation of going to the front on land or sea or in the air and risking life and limb in fierce battle. All have to adjust themselves again to the ways and duties of civil life and of business or industrial work. All have to recover from the high tension of military service and get their minds, bodies and nerves under control.

Those who have been at the front, either on land or sea, have been under heavy strain, mental, physical and nervous. If they have not been in battle they have lived in fighting quarters, under extreme dangers and hardships. These need special patience, sympathy and consideration until they readjust themselves to ordinary life and work.

Those who have been in the fighting are the worst sufferers. They have been under the highest tension and have borne the greatest dangers and exhausting labors. They have been in trenches without sufficient sleep or regular meals or change of clothing and in the roar of guns for days. They have gone over the top and faced rattling machine guns and the crash of shells. They have fought desperately against heavy odds, with comrades falling around them. They have faced and seen death in horrible forms. What man can come out of these experiences without strained or shattered nerves? All suffer more or less from shell shock.

It is said that after the armistice was signed a Captain went to headquarters and urged that a drum corps be sent to his company to beat the drums, so his men could sleep. Persons who went through the cyclone in St. Louis did not recover their nervous equilibrium and control for years. Some of the boys from overseas went through a continuous cyclone for days.

Complaints are made that returned soldiers sometimes leave the jobs they get; that they are restless and do not stick to the desk or the machine steadily. The reason is clear. They have not adjusted themselves to civil work. They have not yet gained control of their nerves. Instead of impatience, anger and discouragement give these men patience, sympathy and encouragement. Bear with their infirmities for a time. Give them another trial. They will come out all right in the end. You owe this much to them.

WHAT CARGO FOR THIS VOYAGE?

The first of the United States Shipping Board's vessels assigned to extend far to the south the traffic route of the barge line will be the Bound Brook. This fine, new, steel steamer will sail from New Orleans for a Brazilian port early in July. As visible evidence that the valley is about to enter on a new trade era, with an outlet of its own to foreign markets and independent facilities for expanding its export and import exchanges, the departure of this vessel will be invested with the greatest interest. More than three weeks remain before she drops down the river to the sea. Let us hope that it will be possible to provide a cargo that will fill her hold to the hatch covers with typical products of the Mississippi region.

Fulfillment of the promises Director Hurley made while in St. Louis is not to be long delayed.

THE KNOX FARCE

If the Knox resolution were not tragic in its intent to discredit the President and its possible effect on enemy peoples in the effort to make peace, it would be a howling farce. It is a combination of malignity and asininity.

The resolution insists that an immediate, satisfactory peace treaty be entered into with enemy nations, without any covenant or other guarantee of peace, which is to be considered in future; in short, it demands a peace settlement without the League of Nations. That must be a separate subject of negotiation after peace is gained.

In roaring exposure of the farcical nature of the warnings shrieked by Senator Knox and his anti-League associates, that the League of Nations would entangle the United States in European quarrels and embroil us in war, the Senator winds up his resolution with a threat that if Europe does not accept the peace terms and be good, the United States will go overseas and give the offenders a licking. The resolution declares that whenever the freedom and peace of Europe is menaced the United States will co-operate to remove that menace. In short, the Senator would deal with the chaos and intricate problems growing out of the war with the strong arm. We will put an end to European chaos with another war—an inviting prospect to be sure.

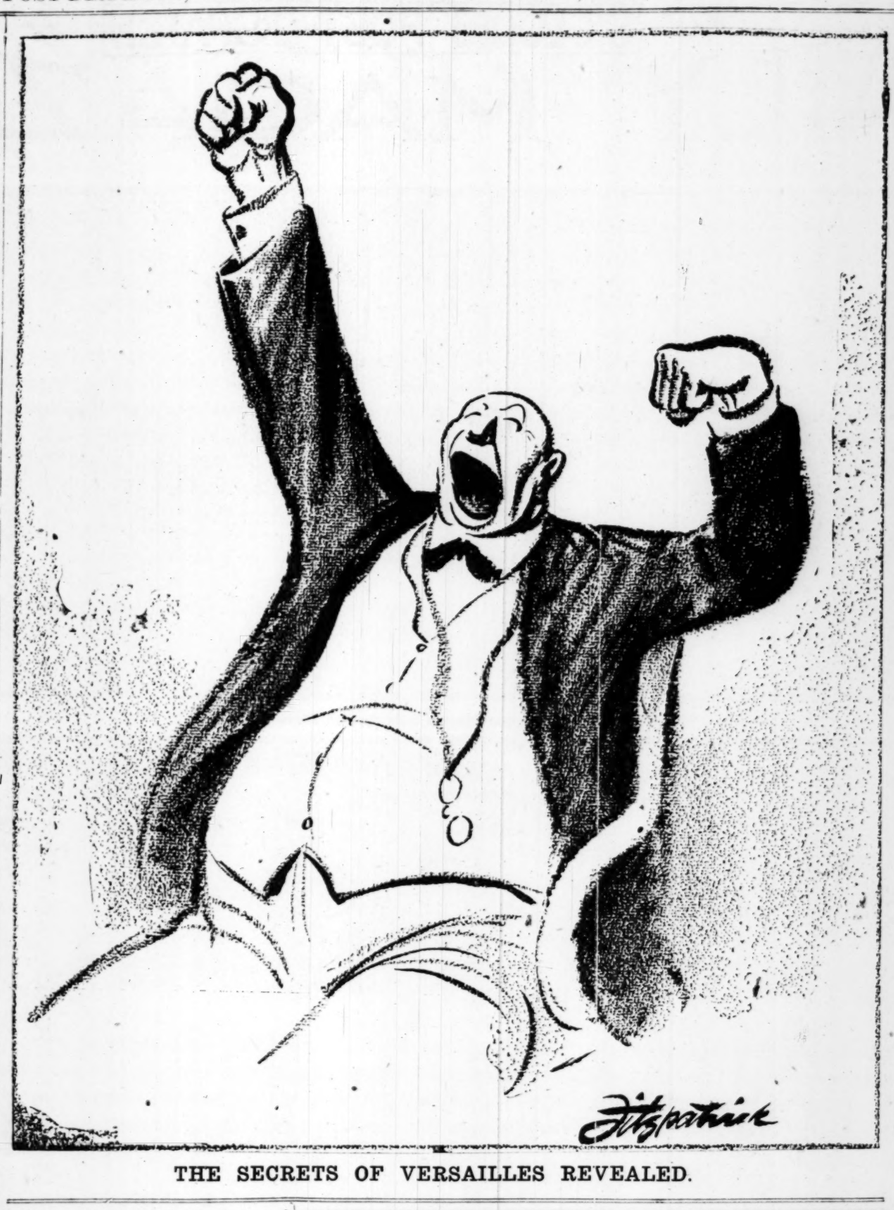

In the opinion of the Senator, it is unconstitutional and dangerous to enter into an agreement to guarantee peace on a basis of justice and liberty by reason, arbitration and co-operation, but it is all right to threaten war and go to war to keep peace; it is all right to shake the mailed fist in the face of disorganized and revolutionary Europe.

Senator Knox knows well what a farce it is to tell the peace conference to come to an immediate and satisfactory peace settlement without provision for the adjustment of the many problems growing out of the unprecedented war. He knows that his resolution is a sham and proposes it only to embarrass and humiliate the President.

The whole proceeding of the bitter anti-Wilson partisans in the Senate might be treated as a parliamentary circus if it were not a deliberate attempt to discredit the President, destroy his influence and bring to naught his effort to solve the greatest problem the world has faced in history; if it were not a deliberate attempt to repudiate our constitutional treaty-maker and our representatives in the peace conference and bring their labors to naught.

The worst feature of these malign antics is the effect it has upon our enemies, who are encouraged to resist just peace terms on the ground that the peace conference is powerless to enforce them on account of internal dissension. It is indecent and dishonorable, not to speak of the danger for Senators to attempt to prove that the President's negotiations and agreements are of no weight in his own country and are "mere scraps of paper." It is deeply discreditable to try to demonstrate that he does not represent the United States in his delicate and critical work. It plays into the hands of our allies who want to defeat his good purposes and gives aid to our enemies who want to defeat all the aims for which we fought.

We are not prepared to believe that the majority of the Senate is mad and therefore we believe these disgraceful partisan tactics will fail. But what do the people think of Senators who play such tricks on the crust of a smoking volcano?

THE SECRETS OF VERSAILLES REVEALED.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

THE "ONE BIG UNION."

From the Chicago Tribune.

THE leaders in the American Federation of Labor have never countenanced the methods which were attempted by the unions in Seattle and which have more recently been employed by the labor organizations in Winnipeg and Toronto. In general, we believe, the federation is opposed to sympathetic strikes. It is certainly opposed to the Canadian scheme for one big union.

The single union idea runs directly contrary to principles of the Federation of Labor, which is an association of a great number of unions, each representing a single craft or trade. It is obvious that in "one big union" the basic structure would necessarily be changed. The bricklayer, the mechanic and the musician would each participate, not as members of separate unions organized to promote their separate and sometimes conflicting interests, but on the common ground of being "workers," whether skilled or unskilled.

Such a system apparently involves the unquestioned submission of the members of every trade to the dictation of the leaders regardless of the controversy. The general strike would be the rule, not the exception. Weaker labor organizations might perhaps gain a temporary benefit by an amalgamation of this kind, but it is bound to place a heavy burden on the unions that are more favorably situated. Take the case of a union that has established its position and obtained a satisfactory settlement with the employers. How can such a union fail to suffer by the new arrangement if it is always subject to orders to lay down tools—orders that might be issued, for example, in the interest of a group of unskilled laborers in a distant city?

We do not think the average union man in America can view with equanimity the delegation of authority to persons and agencies so far removed from his own interests and influence. Just as the average American is not keen to fight for the polyglot races in Europe, Africa and Asia, so the average union man is not disposed to fight for causes that have little or no relation to his own welfare. But the principle of the sympathetic strike and the "one big union" imposes upon him precisely this responsibility.

We think it is safe to say the advocates of the single union do not regard it as an end in itself, but merely as a step on the road to revolution. With one big union it would be easier, in their opinion, to overthrow representative democracy and establish the Russian soviet system.

PANETELA.

YES, Luella,
All the secrets
Of the plotters
Are exposed;
Though it doesn't Seem the evil
Is as shameless
As supposed.
Anyway,
We have the treaty
Safely in the Senate's hands,
And at last
Are made familiar
With the Conqueror's demands.

Is there something
In it, dearie,
Of which we
We were not aware?
Not that anybody
Knows of,
After reading
It with care.
People who
Have worried through it
Are asserting,
Strange to tell,
That the more
Important matters
Were digested
Pretty well.

That, however,
To the Senate,
Figures scarcely
Worth a note;
What the Senate
Wants, my dearie,
Is the presidential
Goat.
Someone has
To head off Wilson
In the present
Pretty plan;
And if Europe
Cannot do it,
Like as not
The Senate can.

In the way
The thing is going,
So it seemingly Appears,
Democrats might Run the country
For another
Hundred years.
Say the President,
Triumphing,
Knocked the whole
War folly flat,
What would any
Other party
Have to hope for After that?

That is all,
My little girlie—
Take the easiest
Of tips;
Once the Democrats
Were threatened
By a similar Eclipse.
That time,
Stopping Mr. Lincoln.
They were beaten
To their knees.
And for forty Years had nothing
Very much to eat
But cheese.

Our Sign Hunter No. 4276380321-537890753, accused of not being sufficiently alert in Jefferson City, for which she has the sign-hunting rights, protests that Jefferson City is one of the most difficult places in the world in which to hunt anything. She believes most things discovered there are hit upon by chance, in which incidence, of course, a mere visitor to the city would have an advantage over one living there. That is, they would not so readily see him coming. This seems to have been about what happened, and the defense of our regular sign hunter in the territory against the accusations of a transient who went in and picked up a couple of signs under her nose seems good enough. What she says of Jefferson City confirms our own impression. We have known for some time that it is less on top of ground than it appears to be to one merely passing through on a train. A man ambitious to be Governor of Missouri always thinks he can go to Jefferson City and set things to rights. He never succeeds. The ways of that little city are dark, and they very soon engulf the Governor. He is lost anywhere from 24 hours to two days after he gets into town. Jefferson City is in its artifice Oriental. It is the Bagdad of the Occident. Now you see it and now you don't. People sometimes ask why Frank Farris is permitted to run the Legislature, whether Democrat or Republican. They have never been in Jefferson City. They do not believe in magic. They do not think there is any such thing as an afrite. They think the Arabian Nights are fairy stories. They belong to the unguessing world, and they have never located the Islands of Wak-Wak. Our Jefferson City sign hunter knows her own territory better than most. We are far from condemning her. Indeed, we salute her!

O LITTLE idol of muddy clay,
Is't really you I see?
Once I dared not gaze on your face,
Once you were gold to me.

How American Radicals Carry on a Systematic Campaign of Bolshevism

Appeal Made to Many Classes From Lowest Paid Workers to Professional Classes, and Even School Girls.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The World has published another of a series of articles on Bolshevism in the United States, written, it announces, by an experienced investigator. This article, on propaganda, follows:

Daniel de Leon, one of the brainiest exponents of revolutionary Socialism in this country, was the father of the systematic "campaign of education" now practiced by the labor group which is promoting Bolshevist principles. Immediately after the I. W. W. convention in Chicago in 1904, where De Leon advocated a colossal system of propaganda, the services of the brainiest industrial Socialists in Germany, France and the United States were enlisted by the Chicago branch of the direct actionists in compiling a great mass of radical leaflets, booklets and pamphlets. There was nothing haphazard. Their literature was to the point in plain words. A great deal of time was spent by the authors so as to cover every possible phase of the labor situation.

Such brilliant authors as Karl Marx, the great German revolutionary Socialist; Karl Kautsky, a brilliant German writer on militant Socialism; Frank Bohn, William D. Haywood, Abner E. Woodruff, E. Trautman, Daniel de Leon, Walker C. Smith, Andre Tridon, Vincent St. John, Eugene V. Debs and other noted American radicals, succeeded in writing and publishing several hundred different inflammatory booklets that have since been distributed in every nook and corner of two continents, by a large force of brainy professional agitators and labor propagandists.

Concentration of Effort.

The revolutionary forces decided to establish headquarters in Chicago and New York City, and scores of printing establishments were operated by the direct actionists in these two cities with the idea of concentrating their efforts and reducing printing cost to a minimum.

The great difficulty confronting the radical leaders was the question of finance. Money could only be raised in the early stages of agitation by contributions from underpaid workingmen whose sympathies could be preyed upon to sufficient degree to induce them to open their already lean pocketbooks.

The authors of the propaganda literature very seldom charge anything for their services above their actual expenses. When they invade a district the active propagandists are seldom on a payroll, working in various industries as they go along, so as not to draw on the slender resources of the general organization. In the great campaign in Northern Washington the I. W. W. had 350 delegates doing active propaganda work in the lumbering districts, and these men did not cost the Chicago headquarters over $10,000 for three months of active service.

During these three months they succeeded in signing up more than 18,000 new members. So soon as the Washington district was thoroughly organized, the new recruits contributed thousands of dollars to the headquarters' propaganda fund, and from that date the Washington district has never received a cent from the Chicago headquarters. On the other hand, the Washington district has contributed thousands and thousands of dollars to the Chicago headquarters.

The average American who has not been approached by direct action propaganda wonders how workingmen can be induced to join the revolutionary organization. It is because the professional agitator puts up most powerful arguments. He thoroughly convinces his prospective recruit that the world is in a horrible condition and that the one way to bring about the emancipation of the downtrodden worker is through revolutionary industrial action. Once he has thoroughly convinced his subject of the indescribable horrors attributed to capitalism, he is able to obtain practically every cent the recruit earns.

I have personally seen many lumberjacks in the West walk to the I. W. W. headquarters and sign their names over the top of their entire pay check, walk out and buy a 15-cent supper and go back to camp to earn money to do the same thing the next payday. During the Bill Haywood trial in Chicago $60,000 was raised among the lumberjacks in Washington in a few weeks.

Hotbeds Over Night.

All new recruits become either active delegates or volunteer propaganda workers, and it is surprising the wonderful success attained by these men in agitating the direct action cause. Whole districts are turned into hotbeds of radicalism almost overnight, following concentrated efforts by the central headquarters in Chicago or New York.

The main expenses incurred by the general headquarters is the salaries and expenses paid to scouts. These advance guards continually circulate throughout all industrial districts of the country. Voluminous reports are sent to the general headquarters and the general headquarters decide on the district or districts more favorable for propaganda concentration. When this decision has been reached the most influential delegates and propaganda distributers are dispatched into the affected districts. Tons of literature follow in their wake, to be distributed in the homes of the workers and workshops, bunk houses and every place where workers congregate, and the agitators work night and day during the period of their concentrated efforts.

When the scouts have decided that they have gained enough recruits in the district to handle the local situation, the professional agitator moves to other parts. In the last five years a great deal of direct action has been entirely financed in the local districts.

During the first industrial union trouble in Washington a powerful newspaper was started on $60. This money was paid for the printing of 2000 double sheets, which were distributed free throughout the entire lumbering districts of the State. The first week over $1000 was received in donations from the lumberjacks, who were impressed with the style of the paper, and the net result was that inside a month this newspaper had a circulation of 18,000.

From an industrial standpoint, the revolutionary organizations met with success that far exceeded their wildest initial expectations. The leaders decided that it was necessary to invade professional fields and gain at least the sympathy if not the co-operation of the middle and professional class of American society.

Intellectual Propaganda.

Lengthy consultations were held between the Chicago and New York leaders, which resulted in a widespread campaign of intellectual literature. This campaign has met with the results desired. Thousands of high school girls are as conversant with syndicalism, and even more so, than with the Constitution.

The various publications enumerated in a former article in the Post-Dispatch are only a few of those that have actively supported in various ways the Russian brand of militant Socialism. The Kerr Company in Chicago has the distinction of being the largest Socialist and direct-action printing establishment in the world. Propaganda booklets with the Kerr trademark can be found in every part of the civilized world. The I. W. W. publishing bureau in Chicago also prints an immense amount of this literature. Daniel de Leon, Bill Haywood and Eugene V. Debs have always carried out that same idea in their propaganda work. Their system of printing establishments in all parts of the country places them in a position to turn out countless tons of literature almost overnight.

Such famous booklets as "The Communist Manifesto," "The Slander of the Toilers," "The I. W. W., "The Red Dawn," "The Advancing Proletariat," "The Class Struggle," "The Old Red Flag," "Revolutionary Socialism," "Shop Talks on Economics," "Industrial Socialism," "Syndicalism,", "The Evolution of Industrial Democracy," "Reform or Revolution," "The Right to Be Lazy," "Plutocracy," "Capital," "Industrial Unionism," "The Revolutionary I. W. W.," "What Is Capital?" "Value, Price and Profit," and "Gouged" are only a few of the several hundred various booklets that have been widely distributed in every industrial center of the United States in the last two years.

Among the leading I. W. W. newspapers is the Industrial Worker, the Solidarity, the Rebel Worker, The World, the Industrialist, the Industrial Unionist, the Golos Truzenka, the Probuda, Le Nueva Solidaridad, Nya Varlden, the Alarm, Il Nuove Proletario, De Industrialer Arbeiter die Vaupauten and the Felzabadulas. The above papers are printed in various languages and receive wide distribution. The I. W. W. officially publishes a large monthly magazine called "The One Big Union Monthly," with a circulation estimated around 100,000. Other leading newspapers defending the principles of revolutionary Socialism are the International Weekly, the New York Communist, the Revolutionary Age, The Forge, The Textile Worker, The Lumber Workers' Bulletin and the Industrial Union News.

The structural organization of the Chicago branch of the I. W. W. is one of the most methodically worked out labor institutions in the United States. Every member belonging to this radical body has a vote, and that vote at all times is equal to the ballot of the general secretary or any other official of the various constitutional departments. Even in a national convention each delegate's vote is on an equality with the highest official in the organization.

Therefore, any action in the convention or any other department must be of an entirely democratic character. No I. W. W. official has power to call off a strike or order strikers back to work unless a referendum has authorized that action.

Division of Industries.

The organization is founded on a general distribution of American industries into 11 different departments, although the central body is only composed of six, under the following heads: Department of public service, department of agriculture and fisheries, department of manufacturing, department of construction, department of transportation, department of mining. Hotel and restaurant workers constitute the department of public service; agricultural workers and lumber workers in the department of agriculture and fisheries; the textile, metal and machinery divisions in the department of manufacturing; construction workers and ship builders in the department of construction; railroad and marine transportation in the department of transportation; metal mines or coal mines in the department of mining.

There are at present in the United States about 135 local I. W. W. bodies. The I. W. W. local is a differently constituted order than the A. F. of L. local. For instance, in Seattle the A. F. of L. has about 130 different local bodies; the I. W. W. covering about the same number of industries is only represented by six locals. This is due to the fact that the I. W. W. has only 11 crafts representing the whole industrial fabric of the United States, while the A. F. of L. has about ten times that number.

THE DIPLOMAT

He Is That Rara Avis, That Precious Jewel—the Man Who Understands Women

IF husbands were a matter of choice instead of a matter of chance,
And you could pick them OUT,
Instead of just picking them over and taking the best of the lot,
Or, if you could have them sent up on approval like sewing machines,
I honestly believe
That every woman would select a DIPLOMAT
On whom to pin her life's happiness!

The Diplomat is not always a Paragon—but he is a joy forever!

He may break all of the Ten Commandments, he may wear a red necktie, he may be a twenty-dollar-a-week clerk, or a second-story man, or a Cubist painter who borrows your salary; he may have the profile of a pie, the back hair of an art student and the conversational powers of a clam, he may use two negatives and smoke an old pipe, and write free verse—

BUT he is the man who brings you "white hyacinths to feed your soul!"

He is the man who never treads on your finer feelings with hob-nailed boots, nor pours cold water on your enthusiasms.

He is the man who never insists on seeing you at breakfast, unless you want to be there—and thus never sees you at your worst.

He is the man who babies you when you are tired, kisses away your tears and never inquires "what you are sniffling about NOW."

He is the man who realizes that a woman is a bundle of nerves, surrounded by vanity—and tied with an awfully thin string!

He is the man who never enters your boudoir without knocking—and thus preserves at least a few of his illusions about you.

He is a man who never forgets your wedding anniversary—and always remembers to bring you flowers, even if it's only a 10-cent bunch of pansies bought on a street corner.

He is the man who always kisses you tenderly—and never with his hat on, or as though it were a "morning chore" or a "daily duty."

He is the man who never ADMITS that there is anything wrong with you—

Who never SEES a frayed glove, a missing button, a stray wisp of hair, or the tired look around your eyes.

But who never fails to tell you how pretty you look when you are all dolled up.

He is the man who never remembers how old you are—and never forgets the dress you had on when he first met you.

He is the man who pretends to enjoy your cooking, who boasts about your housekeeping and who "appreciates" everything you do for him.

So much that you would work your fingers to the bone for him—and then feel grateful.

He is the man who KNOWS that a woman would rather receive a black eye in private than a black look in public.

Who never baits you before company, nor makes a joke at your expense, nor tries to scintillate by making you look silly.

He is the man who never praises ANOTHER woman to you, nor asks you why you don't get a hat like the one he saw on the flossy grass widow across the way.

He is the man who pretends to be proud or jealous or interested when other men admire you.

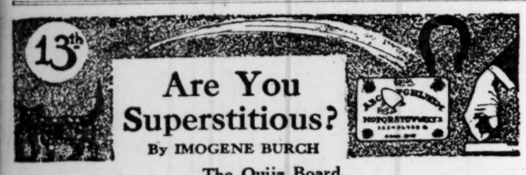

Instead of yawning in their faces, and calling them "poor boobs" behind their backs.

He is the man who wisely greases the wheels of matrimony with soft soap.

Knowing that as long as you can keep a woman's vanity alive, you keep her love alive—and that after that you can do as you PLEASE!

He is that rara avis, that precious jewel—the man who understands WOMEN!

The Ouija Board.

ALMOST everyone is familiar with the Ouija, a flat smooth board on which the alphabet is printed and over which a little triangular table moves. A well-known Chicago business man has written me some interesting experiences with the Ouija. I quote from his letter:

Two of our friends who were present at a time when we were asking some difficult questions took all we were doing as more or less of a joke. Ouija evidently did not like their frivolous attitude and sent this message:

"There is a disturbing person."

We all laughed and asked which of our annoyers it considered the culprit. We were all expecting a definite answer to our question. Instead Ouija seemed to be writing nonsense, but the nonsense proved to be,

—"ality in the room."

That is, our question was ignored while Ouija calmly finished what he had intended to say.

In the majority of cases, however, Ouija's motions can be explained as unconscious movements of the muscles of the wrist and arm.

If you have ever taken a ring and suspended it by a thread of any convenient length and tried to hold it steadily between the fingers of the right hand while holding the left hand of a person on your left you can carefully observe this muscular action. The ring will always swing towards the person on your left no matter how hard you try to hold it steadily. Suspend it with a tumbler and it will strike the hour of the day. If suspended over an alphabet it will spell out words.

The automatic actions of our muscles are like those of our heart or lungs. Although our muscles are supposed by most of us to be under the absolute control of our conscious thoughts, such is not entirely the case, for they also respond in a slight degree to our unconscious and barely conscious thoughts.

Just as the person holding the thread over the alphabet and making his mind apparently a blank may often find that the ring will spell out whole sentences, so I believe that the incompleted sentence in the above incident, which Ouija supposedly finished, was unconsciously in the mind of one of the operators.

Raincoats will soon prove burdensome. Why not make your thin coat waterproof? It will do nicely for the summer showers. In one gallon of rainwater, dissolve four ounces of alum. In another gallon of water dissolve four ounces of sugar of lead. Mix the two together and dip the coat into this and dry. Then wash in cold water and dry again.

Old paint stains on a carpet can be dissolved with spirits of turpentine.

SANDMAN STORY FOR TONIGHT

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

When the Fairies Get You.

"THE Fairies will get you if you don't look out," said Granny Rabbit to her grandson, Buntie Rabbit, one morning.

Buntie Rabbit had a very bad habit of running out at night after all his family were in bed, and his grandmother knew that old Mr. Owl would get him, even if some terrible trap did not, so she tried to tell Buntie of his danger.

But all Buntie Rabbit would say was that he was old enough to look out for himself and that things had changed since Granny Rabbit was young.

So when she told him the Fairies would get him, Buntie laughed and said, "Oh, I am not silly enough to believe in fairies, Granny, and what would they do if they did get me; they are too little to hurt me, I guess."

"No, they would not hurt you," said Granny as she began to knit and rock back and forth in her arm-chair by the window, "but if you care to hear just what would happen to you, sit down here beside me and I will tell you just what the Fairies do with the rabbits they catch at night."

Buntie Rabbit dearly loved a story, so he sat down and listened, and this is what Granny Rabbit told him:

"Once long ago there lived a rabbit named Frolic. He was the grandfather of all the grandfathers, so you see he would be hundreds of years old if he were alive now," said Granny.

"He was a very jolly fellow when he was young, always up to some prank, and no one could tell him a thing. He thought he could take care of himself just as you do, Buntie.

"But the fairies got him one night and he left this story to be told to his grandchildren for a warning.

"One bright moonlight night Frolic ran through the woods looking for some young, tender winter-green, when all at once he heard voices. He ran to the top of a rock that hung over a valley and down there he saw a very strange sight. Hundreds of little fairies were having a party. He could see they were having a feast, too, so down to the valley ran Frolic to see if he could not get some of the good things.

"The toadstools were their tables and Frolic could see they used for food tiny flowers which were filled with rose juice. There was honey and frozen dew like ice cream and lots and lots of tender green things such as Frolic liked.

When the fairies left their tables and began to dance Frolic ran to the tables to help himself, thinking they were so busy having a good time they would not see him, and if they did he thought he could run away.

"But suddenly he felt a sharp sting right on his head, and when he tried to run he found he could not move, for a fairy had touched him with her wand.

"'See!' she called to the others, 'there is a new horse for the Queen's carriage. One of hers is old and must be replaced.'

"And so poor Frolic had to help draw the carriage of the fairy Queen until he was too old to work, and then the fairies let him come home. He was an old, old Rabbit when his family next saw him, and his children did not know him.

"And that is what happens if the fairies get you; they keep you to help draw the Queen's little carriage, and they never, never let you come home until you are too old to work."

Buntie Rabbit looked at his grandmother to see if she would not smile and say it was only a story, but she looked very sober and kept her eyes on her knitting.

The next night when Buntie started to jump out of bed he thought of the story of Frolic and the fairies and back he got and slid under the clothes, and after that there was no more running out at night, and he became a well-behaved little Rabbit.

Now It's a Season of Spanish Shawls and Spanish Combs

Filmy Lace Mantillas, Embroidered Silk Fringed Shawls, Satin Capes Form an Army of Invasion That Already Has Occupied Our Fashion Centers.

By Margaret Rohe

THAT insidious Spanish influence is again swaying us sartorially. We are enmeshed in the cobweb stitches of the filmy lace mantilla, all wrapped up in the gorgeously embroidered silk-fringed shawl and have bowed our heads beneath the craven glories of the huge shell comb.

Though the recent Spanish opera company at the Park Theater has closed its season, owing to the musicians' strike for a weekly wage, it is yet the open season for Spanish dressing that promises even French dressing a bitter race for popular favor.

Those gaudily gorgeous and hectically hueful embroidered Spanish shawls, whose long-fringed edges wrap the feminine elite of Spain on gala bull-fight days, make perfectly bully summer evening wraps, to be worn at the end of a torrid day instead of at the end of a toreador. Don't by any chance make the fatal mistake of wearing a Chinese embroidered shawl and fancying yourself espagnola, however. To be sure, there is little difference in the brands at a discreet distance, but a close-up will reveal a subtle differing of texture and design. The greatest difference of all, of course, is that the true Spanish shawl never even saw Spain, but is manufactured in the Philippine Islands. Converted into negligees, these brilliant coverings are simply stunning.

Then there's the characteristic Spanish mantilla, black or white, of exquisitely fine and silky handmade Spanish lace—some of filmy, delicate design and others more strikingly ornate and of a larger mesh. These we are flaunting, not as the Castilian beauties over their high combed coiffures and ivory throats and bosoms, but over our shimmying, shimmering shoulders, in the form of scarves, so imperative now as an accessory to the fluffy summer frock of sheerest weave. It's really quite a pleasant surprise to find that these lovely lengths of Spanish lace actually come from the Iberian Peninsula, for anent that other Spanish accessory which is rushing so persistently to our heads, the high shell comb, I have my doubts as to its Spanish manufacture, because of my own experience, for I simply combed all the Madrid shops, both large and small, for a real honest-to-goodness Spanish comb and had to catch the train to Paris sans the article. Since returning home, however, I have made good the deficiency, for the other day I bought a stunning one in this country.

In hand-carved tortoise, blonde or dark, in amber or in jet, these combs are as expensive as they are large, beautiful and fragile. Fortunately, imitation shell ones, carved or plain, are almost as immune from detection as a well-made pearl. They are also one-fourth as expensive and four times as durable as the real tortoise shell combs. Worn in the loosely waved high coiffures of the evening mode, thrust in at most piquant angles, they make an artistic adjunct to the smartest toilette and are often its crowning glory.

In the long, graceful cape mantles of black satin, fringe-edged, smack of the Spanish influence, and a revival of those charming, hand-painted ivory mounted Spanish fans is also at hand.

Stand potatoes in hot water a few minutes before baking to hasten the process.

The Magnificent Ambersons

An Epic of the Rise of an American City

By BOOTH TARKINGTON.

CHAPTER XXV (Continued).

THE library doors were heard opening, and a moment later there came the sound of the front door closing.

George moved toward the head of the stairs, then stood listening; but the house was silent.

Fanny made a slight noise with her lips to attract his attention, and, when he glanced toward her, shook her head at him urgently. "Let her alone," she whispered. "She's down there by herself. Don't go down. Let her alone."

She moved a few steps toward him and halted, her face pallid and awe-struck, and then both stood listening for anything that might break the silence downstairs. No sound came to them; that poignant silence was continued throughout long, long minutes, while the two listeners stood there under its mysterious spell; and in its plaintive eloquence—speaking, as it did, of the figure alone in the big, dark library, where dead Wilbur's new silver frame gleamed in the dimness—there was something that checked even George.

Fanny Minafer broke the long silence with a sound from her throat, a stifled gasp; and with that great companion of hers, her handkerchief, retired softly to the loneliness of her own chamber. After she had gone George looked about him bleakly, then on tiptoe crossed the hall and went into his own room, which was filled with twilight. Still tiptoeing, though he could not have said why, he went across the room and sat down heavily in a chair facing the window. Outside there was nothing but the darkening air and the wall of the nearest of the new houses. He had not slept at all the night before, and he had eaten nothing since the preceding day at lunch, but he felt neither drowsiness nor hunger. His set determination filled him, kept him but too wide awake, and his gaze at the grayness beyond the window was wide-eyed and bitter.

Darkness had closed in when there was a step in the room behind him. Then someone knelt beside the chair, two arms went around him with infinite compassion, a gentle head rested against his shoulder, and there came the faint scent as of apple-blossoms far away.

"You mustn't be troubled, darling," his mother whispered.

CHAPTER XXVI.

GEORGE choked. For an instant he was on the point of breaking down, but he commanded himself, bravely dismissing the self-pity roused by her compassion. "How can I help but be?" he said.

"No, no." She soothed him. "You mustn't. You mustn't be troubled, no matter what hapens."

"That's easy enough to say!" he protested; and he moved as if to rise.

"Just let's stay like this a little while, dear. Just a minute or two. I want to tell you: brother George has been here, and he told me everything about—about how unhappy you'd been—and how you went so gallantly to that old woman with the opera-glasses." Isabel gave a sad little laugh. "What a terrible old woman she is! What a really terrible thing a vulgar old woman can be!"

"Mother, I——" And again he moved to rise.

"Must you? It seemed to me such a comfortable way to talk. Well"—— she yielded; he rose, helped her to her feet, and pressed the light into being.

As the room took life from the sudden lines of fire within the bulbs Isabel made a deprecatory gesture, and, with a faint laugh of apologetic protest, turned quickly away from George. What she meant was: "You mustn't see my face until I've made it nicer for you." Then she turned again to him, her eyes downcast, but no sign of tears in them, and she contrived to show him that there was a semblance of a smile upon her lips. She still wore her hat, and in her unsteady fingers she held a white envelope, somewhat crumpled.

How I Nursed My Baby Longer

THE happiest days of my life were those while I nursed my baby and knew that I—I alone—was making him grow strong and well.

Then came the days when he seemed hungry after his nursing, and my heart sank. But the doctor said "Don't worry. We'll just add a little more nourishment to his diet with one feeding a day of Nestlé's Milk Food."

So after all I was able to nurse him the full nine months—and when we weaned him and changed entirely to Nestlé's Food he didn't seem to notice the difference!

You see, Nestlé's is really just pure, sweet milk—but changed into a powder so it is easier to digest, and with none of the germ dangers of raw milk. To that they add just the right amount of sugar and cereal—and you simply add water and boil—and watch your baby thrive!

I know the Nestlé Company will be glad to send you enough for twelve feedings and a Mother's Book by specialists on how to take care of your baby, if you will fill out and send the coupon below.

They want you to feed your baby with health and happiness, too.

FREE! Enough Nestlé's for 12 feedings. Send the coupon!

Cards Are Sixth As Result of 7th Straight Victory

Rickey's Men Have Gained 196 Percentage Points in the Last Two Weeks.

TUERO REAL PITCHER

Cuban, Who Was Not Counted Upon, Gained Sixth Win, Trimming Boston, 4-2.

When "Casey" Tuero, the Cuban right-hander, stopped the Boston Braves yesterday, 4—2, for the seventh straight conquest for the Cardinals, the Knot-Holers gained their first objective—sixth place. Today Rickey's charges are only a game and a half from the head of the second division. In landing seven straight, the Knot-Holers took two from the Reds, four from the Phillies and the one from Boston.

The spurt by the Cardinals, which started on May 27, when Bill Doak stopped the Superbas, 4—1, has netted 11 victories in 14 starts, for a winning percentage of .786. The day the locals hit their winning stride they were last with 6—19 .240.

Since that time they have climbed two notches and show a percentage gain of 196 points. This gain has been landed in exactly two weeks. The seven straight for the Knot-Hole gang ties the record for winning streaks for the campaign. On the home lot, the Cards have captured 9 of 12, which gives a total of 19 victories against four defeats for the two local clubs on home soil since May 14.

Tuero Proves a Surprise.

One of the main reasons for the Cardinals' success has been the pitching of Oscar Tuera, the Cuban, who was not counted upon as a regular by Manager Rickey at the start of the campaign. However, Tuero has come through with flying colors and owns a record of 6—1, .857 for the season. During the present spurt he had captured three out of four.

The Cuban, who started the season by pitching one or two rounds in almost every game played by the Knot-Hole aggregation, has hurled good ball, having permitted 22 runs in 61 2-3 innings, an average of 2.88 per game. He has been found for 44 safeties.

Tuero gained his first victory of the campaign May 2 against the Reds, when he replaced Marvin Goodwin and held Moran's men, who up to that time had not lost a game, to one run and two hits in 6 1-3 innings. His next conquest came over the Braves, May 16, while May 24 he stopped the leading Giants with two runs and three hits. May 28 he was the winner of a 13-inning battle with Brooklyn, 7—5, in which the Cards broke Jeff Pfeffer's winning streak of seven straight.

Braves Score in Second.

The next time "Casey" started he was trimmed by the Chicago Cubs, yielding three runs in seven rounds. However, since then, he stopped the Phillies June 6 and the Braves yesterday. The Cuban has been mixed up in 18 box scores this season, more than one-third of the clashes the locals have participated in.

Against the Braves yesterday, Tuero had only one bad inning—the second. In this frame a single by Holke, Blackburne's double and singles by Maranville and Gowdy, the latter being credited with a hit on a bounder to Miller, when no one covered first, netted two runs. After that he kept six raps pretty well scattered.

In winning, the Knot Holers downed Dick Rudolph, one of Stallings' real pitching aces. Singles by Hornsby and Heathcote, a sacrifice and infield out gave a run in the second. A pass to Smith, his stolen base, Miller's hit, on which Smith was unable to advance, and Stock's double gave another in the third.

The "break" of the game came in the sixth, when Hornsby was safe on Herzog's fumble. Heathcote beat out a bunt, but Hornsby was nipped trying for third. McHenry singled and Lavan walked, filling the bases. Clemons rolled to Herzog, forcing Lavan, but when Maranville threw wild to first, Heathcote and McHenry tallied.

Gowdy Receives Presents.

Hank Gowdy, the first major league player to enlist in the service, received a bunch of flowers and a buckeye from the Ohio Society at yesterday's game. Hank made two hits in three trips to the plate.

Goodwin Due to Pitch.

Marvin Goodwin is due to twirl for Rickey in the second game with the Braves today. He will likely draw Art Nehf, the southpaw, as his opponent.

Hollocher Is in City.

Charley Hollocher, star shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, is at present visting his folks here. Hollocher is out of the game with a broken thumb suffered Sunday when he was hit by one of Keating's fast balls.

About Stock and Baird.

That Philadelphia fans have about made up their minds that the Phillies were "stung" in the trade with the Cardinals last winter, is evinced by the following written by Jimmy Isaminger:

"The fans have about made up their minds that the Phils were trimmed in the Baird-Stock swap. So far Baird's playing has been away below par in all departments of the game. He came here credited as a better fielder than Stock and with the implication that he might hit as well as Milton. As a matter of fact, he is far below Stock's rating as a batsman and has been very little help to the team with the stick, but the big surprise has been his fall down in fielding. His third base play has been very ragged so far and he looks to be woefully weak on balls hit to the left of him. The fans have not failed to notice Baird's imperfections and he is often audibly reminded of them during ball games.

"Coombs is sticking by Baird and declares that he will find himself before the season is much older and that he will vindicate the trade in the end."

Willard-Dempsey Fight Outcome All Up to Condition of Principals, Billy Rocap Says

Man Who Named Jess Willard as Opponent for Jack Johnson Thinks Champion Will Be Hard to Beat, if in Shape.

Says Many Questions to Be Answered Before Authoritative Judgment Could Be Passed on the Chances of the Men.

BY W. H. ROCAP.

(Copyright, 1919, Public Ledger Co.)

WILL Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey be able to upset all ring tradition when they meet on July 4, to battle for the world's heavyweight title? This is the question that fight fans are asking each other. It is a problem which has the most confident ring critics guessing. Since the inception of the Marquis of Queensberry rules when the late John L. Sullivan discarded the London prize ring code and skin-tight gloves and adopted the "pillows," no championship battle has ever been limited to so few rounds as 12. Is that limit enough for Jess Willard to prove his superiority over Jack Dempsey? Is 36 minutes in the ring sufficient time for the relentless slugger to beat down or land a knockout blow on his giant opponent? Does this doubt make the bout especially attractive? Will the ardent fight fan be satisfied with 12 rounds of boxing with an indecisive result? If there is a knockout, yes! But should the contest go the limit and opinions are divided which is the winner, it will leave a bad taste in the mouths of those who lose and they will everlastingly condemn the whole affair.

Public Not Consulted.

It is just as legal for Willard and Dempsey to box 20 rounds as it would be 12, in view of the fact that each is to be paid a stipulated sum for his services. There is only one angle from which the opponents of clean, wholesome sport can view the coming bout which would engender any adverse criticism, that is that the winner either retains his title or the other man annexes one. That is a prize which will be highly cherished and an asset which can scarcely be measured by dollars and cents.

In arranging the bout and agreeing on 12 rounds the public has not been consulted. The promoters are satisfied. So are the principals. They will all get theirs, for the bout promises to draw a tremendous gate. All tradition has been ignored, it has all been swallowed up in the maelstrom which is labeled for convenience the evolution of boxing.

Result a Matter of Condition.

SO far as the writer's judgment goes, the result of the bout will hinge on physical condition. If Willard trains faithfully, gets a ridge of muscles across his stomach, is able to properly time his blows and gets his straight left and right hand upper-cut working in unison, Dempsey has one tough job ahead of him.

On the other hand, if the present world's champion relaxes in his training and discovers at his age that he lacks the recuperative powers which he possessed in 1915 when he dethroned Johnson, his mid-section will be a target for the young challenger.

It matters not how tall they are or how much they scale, a succession of wallops in the solar plexus will bring the biggest down to the size of an ordinary man. And it is not likely Willard will prove any exception.

Yes, physical condition is going to play a most important part in the coming ring battle. The writer nor is any living man in a position to fay to emphatically say which man will win. When the men near theid final rigors of training they can be compared in an intelligent manner without any guess work.

Willard did not jump into the match hastily. When Sergt. Walter Monahan, U. S. A., came north from Texas as an attache of the General Hospital at Lakewood, N. J., he told the writer that Willard urged him not to box Dempsey. Save him for me, Willard ejaculated; he was just made for me. Monahan added: "Jess is taking this fight with Dempsey as the most serious thing in his life. He realizes that Dempsey is a fast, strong and willing young fighter, and he is not going to take any chances with him in the matter of condition. He intends to go into the ring in perfect shape and to put up the same hard battle he did to win the championship. He has no doubt of his ability to hold the title against Dempsey and all other challengers for some years to come, but he is honest with himself and honest with the public; and it is not his intention to risk losing his title and the confidence of the public by doing anything that would militate against him in the big test."

Rocap Named Willard to Oppose J. Johnson

THE accompanying story by William Rocap, who will probably referee for the Willard-Dempsey fight July 4, has a peculiar interest. It was written before Rocap was mentioned and represents an unrestrained view of the contest by the man who is expected to judge it.

There is another angle to the selection of Rocap as the fight official for the championship go. It was Rocap who, after watching Johnson fight Frank Moran at Paris, France, declared that Jess Willard was the man who could wrest the title from the colored title holder. His suggestion was carried out.

Willard won the title and now Rocap has the distinction of judging a title contest in which his former selection is to be a principal.

Rocap refereed the Kid Williams-Pete Herman championship contest at New Orleans in 1917 He awarded the decision to Herman, after 20 rounds. Much adverse comment followed the verdict and Rocap defended his judgment in an open letter.

A Wise Guy.

THERE was a man in our town
And he was wondrous bright;
He drew a hundred-dollar bill
To go and see the fight.
But after he had figured up
The money it would take,
He took his hundred-dollar bill
And bought a sirloin steak.

Very Good, Eddie.

See where Eddie Collins resumed his regular occupation the other day of boobing the New York fans by etching a four-base clout into the records at a time when three of Mr. Gleason's employes happened to be lingering around the bases waiting for just such a happening.

Tris Speaker and Chic Gandil were fined $50 apiece for their recent exhibition of the manly art. Tough luck. They could have pulled it off in any alley for $10 and costs.

More Power to 'Em.

The U. R. is said to have been getting excess power from Keokuk. Also excess power of attorney.

Tough Luck.

See where the Germans are to get their answer on Friday, the 13th. However, Germany doesn't believe in signs.

Down in Alabama five half pints of booze were found under a setting hen. Must have been trying to hatch out some egg-nogg.

The Cards wish to thank the Phillies for one of the most enjoyable joy rides they have had this season.

A short horse is soon curried. But Jack Coombs doesn't seem to be able to groom the Phillies up to racing form.

The Jamaica Kid opened a gash in his boss' eye. Jamaica is hot stuff.

B. W. Reuben has made a flattering offer for the Ohio rights to the moving pictures of the Willard-Dempsey fight. Reuben is a game guy, always willing to take a fighting chance.

One Reel Round.

REUBEN, Reuben, I've been thinking.
Though your judgment may be sound.
How your profits will be shrinking
If the fight should last one round!

Who's He?

There are many who think the fight will be just one round of pleasure for—the winner.

Jack Dempsey does considerable training with his bulldog. Being regarded somewhat in the light of the under dog in the coming imbroglio, he might get some valuable pointers from his bull pup.

Mrs. Jess Willard says Jess Willard can't lose. Important, if true.

Bock Eliminates Wolff From Trans-Mississippi Tourney

Sunset Hill Golf Star, Who Tied for Low Medal Score, Loses 2 Up and 1 to Play in First Match Round—Favorite in Tourney Given Bad Scare by Youth.

For two hours this morning Country Club links, the scene of the Trans-mississippi Golf Association annual championship tournament, almost had a sensation. This was occasioned by the fact that W. W. Kossman, a youthful graduate of the Forest Park course and winner of the Post-Dispatch caddy championship of last year, had the favorite in the event, Nelson Whitney of New Orleans, three down at the turn of their 18-hole grst round match play.

Kossman was playing in such good form that it appeared possible he might eliminate the former Southern champion. Whitney braced on the incoming journey, and caught his young rival. He eventually won out, 2 up.

Frank Lynch, another local public links graduate and present municipal champion, proved an easy prey to the good golfing of C. P. Jaffray of Minneapolis, 6 up and 4 to play. Jaffray's victory brought him together with Whitney, paired for the second round, which began at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Two former winners of the Trans-Mississippi were eliminated this morning when John D. Cady of Rock Island was beaten by J. E. Nugent, president of the association, of Kansas City, 4 up 3 to play, and when Jack Hughes of Omaha put out Sam Reynolds 4 and 3.

Wolff's Defeat Unexpected.

One of the sensations of the tournament developed late in the morning match round when the two Sunset Hill players Karl Bock and Clarence Wolff turned in their cards. It was found that Wolff had been eliminated 2 up and 1 to play by his club-mate. Wolff was tied for low medal score in the qualifying round. His defeat came as a surprise to all.

Kenney's Defeat Unexpected.

The second surprise of the first match play round came when it was announced that Chris Kenney, one of the best local match play stars, had been eliminated by J. L. Johnston of the St. Louis Country Club, 2 up and 1 to play.

Scores:

Nelson Whitney, New Orleans, defeated W. K. Kossman, St. Louis, 2 up.

C. P. Jaffray, Minneapolis, beat Frank Lynch, St. Louis, 6 up and 4 to play.

Jack Hughes, Omaha, won from Sam W. Reynolds, Omaha, 4 up and 3 to play.

Harry Legg, Minneapolis, defeated L. G. Carter, Memphis, 2 up and 1 to go.

B. G. Guinand, Omaha, won from T. B. Griffith, Wichita, 4 and 3.

J. E. Nugent, Kansas City, beat John D. Cady, 4 and 3.

L. B. Bromfield of Denver defeated E. C. Lorton, Excelsior Springs, Mo., 5 and 3.

Arthur Bonebrake, Topeka, defeated E. A. Campbell, Topeka, 4 and 3.

R. E. Bockenkamp, St. Louis, defeated Sterling Edmunds, St. Louis, 6 and 5.

Roger Lord, St. Louis, defeated E. A. Limberg, St. Louis, 1 up.

K. W. Bock, St. Louis, defeated Clarence Wolff, St. Louis, 2 and 1.

R. E. Knepper of Sioux City defeated Blaine Young, Omaha, 3 and 2.

G. H. Walker, St. Louis, defeated C. B. More, St. Louis, 3 and 2.

Stuart Stickney, St. Louis, defeated D. B. Hussey, St. Louis, 5 and 3.

Chris Kenney, St. Louis, lost to J. L. Johnston, St. Louis, 2 and 1.

Reuben Bush, New Orleans, defeated J. K. Wadley, Texarkana C. C., 1 up.

Second Round Pairings.

Nelson Whitney, New Orleans, vs. C. P. Jaffey, Minikahda C. C.

Harry Legg, Minikahda C. C., vs. R. E. Knepper, Sioux City.

J. W. Hughes, Omaha F. C., vs. B. G. Guinand, Omaha, F. C.

J. C. Nugent, Hillcrest C. C., vs. Roger E. Lord, Algonquin.

Karl W. Bock, Sunset Hill, vs. L. D. Bromfield Jr., Denver.

R. E. Bockenkamp, Forest Park, vs. G. H. Walker, St. Louis C. C.

Reuben Bush, New Orleans, vs. Arthur Bonebrake, Topeka, C. C.

Stuart Stickney, St. Louis C. C., vs. J. L. Johnston, St. Louis C. C.

PITHY POINTS ABOUT QUALIFYING PLAY

Low medalist honors for the 36 holes were divided between Nelson Whitney of New Orleans and Roger E. Lord and Clarence Wolff of the Algonquin Club. Each of these players did the double round in 153.

Yesterday's low medalist for 18 holes was Roger Lord, who scored a 74.

The Brock trophy was won by the Omaha Field Club, with a 660 total. St. Louis Country Club was second, with 667. Sunset Hill, 669, and Algonquin, 672. The winning team was composed of J. W. Hughes, 170; Sam Reynolds, 158; B. G. Guinard, 165, and Blaine Young, 167.

Fourteen St. Louisans secured entry to the championship class, leaving 18 visitors in the competition. Fifteen of the 32 players in the president's cup flight.

Clarence Wolff, low medalist of the first day's medal round with a 73, scored an 80 yesterday.

Harry Legg, five-time winner of the championship, took an 84, which, with his 81 of Monday, gives him a 164 total.

Whereas 11 players turned in cards under 80 on the opening day, only three came within this class yesterday. In addition to Lord and Whitney, Lynch totaled a 79.

A 173 score was the highest to get in the title flight. Guy Oliver of the County Club and J. K. Wadley of Texarkana tied for the right, and in the play-off Wadley won the deciding hole.

Some of the players attribute the high scores of the second day to a drizzle which handicapped them during the greater part of the play.

The St. Louis Country Club with six entrants is the best represented club.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS WILL HOLD ANNUAL TITLE TRACK MEET JUNE 21

The sixth annual field and track meet of the St. Louis Sunday School Athletic Association will be held at Washington U. Stadium Saturday, June 21. Last year 160 contestants entered. The prospect is that many more than that will participate this year. Entries close at noon June 19. Any genuine member of a Sunday School is entitled to enter in any of the events in his age class, provided he registers as a member of the association and his school has paid its annual dues. Schools may be represented by as many contestants as they choose. A championship trophy will be given the school whose entries win the most points and ribbons will be given the individual winners in first, second and third place, including members of relay teams.

Contestants are divided into four age class: Junior A, all under 14 years. Junior B, all under 16 years. Intermediate, all under 18 years; Senior, all 18 years or over. An athlete may contest in a classification higher than his age, but not lower. However, he cannot enter the same event in two classes. If he runs the 100 yards in the senior he cannot also run it in the Intermediate even though he be under 18 years of age.

The meet is under the managment of Dr. F. H. Ewerhardt, who has so successfully managed meets of this association and others in the past and managed the two municipal meets of this year. Entries are to be made with H. L. Wells, secretary of the assocation, at 1627 Locust street or 1302 Laurel avenue. Following are the events:

SENIOR.

100-yard dash, 220-yard hurdle, 880-yard run, 12-pound shot put, running broad jump, running high jump, 880-yard relay, four-man 220 yards each.

INTERMEDIATE.

10-yard dash, 440-yard run, 8-pound shot put, running broad jump, running high jump, 440-yard relay, four men 110 yards each.

JUNIOR B.

50-yard dash, running broad jump, 300-yard relay, four boys 75 yards each.

JUNIOR A.

50-yard dash, running broad jump, 300-yard relay, four boys [illegible] yards each.

Deacon to Lead Sooners.

NORMAN, Ok., June 11.—Earl Deacon of Oklahoma City has been elected captain of the 1919 "Sooner" eleven of the University of Oklahoma. Russell Hardy, also of Oklahoma City, will lead the baseball representatives of the school during the next season.

Rocap Is Choice of Maj. Biddle to Referee Title Go

"Tex" Rickard Thinks Board of Boxing Control Has Not Had Time to O K It.

SELECTION SEEMS GOOD

Fighters Said to Have Given Their Consent Before Rickard Adopted Plan.

TOLEDO, O., June 11.—Tex Rickard, promoter of the Jess Willard-Jack Dempsey heavyweight championship contest, today expressed some doubt whether William G. Rocap of Philadelphia had been OFFICIALLY appointed by the army, navy and civilian Board of Boxing Control to referee the title match here July 4.

The appointment would not have been made final, he said, until Maj. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, who announced Rocap's selection, had placed the question before other members of the board.

By Robert Edgren.

TOLEDO, June 11.—Word that Maj. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, at the request of "Tex" Rickard, had named Billy Rocap, sporting editor of a Philadelphia newspaper, to referee for the Dempsey-Willard fight came like the well-known "bolt out of the blue." Maj. Biddle gave out his choice at an early hour today in Philadelphia, and the news was an over-the-breakfast-table surprise for most of the sportsmen on the ground here.

An intimation of what was coming was, however, given out last night by Tex Rickard, who told newspaper writers last night that he had invited Maj. Biddle, an official of the Army, Navy and Civilian Boxing Board, to name the referee for the fight. He told Maj. Biddle, in his telegram, that his request was made with the advice and consent of both fighters, so that Maj. Biddle's announcement of his choice would appear to be definite.

Only Monday morning, however, Willard had stated he had no idea that a referee would be named until 10 days before the fight took place.

Rocap Recommended Willard.

Rocap appears to be an especially happy selection. He is an official of long experience and was the man who first suggested that Willard was the right man to beat Jack Johnson and "restore the championship to the white race."

Rickard's plan looks like a shrewd move. The army, navy and civilian Board of Boxing Control was organized a few months ago for the purpose of promoting clean sport in America, handling boxing much as it is handled by the National Sporting Club of London, under the direction of that world-famous sportsman, Lord Lonsdale. The board plans to control the licensing of all clubs, and to license all professional boxers and referees. This will give the governing body entire control of the sport and will eliminate the influences that have discredited one of the finest sports in the world. If the board appoints two judges as wel las a referee to aid in giving a fair decision, this coming championship bout at Toledo will be unique in the history of boxing in America. It will be the first big bout conducted under the direction and the auspices of a national board made up of many of the most prominent sportsmen in America.

This will be practically a guarantee that everything connected with the bout will be sportsmanlike, fair and honest and above board. Tex Rickard's name guarantees that, but Tex has made it stronger by asking the Board of Boxing Control to step in.

Jack Dempsey had to cut out boxing in his daily work yesterday because it will take three or four days for the cut over his eye to heal. He roughed around with his men a little and punched the big padded bag around until he nearly tore it down. Dempsey is in perfect fighting condition. If the bout were tomorrow he would be fit to do his best. He does not need to do a great deal more of boxing.

Jess Willard went through seven rounds at the Casino, before a big crowd. He worked faster and better than ever before since coming to Toledo and is beginning to show the benefit of the harder training he is doing. He roughed three rounds with Jack Hempel. Jack likes the rough going. He is a powerful fellow and when Jess finishes three rounds with him he has done a day's work. Jess boxed three more rounds with Walter Monahan. As usual this was a fast workout. Then he went through a round with Soldier Stanton.

Willard is likely to have a new sparring partner who can give him a good workout. Yesterday he received a wire from Maxey Blumenthal in New York, offering to send Al Reich out to join the champion's staff. Reich is 6 feet 3 inches tall, weighs 220 pounds and is one of the best big men ever seen in a gymnasium. Reich may be unfortunate in the ring, but he is a gymnasium wonder. He should be able to make Jess step around a little faster than he steps now.

Dave Davenport Weakens in 7th; Browns Lose, 5-3

Right-Hander Has the Game Almost Won, but Roth's Triple Breaks Up the Game.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Almost airtight pitching in the first six innings placed victory within the grasp of Jimmy Burke's Brown battlers against the Athletics here yesterday, but came the serious seventh, with wobbliness on the part of Dave Davenport, which was as manna to the mauling Macks. One base on balls, three hits, one of which was a triple, and an error spread disaster in the St. Louis camp, and four runs filtered across the pan as a result of the foregoing mishaps.

These markers sewed the game up so tight that the Browns did not have a chance to wiggle out, and they lost the first game of the series, 5 to 3.

For the first six frames Davenport had an abundance of "stuff." Through no fault of the tall port-sider, the Macks squeezed a run across in the first inning. Whitey Witt reached first when Walter Gerber fumbled his grounder and this misplay was responsible for the Athletics taking a one-run lead. A safety by George Burns later scored Witt. Two more hits was all that Davenport doled out to the Macks until the seventh. One came in the fourth, when it could do little damage and another came in the sixth, but this liberty with Davenport's pitching also failed to materialize.

With three on in the seventh as the result of issuing a base on balls and allowing two hits, Bobby Roth completely wrecked the detail for Davenport by whaling out a triple to deep right field. Calamity for St. Louis was completed with Mayer's wild throw to catch Roth at third, the latter scoring.

It was necessary for Connie Mack to use two twirlers to repulse the offensive of the Browns. Jing Johnson was careening in the seventh, and in the succeeding frame he was relieved by Walter Kinney.

REGAN MAY GET CHANCE IN PRELIMINARY CLASH AT TOLEDO ON JULY 4

Charles Crouse (Kid Regan) St. Louis bantamweight boxer, yesterday received a letter from Ad Thacher of the Toledo Athletic Association, who is arranging the preliminaries for the Willard-Dempsey bout on July 4, telling him to get into condition in case an eleventh hour change in the present program is made and he is wanted to show in one of the bouts.

Thacher wrote that the program had been entirely made up, with contracts signed, but if any of the boxers dropped out, he would be put on.

NEBRASKA WILL HAVE A $40,000 GYMNASIUM

LINCOLN, Neb., June 11.—Edward J. ("Doc") Stewart, director of athletics and head coach of football, basketball and track of the University of Nebraska, has tendered his resignation, effective Sept. 1.

Stewart has been at the University of Nebraska for three years. He was a coach at Mount Union College, Allegheny College, and Purdue.

The Department of Athletics soon is to be enlarged, and when a new director is appointed he will be given an increased staff of assistants. Before the end of the next school year, the department will occupy a new $40,000 gymnasium.

Before entering the army, where he was a Lieutenant of Field Artillery, Mapes was coach of the Minnesota State Championship High School eleven.

Sidelights on T-M Golf Tourney

Wolff's Putting Was Unlucky.

Wolff's putting, more than any other feature of his game yesterday, was responsible for his high score. After making perfect shots with driver and iron, two strokes were wasted again and again on the green. Approaching the eighteenth hole, in spite of an iron shot from an uphill stance, a subsequent lie in tall, thick grass, and a third shot that traversed the side of the green, and finally rolled into the bunker, Clarence pitched his ball onto the green with a perfectly aimed mashie toss and could have had low medal for qualifying play by holing out a 10-foot putt. The gods failed to smile, however, and Wolff putted twice before the ball rolled into the cup. The last stroke brought his score up to 153, the tie-number for Wolff, Whitney and Lord.

Limberg Wrecked on No. 9.

Eddie Limberg of Sunset Hill had a promising score in the earlier part of the game yesterday, as he teed off for No. 9, a five-stroke hole, with 34 for the 8 just played. An unlucky drive, combined with some sliced iron shots at this point in his game, gave him 8 strokes in negotiating that hole. On the way back, two sixes swelled his total so that the last nine were holed in 42, the same score made going out. Limberg's total for the 36 is 168.

Thirteen Unlucky for Stickney.

Stuart Stickney bade fair to equal his Monday's mark of 79 yesterday afternoon, when he finished the first nine holes in 38. On the second nine, he was badly off his game and began to soar above par. Shooting for the thirteenth hole, the longest hole of the course, he made 7 strokes, 2 above par. On the fifteenth and eighteenth holes he did the same, registering sixes for both. His score was 84 for yesterday's 18.

Fortune Smiles on Reynolds.

Sam Reynolds of the Omaha Field Club had a fortunate break at the eighteenth hole yesterday afternoon. After driving halfway to the green, he let fly a mashie shot that had more distance than direction. It hit the side of the clubhouse, and bounded back to a position parallel with the green. Had the ball struck lower or higher than it did, it would have remained out of bounds, costing Reynolds another stroke, which he could badly afford at that time. His lay enabled him to pitch to the green and hole out in 5, bringing his score for 18 up to 80. Reynolds' total is 158.

Arthur Bonebrake, the Topeka youth, who registered 73 on Monday, is paired with E. A. (Pat) Campbell in the first round of match play. Last week, in the Kansas State tourney, which had gone to Bonebrake in 1917 and 1918, Campbell eliminated the title holder in the second round, afterward being counted out himself. Bonebrake qualified with 155, Campbell with 167.

THE POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

IRREGULAR LOSSES IN WALL STREET MARKET

Traders Favor Selling Side Owing to Move to Stop Excessive Speculation.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Following a considerable overnight decline in the opening prices, today's stock market hesitated. Some stocks recovered, others broke again and in the second hour such declines 2, 5 or 7 points from yesterday's closing level were fairly numerous. By early afternoon the pressure on the market relaxed, and with it activity fell of fslightly; then, in the final hour, a recovery ensued in which all stocks recovered much of their earlier declines and some went above yesterday's closing.

"The day's net changes were exceedingly irregular. Sterling exchange declined, exchange on other markets was little changed. Arrangements to shipu $7,500,000 more gold to South America were under way.

"It could not be said that Wall street paid any attention to the day's news. It was too busy feeling its own pulse. The attempted strike of telegraphers was watched apathetically; so weer the developments in the United States Senate's spectacular drama, based on teh mystery as to who got the text of a treaty with which everyone else was already familiar, and how it was obtained.

"Discussion continued to converge on the recent repeated rise of Stock Exchange money rates to heights so unusual for these days. When such a movement is witnessed in the excited stages of a great stock speculation, Wall Street can always prove that the tightening of money has nothing to do with Stock Exchange operations.

"Last week we were told that the 11-per-cent call money rate was merely an incident of Victory Loan payments; yesterday's 9 per cent was due to withdrawal of Government deposits, a purely routine matter. But the fact is that such a rise in money has always accompanied this stage of an extravagant speculation and has always been similarly explained away by Wall Street.

"This was so when call money went to 8 per cent at the end of April, 1901. It was so with the 15-per-cent rate of Dec. 4, 1916. Everyone was informed that it was other things than the Stock Exchange to which the responsibility attached. Yet with singular blindness to these assurances, heavy liquidation and severe declines in stocks ensued on both occasions.

"Possibly it might have been suggested, then as now, that loan subscriptions and Treasury operations will have an effect on money somewhat more perceptible than in normal times, if the Stock Exchange nas been piling up on its own account a pyramid of credit.

"From the Government's weekly bulletin of weather conditions in the crop belt it is evident, despite the usual hedging and reservation in the bureau's account that conditions for development of both winter and spring wheat have been excellent since Monday's monthly estimates, as of June 1, were compiled. Harvest, as of June week in Kansas. Corn and cotton have still been handicapped by weather.

"The Iron Age's weekly review of the steel and iron trade again reports disappointingly slow generaly buying, and concludes from the Steel Corporation's decrease of 518,000 tons in unfilled orders during May (to the smallest total in exactly three years) that the export movement of last month must have fallen below the trade's expectations.

"Yet it is also intimated that present prices are bound to hold for a considerable time. Middlemen appear to be losing their recent fear of a shrinkage in values before they can turn over material purchased, and an impression prevails that the autumn movement of grain may make trouble for the railways, unless they place equipment orders now.

"Belgium is buying rails at Pittsburg, and negotiations are on foot for shipment of 20,000 tons of iron to Wales. But the distinct 'steel trade revival,' which in years of coming great prosperity is usually apt to accompany or immediately follow the 'bull movement' on the Stock Exchange has certainly not yet materialized."

CORN MARKET STEADY, DESPITE LIGHT DEMAND

Continued heavy rains in the central corn belt gave futures a steady trading tone here today, despite a large run of receipts. Speculation was largely professional, however as the outside public is taking little interest in the speculation. The market closed firm, 1c over yesterday's finish.

Oats were steady with corn and were influenced by the continued wet weather, which is increasing the damage reports. There was no trade made here during the early market. The market closed firm.

Incessant rains during the month of May injured the Missouri wheat crop to the extent of $1,407,770, according to the report of the State Board of Agriculture and the Government Department of Agriculture.

The actual loss in bushels is estimated at 637,000. Wheat dropped 8 points in May and now stands at 93. The average crop is estimated at 17 bushels per acre, or a total of 71,786,000 bushels, worth $158,647,060.

The wheat crop will be ready for harvesting in the Southern part of the State early next week.

The report declares that agricultural conditions in this State are far above an average. Corn, oats and hay bid fair to make a good yield. The bulletin follows:

The condition of Missouri wheat on June 1 was 93 per cent, indicating 17 bushels per acre, total of 71,786,000 bushels. The reduction in May of 8 points, contributed to Jupiter Pluvius, measured in bushels, was 637,000, worth $1,407,770.

Spring wheat increased 20 per cent over last year to 21,600 acres, condition of 96 per cent indicates 311,000 bushels. Barley acreage 95 per cent of 1918, and 90 per cent condition, indicating 230,850 bushels. Rye condition is 90 per cent against 99 per cent last month, indicating 536,880 bushels.

Oats condition is 92 per cent, or about the same as last two years. Early seeding much better than later. Crop stunted in the Southwest by April drouth. Plants affected by rust, and land badly washed. Green bugs did damage in a few places. Acreage, 1,417,320, slightly less than in 1917, and 93 per cent of 1918, because of the large wheat area. Condition indicates 41,725,900 bushels, against 34,409,000 last June.

Corn condition is 78 per cent, against 88 per cent last June. Acreage reduced, with heaviest cut in the west third of the State. Corn is 78 per cent planted and 90 per cent of a stand. Planting is 10 to 30 days late in all sections, retarded most in north central, East and Southeast. Cut worms are bad. Cultivation has been slow, but most corn has been plowed once or twice. Many fields are weedy and grassy, and some cloddy and hard. No replanting has been necessary on account of bad seed. The crop will be planted late in the river bottoms of the North.

Hay condition 89 per cent, indicating a yield of 1.2 tons per acre. Rains during May helped hay. Meadows are weedy. Alfalfa 96 per cent, and extra heavy. First cutting damaged by heavy rains. Acreage increasing steadily. Clover acreage 521,730 acres, or 93 per cent of 1918. Condition 89 per cent, against 90 per cent last year.

July corn opened ¼c lower at $1.70⅝, then rallied to $1.71¾ bid. September opened unchanged at $1.60¾ and gained to $1.61½. December opened ⅛c off at $1.39¼, lost to $1.37⅞, then rose to $1.39⅛.

Clearances of wheat today: 753,000 bu; corn none; oats 413,000 bu; flour 4000 bbls; wheat and flour 771,000 bu.

Stocks of Wheat in Elevators Is Large.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Total receipts of wheat from farms during the week ended May 30 were 2,657,000 bushels compared with 2,083,000 bushels for the same week a year ago, the Food Administration Grain Corporation announced here tonight. Production of flour amounted to 2,071,000 barrels as against 1,283,000 a year ago.

The total stocks of wheat in country elevators, mills and terminal elevators on May 30, was placed at 65,824,000 bushels, a decrease of 8,665,000 from the previous week. On May 30, 1918, total stocks amounted to 26,537,000 bushels.

During the period from July 1, 1918, to May 30, 1919, total production of flour was 114,215,000 barrels.

COTTON MARKET LOWER DESPITE HIGHER CABLES

NEW YORK, June 11.—The cotton market was nervous and unsettled today. Better cables than due and a private report making the mid-month condition 69, compared with the end May report of 75.6, encouraged some scattered buying. On the whole, however, weather conditions were considered more favorable. Eucouraging private crop accounts were received from the Southwest, and with sentiment somewhat unsettled by the strike of telegraph operators, there was a good deal of scattering liquidation. The market opened barely steady at a decline of 7 to 30 points and soon sold 50 to 65 points net lower, with October selling at 30.02c.

The early break extended to 29.75c for October, or about 88 points below last night's closing figures, but while the weekly report of the Weather Bureau suggested improving crop prospects, prices rallied later in the morning on covering. October sold up to 30.20c around midday, or within 43 points of last night's final quotation.

The market was steadier during the early afternoon, on trade buying and covering, with July selling at 30.98c and October at 30.30c, or about 50 to 55 points above the early low level.

Cotton Opening.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Cotton futures opened barely steady: July, 31.30c; October, 30.52c; December, 30.15c; January, 29.90c; March, 29.50c.

WET WEATHER CAUSES A FIRM MARKET FOR CORN

CHICAGO, June 11.—Wet weather in the West gave renewed strength today to the corn market. Bearish sentiment due to Government steps to check overspeculation led to initial declines, but selling pressure lacked force as compared with yesterday and prices rallied quickly. The volume of business was curtailed owing to the telegraphers' strike.

Opening quotations which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to ⅝c lower, with July $1.67 to $1.67¼, and September $1.59½ to $1.59¼, were followed by material upturns all around.

Oats advanced readily with corn. Covering by shorts was in evidence. After opening unchanged to ¼c higher, with July 66⅝c to 66½c, the market scored moderate general gains. Provisions were lifted by upturns in the value of hogs and grain. Lard especially turns all around.

Empire Gas and Fuel Company

Bond Secured Sinking Fund Convertible 6% Notes

Dated June 16, 1919 — Due June 15, 1924

To be in coupon form in denomination $1000 with interest payable January 1 and July 1; fully registered. Notes in denominations $100, $500, $1000 and $5000 with interest payable monthly. Interest payable in New York City without deduction for Normal Federal Income Tax (not exceeding 2%). Pennsylvania Four Mills Tax Refunded. Callable as a whole or in part at any time on 30 days' notice at such a premium as would make the yield basis 5% to June 15, 1924, but not exceeding 102.

Bankers Trust Co., New York, Trustee

To be convertible at any time at par for par into 8% non-voting Cumulative Preferred Stock of Empire Gas and Fuel Company, except that this privilege will expire 60 days prior to date of maturity, and in the event of a call of these Notes for redemption, the conversion privilege will expire three weeks after date of the first publication of notice of call.

Summarizing from a letter of Mr. Henry L. Doherty, Chairman of the Board of Empire Gas and Fuel Company, we call attention to the following particulars:

The Issue: These Notes will be the direct obligation of Empire Gas and Fuel Company; and other companies, including Empire Refining Company, which, with their subsidiaries, constitute substantially all of the petroleum and natural gas subsidiaries of Cities Service Company operating in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, will join in the execution of the Note Indenture.

Properties: Considered together these companies are producing an average of approximately 40,000 barrels of high grade refinable crude oil daily, a material portion of which is transported in their oil pipelines to their refineries; and through their gas pipelines they are transporting and marketing approximately 100,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily. They own leaseholds on 22,000 acres of fully proven and largely developed oil producing lands in the Eldorado and Augusta fields in Butler County, Kansas. In addition they own oil and natural gas leaseholds on over 3,000,000 acres in various other Mid-Continent fields, most of which is undeveloped, but a substantial amount of which is partially proven.

Construction: In addition to the great value of these leaseholds, there has been invested in these properties in physical construction for oil and gas development, refineries, pipelines, and accessory equipment, more than $70,000,000.

Sinking Fund: The Sinking Fund in the Note Indenture will provide for the retirement each month, beginning October 1, 1919, of 1% of the principal amount of the Notes outstanding.

Security: These Notes will be secured by the pledge with the Trustee of $50,000,000, principal amount of Empire Gas and Fuel Company 6% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, dated June 16, 1919, due June 15, 1939, of an issue of $150,000,000, to be secured by a first and refunding and collateral trust mortgage, of which Bonds $18,772,000 will be reserved to retire underlying bonds, and $51,228,000 may only become outstanding under the provisions of the Note Indenture at the rate of $50 in Bonds for each $100 of additional investment for capital account.

Earnings: The combined earnings of the companies, with inter-company sales eliminated, for the twelve months to February 28, 1919, were: Gross Earnings, $64,504,499; Net Eearnings available for the payment of interest charges and Parent Company Fees, $23,121,297; Annual Interest Charges on $18,772,000 Divisional Bonds, $1,126,320; Balance available for the payment of interest charges on Notes and Parent Company Fees, $21,994,977.

The total Funded Debt outstanding, including the present issue of Notes, will only be approximately twice the amount of the net earnings from operations for the past twelve months.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

SPARING THE ROD.

If children were spanked as frequently as they were in the early days there would be fewer criminals among them.—A New York District Attorney.

When Captain Kidd was ten years old,
Instead of monitory chidings,
His parents gave him manifold
And very comprehensive hidings.
"This 'urts us more than 'im," said they,
"The little darling knows we love 'im.
"But beatin' is the only way
"That we can make a model of 'im."
But licking only made Bill irate
And so he went and was a pirate.

In Jesse James' early youth
His father wondered what could ail him
He was so sassy and uncouth,
And as a cure he used to whale him.
"I'd lick him as I'd lick a mule,"
Old James observed, of his descendant,
"And some day of a Sunday School
"My child will be the superintendent."
But fate quite otherwise had planned it,
The much licked kid became a bandit.

When William Hohenzollern's dad
Observed his offspring act erratic,
The youth's misconduct made him sad,
And so he spanked him, most emphatic.
"Dot poy von mein," the old man said,
"Iss qvite a lot too temperamental,
"I've got to get it in his head
"Dot Princes should be kindt und chentle."
But spanking made the kid no wiser,
He was a blackguard of a Kaiser!

Got One in Your Home?

CAPT. ANDERSON DANA, who has just got married at Plattsburg, is a grandson of the journalist, Charles A. Dana, and in an interview he said:

"My grandfather believed in marriage. He thought it steadied a man. I remember a story he used to tell.

"It's a story about a chap who asked a man:

"'Have you ever heard anything about a machine for telling when a man is lying?'

"'Sure,' said the man.

"'Have you ever seen one?' said the chap.

"'Seen one?' said the man. 'By gosh I married one!'"—Washington Star.

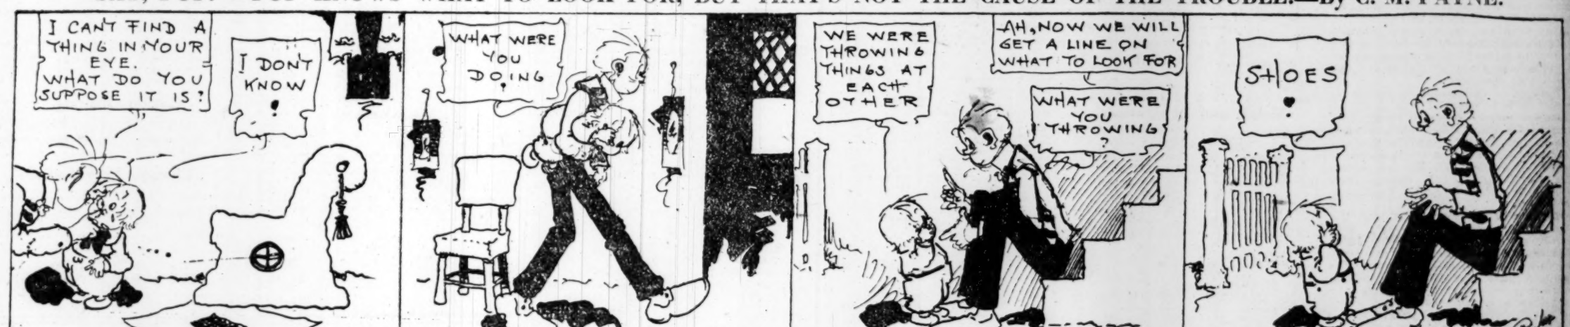

"Cheer up, old man! There's other fish in the sea."

Rejected Suitor: Yes, but the last one took all my bait!"—Life.
